SLASH TARIFF OR PRODUCTION SAYS WALLACE

FOREIGN POLICY OF NATION SHOULD BE DECIDED

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—Secretary Wallace tonight asked that America take a position either for reducing tariffs or curbing production or a compromise between the two and to be prepared to stick to its decision for from ten to fifteen years.

In an address which had White House approval, Wallace told farmers and businessmen at a banquet opening the corn-hog production control program in Indiana, that the nation should make an early but deliberate decision as to its foreign policy.

Adjustments and a planned program will be essential whether the policy adopted its internationalism, nationalism or a combination of the two, he said, visualizing a standard of living "two or three times that which he had in 1929," as within the nation's reach should it pursue a definite plan.

Must Follow Policy

"The important thing," the secretary of agriculture said in the third and last speech of his swing through the midwest in behalf of the administration's program, "once we have fully debated and understood the issues from a long time point of view, is that we follow out the policy steadfastly and firmly in all its implications even though certain people are hurt.

"If we follow the international program, we absolutely must receive great quantities of goods from abroad and must not be disturbed by the clamor of people who are hurt thereby. If we follow the national program, we must resolutely plan to keep 50,000,000 acres of land out of use, no matter how loud may be the outcry of certain carrying, handling, processing and exporting interests.

"If we decide to lower our tariff only part way and reduce our acreage only part way, we must have the courage to do sufficient of both so that the job is done. No matter which of the three paths we follow, it is absolutely essential that our farmers and our laboring men learn to keep step with one another."

He asserted that "it is exceedingly important that business men never again take as large a percentage of the national income for profits as they did in 1929," adding:

"When the total capital of the country receives more than rather modest return, it interferes with the circuit flow of prosperity.

"To get this principle firmly fixed in our minds is more important than to pillory such individuals as have testified before the senate finance committee as to the heartless way in which they betrayed the public and their own better selves in order to make a few million dollars.

New Business Man

"Many of them have posed as public oracles, giving interviews, making speeches, and writing for the public press. I trust the influence of that kind of man in public life is gone forever. We do not want their leadership in either national or international planning.

"We need a new type of business man who is willing to help in working out the national or international plans, whichever they may prove to be and who is then willing to devote all his talents

MUSSOLINI HITS AT CAPITALISM

Forecasts Eventual Abolishment of Italian Deputies' Chamber

BY ANDRUE BERDING
(Ass'd Press Foreign Staff)

Rome, Nov. 14 (AP)—In what was called the funeral oration of capitalism and liberal institutions, Premier Mussolini today forecast the eventual abolishment of the Italian chamber of deputies.

Speaking before the powerful national council of corporations he also advanced a program by which other nations could acquire cooperative states. The chamber, he said, would be elected as usual next spring for another term of five years.

Afterwards, he went on, that legislative body must decide its own fate. It is perfectly conceivable that the national council of corporations should completely supplant the chamber, Il Duce said amidst enthusiastic applause.

"The chamber of deputies has never pleased me," he explained. "In fact, this chamber of deputies is now anachronistic in its very title.

"It is an institution which we have found to be extraneous to our mentality and to our fashion as Fascists."

Denounces Capitalism

Saying that "today we bury economic liberalism" and that "all socialist parties in Europe are fragments," Mussolini suggested three conditions for other nations if they wished a achieve a cooperative state:

First, a single party with perfect political discipline;

Second, a totalitarian state and a transformed "potentializing" of interests and hopes of the people;

Third, a period of very high tension.

The premier denounced capitalism and named Ivar Krueger, the late match king, and Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, as representatives of this system. The ideal of supercapitalism, he said, would be the standardization of the human mind to the level of the greatest.

Contract Unsigned By Wayne, Detroit, Project Held Up

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, asked why the state had not released the money for the widening of Woodward avenue, said today that the city of Detroit and the county had not signed the contract with the state.

With acting Mayor John Smith and a delegation of city officials prepared to leave for Washington to seek federal money for a 50,000 job program for Detroit, it was revealed that the contract, adopted by the council October 31, had not been acted upon. The resolution passed by the council October 31 authorized the mayor, city clerk and controller to sign the contract on behalf of the city.

MEN MISSING ON SUPERIOR SINCE SUNDAY

COLD NORTH WIND WHIPS GREAT LAKES

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Coast guards stationed at the Portage Canal, Houghton, tonight had found no trace of two men believed lost in Lake Superior between Ontonagon, Mich., and Bayfield, Wis., according to word received here.

The men are Arthur "Pop" Lewis, of the coast guard crew at Duluth and Theodore Salinen, of the coast guard crew at Munising. The two have been unaccounted for since 11 a. m. Sunday when they left Ontonagon for Bayfield on their way to Duluth with a picket boat, C. G. 8030.

It is thought the men were caught in the blizzard off Keewenaw point Sunday night. The United States coast guard cutter Crawford has been sent from Duluth to aid in the search.

The searching party comprising Captain Fred Sollman, Walter Berkovich, August Kumpala and Joseph Rundquist left the Portage Canal Monday and went as far as Bayfield, but reported that the lost men could not be sighted.

40-Mile Wind

The pair stopped for several days in Marquette and left here Sunday, November 5, for Ontonagon. The picket boat had been taken from Duluth, Minn., last spring to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., for use during the summer. Lewis was sent from Duluth with another coast guard man to bring the boat back to Duluth. At Munising Lewis' companion was taken ill and Salinen was ordered to relieve him.

The lookout at the Portage entry station tonight reported that a 40-mile wind was blowing, churning the lake into a high sea. The temperature was below freezing, leading to the belief that Lewis and Salinen could not survive.

The picket boat is a 35-foot craft with cabin, and accomodations for only two men. It is capable of making about 20 miles an hour. It formerly was used as a rum runner at Detroit.

Captain Thomas E. Deegan of the Marquette coast guard station, tonight expressed the hope that Lewis and Salinen had been

No Nobel Peace Prize This Year

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Nobel committee of the storting (parliament) decided today not to award the Nobel peace prize this year.

Prizes for outstanding achievement in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and for the promotion of international peace were established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel, the peace prize to be awarded annually by a committee of five elected from the Norwegian storting.

If a prize is reserved for one year, the amount reverts to the principal of the fund, increasing subsequent awards.

Recipients of the peace prize in past years have included Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Woodrow Wilson and Charles G. Dawes.

Former Dry Agent Held In Custody

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 14. (AP)—The Daily News says that S. M. Gurley, former deputy prohibition administrator for the western district of Arkansas, was taken into custody here today as a climax to a week's secret investigation of reports that a protection toll was being levied on bootleggers. United States Marshall Cooper Hudspeth denied Gurley had been formally arrested but was quoted as saying "This thing may have big developments."

Smith Says Visit at White House Social, Politics Disregarded

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith sat down in the White House tonight and over teacups had their first personal chat since the 1932 election.

Before and after his visit, the 1928 presidential candidate insisted to newspapermen:

"No politics, just a personal call."

"We had a nice pleasant visit," said Smith as he walked through a crowd of newspapermen on the front portico of the White House after his visit.

No Politics Discussed

"Well what did you talk about?" he was asked.

"We talked about the size of our respective families and the contest for grandchildren.

"We also talked about the president's forthcoming vacation at Warm Springs. It was entirely a social visit."

"Did you talk any politics?"

"Nobody said a word about politics except one of the children. He asked for another piece of cake."

With that Smith, accompanied by John J. Rasckob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Dr. Raymond Sullivan another friend, entered a waiting car and drove to a hotel.

Earlier in the day the president had paved the way for reorganization of the New York Democratic organization with the appointment of James J. Hoey, a close friend of Smith, as collector of internal revenue in New York City.

Smith was informed of the appointment as he stepped off the special car which brought him to Washington.

"I hadn't heard it," he said, then when asked for comment, he added, "I can say that Mr. Hoey is a very able, capable, upstanding citizen of New York."

"Well, what do you think this might mean?" newspapermen asked.

"Now," said Smith, grinning, "you're getting into politics."

Ambrose O'Connell, an aide to Postmaster General Farley, met the Smith train and escorted Smith to the White House in Farley's automobile.

With O'Connell to greet the Smith party was Reverend M. S. Sheey, assistant director of Catholic university. Smith was to be installed as a member of the board of trustees of the university at ceremonies tonight. Later, he was to address a reception for the Bishop James H. Ryan.

Smith said he came to the capital primarily to attend the Catholic university exercises.

The last personal chat between Smith and the president was at the invitation of Mr. Roosevelt. Smith came to the executive mansion at Albany, then the residence of Mr. Roosevelt, on last October 28. This was the first meeting between the two since, amid the cheers of the Democratic New York state convention, the two had shaken hands on the platform on October 4.

The 1932 election came. Mr. Roosevelt was elected, Smith remained politically inactive and when friends would have urged him into the limelight, he insisted on remaining out of the political picture.

They have met on other occasions since Albany but always under the eye of the public.

The first time Smith saw the president after he took office was on one of these occasions. Smith, marching in the inaugural parade, past the White House reviewing stand, waved his hand to the new president and Mr. Roosevelt waved back. In the seven months since then, Smith has been in the capital at least three times, twice on missions involving RFC loans

EDWARD HURLEY DIES SUDDENLY

Was Wartime Chairman of United States Shipping Board

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—Edward N. Hurley, 69, the man commissioned by President Woodrow Wilson "to go the limit" as war-time chairman of the United States shipping board to get American troops and supplies to France, died suddenly from pneumonia tonight.

First word of the illness of the prominent manufacturer and financier came this afternoon when he was transferred on a stretcher from his Lake Shore Drive home to a hospital.

Hurley

Hurley returned from Miami Beach, Fla., a few days ago after contracting a cold and had kept to his bed. His illness was not regarded as serious until word of his removal to the hospital.

Successful in nearly all the endeavors he attempted, Hurley came to the national notice first as a member of the federal trade commission in 1913, later becoming its chairman. Because of private business demands he resigned from government service in February, 1917, only to be called back again a few months later by President Wilson to head the shipping board.

U. S. FREEDOM OF WORSHIP IN RUSSIA ASKED

RELIGIOUS PROBLEM WON'T PREVENT RECOGNITION

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Religious freedom for American citizens in Russia today was disclosed as one of the subjects on which an understanding is being sought by President Roosevelt before an announcement of Russian recognition.

The chief executive is insistent that nationals of this country in the Soviet state must have virtually the same liberty of worship they have in the United States.

The response of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, was not made known but the White House still felt an accord between the nations was probable before the president leaves for Warm Springs, Ga., on Friday.

Not Serious Problem

Circles close to the Soviet delegation said meanwhile that citizens of other countries were accorded freedom of religious worship in Russia and the question should not be one to stand in the way of restoring diplomatic relations.

In view, however, of the anxiety of religious groups in the United States because of the Soviet attitude toward religion, it was felt Mr. Roosevelt wanted the issue fully settled so it might not be a source of future irritation.

A two-day recess in the parleys between the president, his assistants, and Litvinoff led also to the belief in authoritative quarters that the Soviet commissar might be awaiting word from his government on the religious question and other matters.

In this connection, it was recalled that President Roosevelt in his message to the president of the Soviet mentioned difficulties to be cleared away before recognition. The chief executive made it plain, however, that he did not regard these as insoluble.

State department officials, among them Undersecretary Phillips and William C. Bullitt, special assistant to Secretary Hull, said experts for both sides had been busy during the last two days putting the results of the parleys on paper.

They said quite a bit remained to be done but in official circles outside the scope of the conversations it was felt that work might already have begun on drafting the formula for recognition.

There was no official comment on a Moscow dispatch by the Soviet News Agency which said the Russian government would balk at guarantees on debts and other controversial subjects before recognition had been decided upon.

Campaign Warms Up

In circles close to the Russian delegation here this was regarded merely as a reply to American newspaper articles and news dispatches which intimated the Roosevelt administration might seek such guarantees before a decision on recognition.

It was pointed out that President Roosevelt was well aware of the Soviet position on these matters before he invited Litvinoff to visit the capital and that officials had emphasized since that there

400 Millions Will Be Paid Off Soon In Christmas Clubs

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—The New York Sun said today that the banks of the nation will pay out during the next fortnight approximately $400,000,000 in Christmas club funds. The distribution will go to about 10,000,000 depositors, it was estimated.

This estimate, the newspaper said, is more than 15 per cent below the Christmas clubs distribution in 1932, and marks the third successive decline. In 1931 the figure was nearly $600,000,000 and in 1930, the record year, the distribution was in excess of $680,000,000.

LINDY WILL FLY ATLANTIC AGAIN

But Jaunt Will Be Made by Stages as An Aerial Survey

Caldelas De Tuy, Spain, Nov. 14. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today he is considering flying across the middle Atlantic by stages as a continuation of his aerial survey of the North Atlantic.

He will not fly non-stop, he said, and it was indicated that he may follow the route originally mapped by the late Captain Alan Winslow and followed in reverse last summer by the Italian seaplane squadron under the command of Italo Balbo.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, who were forced down near here by fog yesterday on a flight from Santona, Spain, to Lisbon, planned to continue the journey tomorrow if weather permits.

Examines Motors

Lindbergh today supervised the dredging of the Minho River in order to make possible the takeoff of his seaplane. The river is shallow and rocky.

A crew of Spanish sailors and Portuguese fishermen helped him. The plane was moored to a tree on the river bank opposite the summer home of former Premier Pimenta De Castro of Portugal in the Portuguese town of Valenca Do Minho.

The colonel rose early today and examined the motors and refueled. Later he boarded the gunboat Pradera in order to examine the river for a possible takeoff place.

The Americans stayed aboard their seaplane last night and were taken ashore today by the launch of the gunboat. They were entertained by village authorities.

Aviation officials believed Colonel Lindbergh might halt at Bermuda and the Azores on the return flight. In this way he will have checked flying conditions in both directions across the northern and southern routes over the North Atlantic.

GLASS SALES FOR MICHIGAN TO BE SOUGHT

PRICE LOW ENOUGH TO END BOOTLEG AIM OF PLAN

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—A system of liquor control which will permit the sale of whisky at low enough prices to drive out bootleg competition sales by the glass in the larger centers of population and possibly package sales through designated vendors as well as state stores, probably will be recommended to the legislature by the legislative council.

Members of the council conferred at length this afternoon with Governor Comstock. They hope to have their bill finished this week. Some members said many of the provisions still are in debate; others said agreement virtually has been reached. It was evident, however, that a majority of the council hopes to be able to put a low enough levy on whisky so average varieties can be sold for $1.50 to $2.00 a quart, with fifths possibly down to $1 or $1.25.

Want Cheap Liquor

In its tentative form it was believed the council bill provides for state stores, and also for sales by the quart through specially designated merchants. This might permit sales in hotels, drug stores and so on in certain cases. In sales through state stores the state would add from 10 to 40 percent to cost to provide it with revenue needed for schools. The size of the state "take" may depend upon developments in Washington. Rep. Carl F. De Lano, Republican, Kalamazoo, was designated to go there with representatives of other states to urge a reduction in federal levies, so states may have cheap liquor.

The bill is expected to provide for sales by the glass in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint. These communities could banish sales of this nature by local referendum, but would start with legalized glass sales. All other communities would start with sales by the glass barred, but with the privilege, under a local option clause, of voting for such sales.

Rigid licensing and regulating provisions would be prescribed for hotels, restaurants and clubs in communities where sales by the glass are permitted.

Governor Comstock declined to make public his views on the handling of hard liquor. He is expected to make recommendations when he submits his message to the special session of the legislature November 22.

Regardless of the final recommendations of the council, it was apparent the fight to determine the type of liquor control has only begun. Sales by the glass, sales by state stores, sales by designated merchants, the size of the levy and many other points admittedly will arouse controversy. One hundred and thirty-two members of the legislature will have a right to express their views and offer amendments, and many of them are expected to take advantage of the opportunity.

There were indications that a proposal to allow sales by the glass in Grand Rapids may be opposed by almost the solid Kent county legislative delegation, and substantial opposition may appear to a similar proposal for Flint. Outstate dry members presumably will support moves to wipe out such provisions. Wayne county leaders are hopeful, however, that even if all outstate counties are

Railroad Recovery Conference Is Held

New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—Pierre S. Dupont announced today the formation of "the conference on railroad recovery," which held an initial meeting, attended by 80 industrial and business leaders from various parts of the country, and presided over by Mr. Dupont as chairman.

Mr. Dupont said at the conclusion of the meeting that no specific plan for the railroads had been discussed or formulated, but that "railroad prosperity in the main depends on national prosperity" and that "the large interest of this group is naturally in national recovery and all measures that can help to insure it."

"There is an unexampled opportunity," he said, "for all who have an interest in the future of railroads to get together, reconcile their differences of opinion and agree on a program for the future. Broad, long time solutions arrived at in this spirit would have a reassuring and stabilizing effect on business generally which would help greatly to promote the general recovery for which everyone is striving."

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Coast guards stationed at the Portage Canal, Houghton, tonight had found no trace of two men believed lost in Lake Superior between Ontonagon, Mich., and Bayfield, Wis., according to word received here.

The men are Arthur "Pop" Lewis, of the coast guard crew at Duluth and Theodore Salinen, of the coast guard crew at Munising. The two have been unaccounted for since 11 a. m. Sunday when they left Ontonagon for Bayfield on their way to Duluth with a picket boat, C. G. 8030.

It is thought the men were caught in the blizzard off Keewenaw point Sunday night. The United States coast guard cutter Crawford has been sent from Duluth to aid in the search.

The searching party comprising Captain Fred Sollman, Walter Berkovich, August Kumpala and Joseph Rundquist left the Portage Canal Monday and went as far as Bayfield, but reported that the lost men could not be sighted.

CHRISTIE DESTROYED

Manistee, Mich., (AP)—The freighter, T. S. Christie, grounded in a snowstorm Thursday a short distance off shore, was battered to pieces yesterday in the storm which swept Lake Michigan.

Attempts were being made today to salvage part of the pulpwood cargo, the pilot house and spars and timbers which washed ashore.

40-Mile Wind

The pair stopped for several days in Marquette and left here Sunday, November 5, for Ontonagon. The picket boat had been taken from Duluth, Minn., last spring to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., for use during the summer. Lewis was sent from Duluth with another coast guard man to bring the boat back to Duluth. At Munising Lewis' companion was taken ill and Salinen was ordered to relieve him.

The lookout at the Portage entry station tonight reported that a 40-mile wind was blowing, churning the lake into a high sea. The temperature was below freezing, leading to the belief that Lewis and Salinen could not survive.

The picket boat is a 35-foot craft with cabin, and accomodations for only two men. It is capable of making about 20 miles an hour. It formerly was used as a rum runner at Detroit.

Captain Thomas E. Deegan of the Marquette coast guard station, tonight expressed the hope that Lewis and Salinen had been

No Nobel Peace Prize This Year

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Nobel committee of the storting (parliament) decided today not to award the Nobel peace prize this year.

Prizes for outstanding achievement in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and for the promotion of international peace were established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel, the peace prize to be awarded annually by a committee of five elected from the Norwegian storting.

If a prize is reserved for one year, the amount reverts to the principal of the fund, increasing subsequent awards.

Recipients of the peace prize in past years have included Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Woodrow Wilson and Charles G. Dawes.

Former Dry Agent Held In Custody

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 14. (AP)—The Daily News says that S. M. Gurley, former deputy prohibition administrator for the western district of Arkansas, was taken into custody here today as a climax to a week's secret investigation of reports that a protection toll was being levied on bootleggers. United States Marshall Cooper Hudspeth denied Gurley had been formally arrested but was quoted as saying "This thing may have big developments."

Smith Says Visit at White House Social, Politics Disregarded

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith sat down in the White House tonight and over teacups had their first personal chat since the 1932 election.

Before and after his visit, the 1928 presidential candidate insisted to newspapermen:

"No politics, just a personal call."

"We had a nice pleasant visit," said Smith as he walked through a crowd of newspapermen on the front portico of the White House after his visit.

No Politics Discussed

"Well what did you talk about?" he was asked.

"We talked about the size of our respective families and the contest for grandchildren.

"We also talked about the president's forthcoming vacation at Warm Springs. It was entirely a social visit."

"Did you talk any politics?"

"Nobody said a word about politics except one of the children. He asked for another piece of cake."

With that Smith, accompanied by John J. Rasckob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Dr. Raymond Sullivan another friend, entered a waiting car and drove to a hotel.

Earlier in the day the president had paved the way for reorganization of the New York Democratic organization with the appointment of James J. Hoey, a close friend of Smith, as collector of internal revenue in New York City.

Smith was informed of the appointment as he stepped off the special car which brought him to Washington.

"I hadn't heard it," he said, then when asked for comment, he added, "I can say that Mr. Hoey is a very able, capable, upstanding citizen of New York."

"Well, what do you think this might mean?" newspapermen asked.

Ambrose O'Connell, an aide to Postmaster General Farley, met the Smith train and escorted Smith to the White House in Farley's automobile.

With O'Connell to greet the Smith party was Reverend M. S. Sheey, assistant director of Catholic university. Smith was to be installed as a member of the board of trustees of the university at ceremonies tonight. Later, he was to address a reception for the Bishop James H. Ryan.

Smith said he came to the capital primarily to attend the Catholic university exercises.

The last personal chat between Smith and the president was at the invitation of Mr. Roosevelt. Smith came to the executive mansion at Albany, then the residence of Mr. Roosevelt, on last October 28. This was the first meeting between the two since, amid the cheers of the Democratic New York state convention, the two had shaken hands on the platform on October 4.

The 1932 election came. Mr. Roosevelt was elected. Smith remained politically inactive and when friends would have urged him into the limelight, he insisted on remaining out of the political picture.

They have met on other occasions since Albany but always under the eye of the public.

The first time Smith saw the president after he took office was on one of these occasions. Smith, marching in the inaugural parade, past the White House reviewing stand, waved his hand to the new president and Mr. Roosevelt waved back. In the seven months since then, Smith has been in the capital at least three times, twice on missions involving RFC loans

EDWARD HURLEY DIES SUDDENLY

Was Wartime Chairman of United States Shipping Board

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—Edward N. Hurley, 69, the man commissioned by President Woodrow Wilson "to go the limit" as war-time chairman of the United States shipping board to get American troops and supplies to France, died suddenly from pneumonia tonight.

First word of the illness of the prominent manufacturer and financier came this afternoon when he was transferred on a stretcher from his Lake Shore Drive home to a hospital.

Hurley

Hurley returned from Miami Beach, Fla., a few days ago after contracting a cold and had kept to his bed. His illness was not regarded as serious until word of his removal to the hospital.

Successful in nearly all the endeavors he attempted, Hurley came to the national notice first as a member of the federal trade commission in 1913, later becoming its chairman. Because of private business demands he resigned from government service in February, 1917, only to be called back again a few months later by President Wilson to head the shipping board.

U. S. FREEDOM OF WORSHIP IN RUSSIA ASKED

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Religious freedom for American citizens in Russia today was disclosed as one of the subjects on which an understanding is being sought by President Roosevelt before an announcement of Russian recognition.

The chief executive is insistent that nationals of this country in the Soviet state must have virtually the same liberty of worship they have in the United States.

The response of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, was not made known but the White House still felt an accord between the nations was probable before the president leaves for Warm Springs, Ga., on Friday.

Not Serious Problem

Circles close to the Soviet delegation said meanwhile that citizens of other countries were accorded freedom of religious worship in Russia and the question should not be one to stand in the way of restoring diplomatic relations.

In view, however, of the anxiety of religious groups in the United States because of the Soviet attitude toward religion, it was felt Mr. Roosevelt wanted the issue fully settled so it might not be a source of future irritation.

A two-day recess in the parleys between the president, his assistants, and Litvinoff led also to the belief in authoritative quarters that the Soviet commissar might be awaiting word from his government on the religious question and other matters.

In this connection, it was recalled that President Roosevelt in his message to the president of the Soviet mentioned difficulties to be cleared away before recognition. The chief executive made it plain, however, that he did not regard these as insoluble.

State department officials, among them Undersecretary Phillips and William C. Bullitt, special assistant to Secretary Hull, said experts for both sides had been busy during the last two days putting the results of the parleys on paper.

They said quite a bit remained to be done but in official circles outside the scope of the conversations it was felt that work might already have begun on drafting the formula for recognition.

There was no official comment on a Moscow dispatch by the Soviet News Agency which said the Russian government would balk at guarantees on debts and other controversial subjects before recognition had been decided upon.

Campaign Warms Up

In circles close to the Russian delegation here this was regarded merely as a reply to American newspaper articles and news dispatches which intimated the Roosevelt administration might seek such guarantees before a decision on recognition.

It was pointed out that President Roosevelt was well aware of the Soviet position on these matters before he invited Litvinoff to visit the capital and that officials had emphasized since that there

LINDY WILL FLY ATLANTIC AGAIN

But Jaunt Will Be Made by Stages as An Aerial Survey

Caldelas De Tuy, Spain, Nov. 14. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today he is considering flying across the middle Atlantic by stages as a continuation of his aerial survey of the North Atlantic.

He will not fly non-stop, he said, and it was indicated that he may follow the route originally mapped by the late Captain Alan Winslow and followed in reverse last summer by the Italian seaplane squadron under the command of Italo Balbo.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, who were forced down near here by fog yesterday on a flight from Santona, Spain, to Lisbon, planned to continue the journey tomorrow if weather permits.

Examines Moters

Lindbergh today supervised the dredging of the Minho River in order to make possible the takeoff of his seaplane. The river is shallow and rocky.

A crew of Spanish sailors and Portuguese fishermen helped him. The plane was moored to a tree on the river bank opposite the summer home of former Premier Pimenta De Castro of Portugal in the Portuguese town of Valenca Do Minho.

The colonel rose early today and examined the motors and refueled. Later he boarded the gunboat Pradera in order to examine the river for a possible takeoff place.

The Americans stayed aboard their seaplane last night and were taken ashore today by the launch of the gunboat. They were entertained by village authorities.

Aviation officials believed Colonel Lindbergh might halt at Bermuda and the Azores on the return flight. In this way he will have checked flying conditions in both directions across the northern and southern routes over the North Atlantic.

GLASS SALES FOR MICHIGAN TO BE SOUGHT

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—A system of liquor control which will permit the sale of whisky at low enough prices to drive out bootleg competition sales by the glass in the larger centers of population and possibly package sales through designated vendors as well as state stores, probably will be recommended to the legislature by the legislative council.

Members of the council conferred at length this afternoon with Governor Comstock. They hope to have their bill finished this week. Some members said many of the provisions still are in debate; others said agreement virtually has been reached. It was evident, however, that a majority of the council hopes to be able to put a low enough levy on whisky so average varieties can be sold for $1.50 to $2.00 a quart, with fifths possibly down to $1 or $1.25.

Want Cheap Liquor

In its tentative form it was believed the council bill provides for state stores, and also for sales by the quart through specially designated merchants. This might permit sales in hotels, drug stores and so on in certain cases. In sales through state stores the state would add from 10 to 40 percent to cost to provide it with revenue needed for schools. The size of the state "take" may depend upon developments in Washington. Rep. Carl F. De Lano, Republican, Kalamazoo, was designated to go there with representatives of other states to urge a reduction in federal levies, so states may have cheap liquor.

The bill is expected to provide for sales by the glass in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint. These communities could banish sales of this nature by local referendum, but would start with legalized glass sales. All other communities would start with sales by the glass barred, but with the privilege, under a local option clause, of voting for such sales.

Rigid licensing and regulating provisions would be prescribed for hotels, restaurants and clubs in communities where sales by the glass are permitted.

Governor Comstock declined to make public his views on the handling of hard liquor. He is expected to make recommendations when he submits his message to the special session of the legislature November 22.

Regardless of the final recommendations of the council, it was apparent the fight to determine the type of liquor control has only begun. Sales by the glass, sales by state stores, sales by designated merchants, the size of the levy and many other points admittedly will arouse controversy. One hundred and thirty-two members of the legislature will have a right to express their views and offer amendments, and many of them are expected to take advantage of the opportunity.

There were indications that a proposal to allow sales by the glass in Grand Rapids may be opposed by almost the solid Kent county legislative delegation, and substantial opposition may appear to a similar proposal for Flint. Outstate dry members presumably will support moves to wipe out such provisions. Wayne county leaders are hopeful, however, that even if all outstate counties are

New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—Pierre S. Dupont announced today the formation of "the conference on railroad recovery," which held an initial meeting, attended by 80 industrial and business leaders from various parts of the country, and presided over by Mr. Dupont as chairman.

Mr. Dupont said at the conclusion of the meeting that no specific plan for the railroads had been discussed or formulated, but that "railroad prosperity in the main depends on national prosperity" and that "the large interest of this group is naturally in national recovery and all measures that can help to insure it."

"There is an unexampled opportunity," he said, "for all who have an interest in the future of railroads to get together, reconcile their differences of opinion and agree on a program for the future. Broad, long time solutions arrived at in this spirit would have a reassuring and stabilizing effect on business generally which would help greatly to promote the general recovery for which everyone is striving."

WIFE OF KELLY TAKEN TO MILAN

New Women's Section of Federal Prison Will Be Her Home

Milan, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—As carefully as they might have handled her husband, George "Machine Gun" Kelly, federal officials today whisked Mrs. Kathryn Kelly away from the women's workhouse at Cincinnati, and veiling their destination in secrecy, brought here to the new women's section of the Milan federal prison where she will continue her life sentence in connection with the Urschel kidnaping.

The trip was made by train and automobile, with Mrs. Kelly in the custody of Warden John J. Ryan. Immediately upon her arrival Mrs. Kelly was placed in a quarantine cell, where she will remain for at least a week.

Her Duties Undecided

Warden Ryan said that Mrs. Shannon, mother of Mrs. Kelly, also serving a life sentence growing out of the Urschel abduction, was not in the Milan institution, and said he knew of no plans to bring her here.

When sentence was passed on Mrs. Kelly her only comment was a wish that she and her mother be imprisoned at the same institution.

Warden Ryan said tonight that no decision had been reached concerning Mrs. Kelly's duties. "Everybody here is assigned to a task, and she will do something," he said. There are no factory units at the prison, and most of the duties are incident to the farming of the land about the building, working in the shops, kitchen and laundry in connection with the prison.

The Milan prison was completed last May at a cost of $260,000 Built in the form of a hollow square, it was designed to accommodate about 600 inmates. It was built originally as a detention farm for federal prisoners from the eastern Michigan district and northern Ohio district.

The institution is not surrounded by a wall, its own four sides forming the only enclosure. It stands at the center of a 260 acre farm.

The feathers of birds are, perhaps, more efficient as an armor than is commonly realized; shot are often deflected by the feathered coats of gamebirds.

SMITH SAYS WHITE HOUSE VISIT SOCIAL

to New York City and once as a witness before senate committee. On none of these journeys did the two meet.

The White House visit today came in the backwash of discussion concerning the collapse of Tammany control in New York City and the rumored desire of the Roosevelt administration to rebuild the Democratic city organization along lines of its own choosing.

Smith has been mentioned as a solidifying factor, potentially the medium for welding together the disrupted city organization.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith was installed tonight as a member of the board of trustees of Catholic university.

The former governor of New York was given the oath by William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston. He was named to the board last spring, but installation was postponed until the regular fall meeting of the board.

Smith, in an address delivered at a reception for Bishop James H. Ryan, rector of the university, said the Catholic University of America "has been a great asset to our nation."

"I believe," he said, "that a person cannot be a good Catholic and a bad citizen."

Smith took occasion to comment on himself, and after noting he never had attended college, said: "Of recent years I have become quite a campus figure.

"A number of years ago I was awarded the degree of doctor of letters at Fordham university. Last June, after spending a day on the Harvard campus, I received a degree which less brilliant students must spend years to obtain.

"Now it seems that I am some sort of college official."

Dowling And Gish Visit White House

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP) President Roosevelt got a message from his friend "Eddie" Dowling that he was bringing a film to the White House that he wanted Roosevelt to see.

The "two good actors" turned out to be Lillian Gish and Dowling. They will have dinner at the White House tomorrow night.

ENGLAND WILL ENLARGE NAVY

Must Keep Up to Japan and United States, She Asserts

London, Nov. 14 (AP) The British government announced today it intended to build larger warships, within the limits of the 1930 naval treaty, to meet the construction programs of the United States and Japan.

This announcement was made in the house of commons today by Sir Bolton Meredith Eyres Monsell, the first lord of the admiralty. He made the point that Japan and the United States were building bigger cruisers.

He said the admiralty revised its 1933 program to include two new type 9,000-ton cruisers with increased armament and one cruiser of the 5,200-ton Arethusa class and that revision had been made "following the most anxious consideration and with much regret."

With the world disarmament negotiations apparently deadlocked, the admiralty's announcement was received enthusiastically by big navy advocates who recently have been warning that Great Britain was becoming the weak sister of the seas instead of its mistress as she has been described for centuries.

The secretariat of the navy league commented on the announcement that it was "an indication to the public that the admiralty is watching every development in the naval situation and not sitting back in their chairs."

"One hopes," said the navy league statement, "that this decision will not be used by the scaremongers to indicate a likelihood of war."

Almost constantly, since President Roosevelt launched a United States naval program under the terms of the naval treaty, British leaders have shown alarm.

Stanley Baldwin mentioned the situation in his speech of Oct. 6 in Birmingham, and Admirals Beatty and Chatfield have raised their voices in support of a program for building up the British navy, pointing with concern at the United States.

EDWARD HURLEY DIES SUDDENLY

forces. Wilson summoned his new shipping chief and said: "Hurley, we must go the limit." And go the limit Hurley did.

Hurley also received the Distinguished Service Medal, the honor being conferred upon him for "exceptional meritorous service in connection with the shipment of troops and supplies. Allied nations also gave him high honors.

When the insull crash came, Hurley was appointed co-receiver for the giant middlewest utilities company to aid in salvage of assets for the thousands of investors over the nation.

Chairman of the Hurley Machine company, Hurley long had been a figure in manufacturing, transportation of utility ventures. He was a director for several automobile concerns, utilities, railroads, traction companies, steamship lines, and banks.

His four children were present in the hospital when he died. They are Edward N. Hurley, Jr., Raymond J. Hurley, Mrs. Helen Hurley Ryan, and John N. Hurley. The dead manufacturer's second wife, the former Florence Agnes Amberg, was killed in an automobile accident several months ago. His first wife died more than 20 years ago.

Born in Galesburg, Ill., Hurley started out work after a common school education as a fireman on the Burlington railroad. When the big rail strike of 1888 came he went east to work for a Philadelphia firm selling railroad supplies. It was there that he became interested in inventions and that interest later started him as a manufacturer.

He asserted that "if we finally go all the way toward nationalism, it may be necessary to have compulsory control of marketing, licensing of plowed fields and base and surplus quotas for every farmer for every product for each month in the year.

"In other words," he said, "it may be necessary to make a public utility out of agriculture and apply to it a combination of an Esch Cummings act and an Adamson act. The five governors of the northwestern states claim they are ready for this kind of thing. Frankly, I don't think we should go this far until we have had a chance to debate all the issues with the utmost thoroughness."

TOOL AND DIE STRIKES BREW

Discrimination Charged in Hiring Men, Says Labor Leader

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Threats of a general strike that would "tie up every shop in town" were heard tonight in the wake of the recently-settled strike of tool and diemakers in three Michigan cities.

Jay J. Griffen, chairman of the joint strike committee of the Mechanics Educational Society of America, which called the strike, said that unless employers stop discrimination against former employes who walked out, and put these men on the payroll as they agreed in the strike settlement, a general strike will be called in 36 to 48 hours.

"If a general strike is called, it will be a real one," said Griffen. "It will tie up every shop in town."

Griffen's statement came shortly after Harry Harrison, general secretary of the M. E. S. A., had protested to A. J. Barnaud, district code director for Michigan, that the society was not in favor of the present code for tool and diemakers, reported in dispatches from Washington as about to be passed by the recovery administration. Barnaud, in turn, advised N. R. A. officials in Washington of the society's protest against the code, which Harrison said was contrary to the spirit of the N. R. A.

Griffen said that employers, specifically jobbers, and a few large manufacturers are refusing to take their former employes back, and declared that these men have been given the "run-around" when they applied for work at employment office. In all the agreements between the employers and the M. E. S. A., he said, it was agreed by tool and die jobbers and manufacturers that there would be no discrimination against strikers in rehiring men.

He charged that the employers are trying to make the men work seven days a week and "all kinds of hours."

Phillips said today the conversations were going forward as rapidly as they could in the normal course of events and some state department officials felt all points which might stand in the way of recognition would be cleared away before Friday.

Litvinoff stayed in his room at the home of Boris Skvirsky, head of the Soviet Union information bureau, most of the day. He was said to have a slight cold and sore throat but was improving rapidly and was ready to resume conferences with the president at any time.

The first organized campaign to block recognition developed during the day with the announcement by the American Alliance that it would seek to bring senate defeat of any ambassador that President Roosevelt might choose to send to Moscow.

The Alliance is headed by Mark L. Hersey, a retired major general. It planned to have Representative Fish (R N. Y.), an opponent of Communism, assail restoration of diplomatic relations with Russia in a radio address Saturday night.

RELIEF WORK PROGRAM LAID

Details Will Be Given to Nearly 500 Officials Today

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Nearly 500 officials and relief workers tomorrow will hear from President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, the civil works administrator, details of the plan by which the administration hopes to put 4,000,000 men to work 30 hours a week.

Summoned to Washington to hear at first hand the administration's plan, which goes into effect Thursday, twenty governors, 150 mayors, 250 engineers and other state officials, and 80 relief workers today had signified that they would come.

Special projects that will come under the plan will include swamp drainage in cities, along with highway and street improvement.

Relief for Women

A civil works adimnistration will be set up in each city and county and these will be expected to pass upon and approve the projects. Few of them will come to Washington.

Under the first move in the arrangement the administration hopes to remove 2,000,000 heads of families from work relief and place them on 30 hours a week at the full pay for such work in their immediate communities. President Roosevelt said this would be done Thursday and that another 2,000,000 unemployed not now on relief rolls would be hired by December 16.

Plans for spreading relief work for women, for additional efforts to relieve farmers and to supply food for the 1,000,000 families that will remain on relief rolls were disclosed today.

Under the plans, every state would have a director of women's work. Thirteen of these have already been appointed.

Plans for including women in the civil works administration are to be taken up at a special conference Thursday.

Hopkins disclosed today that the $250,000,000 fund which congress provided for use on the basis of one federal dollar for each three dollars of public money spent by the states was virtually exhausted. He approved six grants today all of them from another $250,000,000 fund which he may use in any way he sees fit for relief work.

One was a bill to permit state banks to come under the federal bank deposit insurance act. Another would allow the administrative board to issue $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 of bonds to pledge with the federal government in return for funds to finance a state institutional building program.

Escaped Prisoners Returned To Ionia

Ionia, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Two youths who escaped from Ionia reformatory Monday night tried to hitch-hike a ride today with a reformatory guard and as a result are back in the institution.

They are Joe Lark, 15, and Terrence Sypher, 21, the former sentenced from Detroit on September 9, 1932, for robbery armed, and the latter sentenced from Washtenaw county for stealing an automobile. They escaped from the reformatory by crawling down the windows of an old cell block which they reached by placing a plank from the laundry building.

After spending the night in a barn they attempted to catch a ride with Ralph Lee, guard, who returned them to the reformatory. This was Sypher's second attempt to escape.

Subway Project Not Full Grant Type

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP) Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, said today he would consider the $87,000,000 application of the city of Detroit for subway construction on the usual loan and grant basis, but would not consider the proposal as an all-federal project.

He pointed out that such applications are never considered on a full federal grant basis. He made it clear there is no foundation for reports he had rejected the application.

A cold north wind carrying snow flurries and the promise of a moderate cold wave whipped over the state today as widely scattered points reported temperatures were dropping toward a new "low" record for the season.

Zero weather was predicted at Sault Ste. Marie to give upper peninsula residents no respite from a snow storm which covered the area with eight inches of snow in the past two days.

In Detroit, weather bureau officials said the temperature would drop to 10 degrees above zero while chilly "snow skies" indicated continued snowfalls would add to the 6.6 fall of the past three days. A wind velocity of 40 miles an hour was reported by officials at the Wayne county airport.

Steamers Aground

The winds which lashed the waters of the Great Lakes heralded an early close to the shipping season. At Charlevoix the fishing tugs Dawn and Velox, out of Port Washington, Wis., made port safely Tuesday after a long battle with high waves and a 40 mile gale on Lake Michigan. The crews of both boats were near exhaustion from their efforts to keep the craft afloat.

The freighter J. F. Schoellkopf went aground at Menominee, but was freed Tuesday night. Off Long Point, Ont., the steamer D. E. Callender, of Cleveland, was caught on a reef. Neither ship was seriously damaged.

At Marquette, in the upper peninsula, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company ore carrier Marquette took shelter in the harbor from a storm on Lake Superior. Highways in the upper peninsula were kept open in spite of a heavy snowfall, and Marquette reported a temperature of 15 above Tuesday night, with prospects for a drop later.

At Leland a number of large boats sought shelter in the lee of Manitou Island. A construction company, after a battle to save its equipment used in laying a crib at Manitou shoals, abandoned the project for the winter, and moved derricks and barges to Frankfort harbor.

On Lake Michigan, the worst storm of the season drove steamships to cover and prevented commercial fishermen from taking advantage of the opening of the fishing season.

Reports from many central and northern state points said conditions were "blizzardy." At Ludington a strong west wind brought additional snow to the three inch blanket which covered that vicinity. Temperatures were at freezing with the predictions that the mercury would drop Wednesday.

Lots of Snow

Conditions which caused most residents of the state to button their coats tighter and put anxious looks on the faces of ship captains, however, brought only keen anticipation to the deer hunters, who Wednesday will start into the hardwoods of the state. Tracking conditions were perfect, with the right amount of snow. Officials at the Straits of Mackinac said they have recorded a 30 per cent increase in hunters ferrying to the upper peninsula over the numbers who made the trek in 1932.

Reports of wintry weather came from other portions of the nation. Snow reached a depth of six inches in several midwest and eastern states. At Amherst, Nova Scotia, it rose to a depth of 14½ inches.

Several inches of snow covered Pennsylvania, and the total at Kane, Pa., reached 27 inches for six days. The West Virginia panhandle likewise was under snow. Snowfall in western New York approached six inches with high winds causing a near blizzard. New York City had snow flurries with temperatures at freezing.

Other reports from the "winter zone": Ohio: Snow to a depth of six inches, 40 mile wind off Lake Erie; air traffic restricted and snow plows working in one district; Wisconsin snow generally with temperatures falling toward zero; Minnesota and the Dakotas light snow with temperatures ranging from four below to 15 above; Illinois temperature dropping toward zero and a new November record, light snow.

Wisconsin Farmers Opposed To Strike

Milwaukee, Nov. 14 (AP)—First official tabulation of votes in the post card poll of Wisconsin farmers showed 534 opposing continuation of the farm strike and 510 favoring it, headquarters of the Farm Holiday association and the Wisconsin Co-operative Milk Pool at Madison announced tonight.

Walter M. Singler, milk pool president, said that relatively few ballots, however, had reached headquarters and that he believed additional returns would show a decided trend toward continuing the strike.

In the official count leaders said, there was a steadily mounting majority in favor of instituting recall proceedings against officials who have opposed the strike. Tonight the count stood 815 to 140 in favor of recalling numerous sheriffs and district attorneys.

The yearly food bill for the animals in the London Zoo amounts to over $75,000.

INDICTMENTS IN KIDNAPING CASE

True Bills Returned in Chicago; Penalty Is Death

Chicago, Nov. 14. (AP)—Indictment of a trio of prisoners for the two kidnapings of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, is expected tomorrow.

True bills were reported to have been voted against the three today after Hackett, who had hired a private detective to track down the band that twice abducted him, had gone before the county grand jury to name his captors.

Those held are Frank Souder, of Benton, Ill., Gale Swolley of Peoria and Julius Augustus Jones of St. Charles. Souder is under $200,000 bond; the other pair have not been arraigned.

If the indictment is returned tomorrow all three will be held without bond, kidnaping for ransom being punishable by death in the electric chair in Illinois.

Of the two true bills, the first was reported to name Souder and Jones for the first abduction in 1931, when Hackett was held prisoner in a house on Front street in Aurora. $75,000 was paid.

The second true bill is understood to allege that Souder, Jones and Swolley seized Hackett last May 27 and imprisoned him in an Aurora garage until he paid $1,500 and promised $10,000 more. Hackett was then freed in Sycamore.

Sought as the head of the gang is Jack Klutas, former university student. Authorities said stories had come to them that Klutas had undergone operations in attempts to change his facial characteristics and the whorls on his fingers to make identification by fingerprints impossible.

CLUES SOUGHT

Los Angeles, Nov. 14. (AP)—Possible clues to the whereabouts of Brooke L. Hart, supposedly kidnaped San Jose youth, were sought here today by sheriff's deputies and district attorney's investigators who checked two reports concerning the disappearance.

Buron Fitts, district attorney, said he was inclined to discount reports a Los Angeles cafe proprietor, whose name was withheld, had identified, from newspaper photographs of Hart, a hatless young man who came to his cafe early Saturday morning in company with "two burly men."

Investigators Jack Chriss and L. James continued to check the report, but they said the young man seen in the cafe apparently failed, in some respects, to fill the description of the missing son of the San Jose department store owner.

High School Girl Swallows Poison

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Police who investigated the illness of 16-year-old Marie Habel in a high school classroom today reported the girl had swallowed a quantity of poison after she said she had been scolded by her parents because her typing was not done correctly. Physicians said her condition is not serious.

Speedy Red Wings Crush Bruins, 4-2 In Hockey Match

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14 (AP)—The speedy Detroit Red Wings swarmed over the sluggish Bruins for a 4-2 victory tonight in the Boston opening of the National Hockey League.

Even the presence of Eddie Shore did not improve matters for the burly Bruins, who were roundly outplayed as they digested their third straight upset of the brand new season.

Sharp-shooting Johnny Sorrell, who got off to a flying start Sunday night when he scored four goals against the New York Americans, put the Red Wings in front by countering twice in the opening session. The Wings were checked in the second but they drove two more shots through Coalie "Tiny" Thompson in the final period, the successful shots coming from the sticks of Frank Carson, on an assist from Happy Emms, and Ebbie Goodfellow, who ended an easy solo rush with an accurate drive from just inside the Boston blue line.

Harry Oliver opened the Boston scoring without assistance in the second session and during the third last minute of play, Nels Stewart fought his way inside the sturdy Doug Young and Stew Evans and scored with the aid of his wings. Joe Lamb and Vic Ripley.

WIFE OF KELLY TAKEN TO MILAN

New Women's Section of Federal Prison Will Be Her Home

Milan, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—As carefully as they might have handled her husband, George "Machine Gun" Kelly, federal officials today whisked Mrs. Kathryn Kelly away from the women's workhouse at Cincinnati, and veiling their destination in secrecy, brought here to the new women's section of the Milan federal prison where she will continue her life sentence in connection with the Urschel kidnaping.

The trip was made by train and automobile, with Mrs. Kelly in the custody of Warden John J. Ryan. Immediately upon her arrival Mrs. Kelly was placed in a quarantine cell, where she will remain for at least a week.

Her Duties Undecided

Warden Ryan said that Mrs. Shannon, mother of Mrs. Kelly, also serving a life sentence growing out of the Urschel abduction, was not in the Milan institution, and said he knew of no plans to bring her here.

When sentence was passed on Mrs. Kelly her only comment was a wish that she and her mother be imprisoned at the same institution.

Warden Ryan said tonight that no decision had been reached concerning Mrs. Kelly's duties. "Everybody here is assigned to a task, and she will do something," he said. There are no factory units at the prison, and most of the duties are incident to the farming of the land about the building, working in the shops, kitchen and laundry in connection with the prison.

The Milan prison was completed last May at a cost of $360,000 Built in the form of a hollow square, it was designed to accommodate about 600 inmates. It was built originally as a detention farm for federal prisoners from the eastern Michigan district and northern Ohio district.

The institution is not surrounded by a wall, its own four sides forming the only enclosure. It stands at the center of a 200 acre farm.

SMITH SAYS WHITE HOUSE VISIT SOCIAL

to New York City and once as a witness before senate committee. On none of these journeys did the two meet.

The White House visit today came in the backwash of discussion concerning the collapse of Tammany control in New York City and the rumored desire of the Roosevelt administration to rebuild the Democratic city organization along lines of its own choosing.

Smith has been mentioned as a solidifying factor, potentially the medium for welding together the disrupted city organization.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith was installed tonight as a member of the board of trustees of Catholic university.

The former governor of New York was given the oath by William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston. He was named to the board last spring, but installation was postponed until the regular fall meeting of the board.

Smith, in an address delivered at a reception for Bishop James H. Ryan, rector of the university, said the Catholic University of America "has been a great asset to our nation."

"I believe," he said, "that a person cannot be a good Catholic and a bad citizen."

Smith took occasion to comment on himself, and after noting he never had attended college, said: "Of recent years I have become quite a campus figure.

"A number of years ago I was awarded the degree of doctor of letters at Fordham university. Last June, after spending a day on the Harvard campus, I received a degree which less brilliant students must spend years to obtain.

"Now it seems that I am some sort of college official."

ENGLAND WILL ENLARGE NAVY

Must Keep Up to Japan and United States, She Asserts

London, Nov. 14 (AP)—The British government announced today it intended to build larger warships, within the limits of the 1930 naval treaty, to meet the construction programs of the United States and Japan.

This announcement was made in the house of commons today by Sir Bolton Meredith Eyres Monsell, the first lord of the admiralty. He made the point that Japan and the United States were building bigger cruisers.

He said the admiralty revised its 1933 program to include two new type 9,000-ton cruisers with increased armament and one cruiser of the 5,200-ton Arethusa class and that revision had been made "following the most anxious consideration and with much regret."

With the world disarmament negotiations apparently deadlocked, the admiralty's announcement was received enthusiastically by big navy advocates who recently have been warning that Great Britain was becoming the weak sister of the seas instead of its mistress as she has been described for centuries.

The secretariat of the navy league commented on the announcement that it was "an indication to the public that the admiralty is watching every development in the naval situation and not sitting back in their chairs."

"One hopes," said the navy league statement, "that this decision will not be used by the scaremongers to indicate a likelihood of war."

Almost constantly, since President Roosevelt launched a United States naval program under the terms of the naval treaty, British leaders have shown alarm.

Stanley Baldwin mentioned the situation in his speech of Oct. 6 in Birmingham, and Admirals Beatty and Chatfield have raised their voices in support of a program for building up the British navy, pointing with concern at the United States.

EDWARD HURLEY DIES SUDDENLY

forces. Wilson summoned his new shipping chief and said: "Hurley, we must go the limit." And go the limit Hurley did.

Hurley also received the Distinguished Service Medal, the honor being conferred upon him for "exceptional meritorous service in connection with the shipment of troops and supplies. Allied nations also gave him high honors.

When the insull crash came, Hurley was appointed co-receiver for the giant middlewest utilities company to aid in salvage of assets for the thousands of investors over the nation.

Chairman of the Hurley Machine company, Hurley long had been a figure in manufacturing, transportation of utility ventures. He was a director for several automobile concerns, utilities, railroads, traction companies, steamship lines, and banks.

His four children were present in the hospital when he died. They are Edward N. Hurley, Jr., Raymond J. Hurley, Mrs. Helen Hurley Ryan, and John N. Hurley. The dead manufacturer's second wife, the former Florence Agnes Amberg, was killed in an automobile accident several months ago. His first wife died more than 30 years ago.

Born in Galesburg, Ill., Hurley started out work after a common school education as a fireman on the Burlington railroad. When the big rail strike of 1888 came, he went east to work for a Philadelphia firm selling railroad supplies. It was there that he became interested in inventions and that interest later started him as a manufacturer.

to bringing about a fair, workable relationship between the income of labor, the income of agriculture and at the same time receive for his services only a small return on capital and a modest salary. He asserted that "if we finally go all the way toward nationalism, it may be necessary to have compulsory control of marketing, licensing of plowed fields and base and surplus quotas for every farmer for every product for each month in the year.

"In other words," he said, "it may be necessary to make a public utility out of agriculture and apply to it a combination of an Esch-Cummings act and an Adamson act. The five governors of the northwestern states claim they are ready for this kind of thing. Frankly, I don't think we should go this far until we have had a chance to debate all the issues with the utmost thoroughness."

TOOL AND DIE STRIKES BREW

Discrimination Charged in Hiring Men, Says Labor Leader

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Threats of a general strike that would "tie up every shop in town" were heard tonight in the wake of the recently-settled strike of tool and diemakers in three Michigan cities.

Jay J. Griffen, chairman of the joint strike committee of the Mechanics Educational Society of America, which called the strike, said that unless employers stop discrimination against former employes who walked out, and put these men on the payroll as they agreed in the strike settlement, a general strike will be called in 36 to 48 hours.

"If a general strike is called, it will be a real one," said Griffen. "It will tie up every shop in town."

Griffen's statement came shortly after Harry Harrison, general secretary of the M. E. S. A., had protested to A. J. Barnaud, district code director for Michigan, that the society was not in favor of the present code for tool and diemakers, reported in dispatches from Washington as about to be passed by the recovery administration. Barnaud, in turn, advised N. R. A. officials in Washington of the society's protest against the code, which Harrison said was contrary to the spirit of the N. R. A.

Griffen said that employers, specifically jobbers and a few large manufacturers, are refusing to take their former employes back, and declared that these men have been given the "run-around" when they applied for work at employment offices. In all the agreements between the employers and the M. E. S. A., he said, it was agreed by tool and die jobbers and manufacturers that there would be no discrimination against strikers in rehiring men.

He charged that the employers are trying to make the men work seven days a week and "all kinds of hours."

Litvinoff stayed in his room at the home of Boris Skvirsky, head of the Soviet Union information bureau, most of the day. He was said to have a slight cold and sore throat but was improving rapidly and was ready to resume conferences with the president at any time.

The first organized campaign to block recognition developed during the day with the announcement by the American Alliance that it would seek to bring senate defeat of any ambassador that President Roosevelt might choose to send to Moscow.

The Alliance is headed by Mark L. Hersey, a retired major general. It planned to have Representative Fish (R-N. Y.), an opponent of Communism, assail restoration of diplomatic relations with Russia in a radio address Saturday night.

RELIEF WORK PROGRAM LAID

Details Will Be Given to Nearly 500 Officials Today

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Nearly 500 officials and relief workers tomorrow will hear from President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, the civil works administrator, details of the plan by which the administration hopes to put 4,000,000 men to work 30 hours a week.

Summoned to Washington to hear at first hand the administration's plan, which goes into effect Thursday, twenty governors, 150 mayors, 250 engineers and other state officials, and 80 relief workers today had signified that they would come.

Special projects that will come under the plan will include swamp drainage in cities, along with highway and street improvement.

Relief for Women

A civil works administration will be set up in each city and county and these will be expected to pass upon and approve the projects. Few of them will come to Washington.

Under the firts move in the arrangement the administration hopes to remove 2,000,000 heads of families from work relief and place them on 30 hours a week at the full pay for such work in their immediate communities. President Roosevelt said this would be done Thursday and that another 2,000,000 unemployed not now on relief rolls would be hired by December 16.

Plans for spreading relief work for women, for additional efforts to relieve farmers and to supply food for the 1,000,000 families that will remain on relief rolls were disclosed today.

Under the plans, every state would have a director of women's work. Thirteen of these have already been appointed.

Plans for including women in the civil works administration are to be taken up at a special conference Thursday.

Hopkins disclosed today that the $250,000,000 fund which congress provided for use on the basis of one federal dollar for each three dollars of public money spent by the states was virtually exhausted. He approved six grants today all of them from another $250,000,000 fund which he may use in any way he sees fit for relief work.

Of the two true bills, the first was reported —to name Souder and Jones for the first abduction in 1931, when Hackett was held prisoner in a house on Front street in Aurora. $75,000 was paid.

The second true bill is understood to allege that Souder, Jones and Swolley seized Hackett last May 27 and imprisoned him in an Aurora garage until he paid $1,500 and promised $10,000 more. Hackett was then freed in Sycamore.

CLUES SOUGHT

Los Angeles, Nov. 14. (AP)—Possible clues to the whereabouts of Brooke L. Hart, supposedly kidnaped San Jose youth, were sought here today by sheriff's deputies and district attorney's investigators who checked two reports concerning the disappearance.

Buron Fitts, district attorney, said he was inclined to discount reports a Los Angeles cafe proprietor, whose name was withheld, had identified, from newspaper photographs of Hart, a hatless young man who came to his cafe early Saturday morning in company with "two burly men."

Investigators Jack Chriss and L. James continued to check the report, but they said the young man seen in the cafe apparently failed, in some respects, to fill the description of the missing son of the San Jose department store owner.

High School Girl Swallows Poison

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Police who investigated the illness of 16-year-old Marie Habel in a high school classroom today reported the girl had swallowed a quantity of poison after she said she had been scolded by her parents because her typing was not done correctly. Physicians said her condition is not serious.

Speedy Red Wings Crush Bruins, 4-2 In Hockey Match

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14 (AP)—The speedy Detroit Red Wings swarmed over the sluggish Bruins for a 4-2 victory tonight in the Boston opening of the National Hockey League.

Even the presence of Eddie Shore did not improve matters for the burly Bruins, who were roundly outplayed as they digested their third straight upset of the brand new season.

Sharp-shooting Johnny Sorrell, who got off to a flying start Sunday night when he scored four goals against the New York Americans, put the Red Wings in front by countering twice in the opening session. The Wings were checked in the second but they drove two more shots through Coalie "Tiny" Thompson in the final period, the successful shots coming from the sticks of Frank Carson, on an assist from Happy Emms, and Ebbie Goodfellow, who ended an easy solo rush with an accurate drive from just inside the Boston blue line.

Harry Oliver opened the Boston scoring without assistance in the second session and during the third last minute of play, Nels Stewart fought his way inside the sturdy Doug Young and Stew Evans and scored with the aid of his wings, Joe Lamb and Vic Ripley.

U. P. TRUCKERS TO MEET HERE

Tariff Recommendations To Be Made at Thursday's Session

Upper peninsula operators of common and contract carrier trucks, holding permits under the Michigan public utilities commission, will meet at the L. & L. Trucking Service offices, 511 Ludington street, Thursday morning, Nov. 16, beginning at 10 o'clock. A luncheon will be held at the Delta hotel at noon.

The meeting is sponsored by the Upper Michigan Permitted Freight Carriers' association, which was recently organized at Iron Mountain. An important decision regarding the tariffs, classification and contract carriers' rates will be decided upon and this information will be submitted to the public utilities commission as suggested rates for this territory.

Claude W. Tobin, Escanaba, inspector of the state utilities commission, stated yesterday that after Dec. 1 the department will invoke its authority to impound all motor vehicles, operating for hire without the necessary state permits. Carriers are taxed on a ton-mile basis as follows: Less than 11,000 pounds, one mill per mile; 11,000 to 15,000 pounds, one and a half mills per mile; and over 15,000 pounds, two mills per mile.

Mr. Tobin said yesterday that privately owned trucks engaged in hauling milk and cream to dairies, creameries, cheese factories and condenseries may be exempted from the tax upon application to the state utilities commission, providing specified requirements are complied with.

Slayer Of Largest Buck To Get Camp Site from I. S. Co.

The I. Stephenson company, of Wells, is offering to give a 40-acre hunting site free to the person killing the biggest buck in upper Michigan during the hunting season. All that is required is a photograph of the buck with an affidavit as to the date and place killed and the dressed weight of the deer.

Colonel W. A. Bergin, state conservation chief in the upper peninsula, and Peter Trudell, Jr., president of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's association, are to be judges in the contest. All entries are to be forwarded to The Stephenson Editor, The Northern Sportsman, Marquette. All entries must be postmarked by midnight, Dec. 15.

The "forty" which is being given away is one ideally suited for a hunting camp. It is situated in Dickinson county, a short distance from the station of Alfred on the E. & L. S. railway and is easily accessible by car. Ford river runs through the center of the land and the natural beauty of the spot is such that it should prove a desirable location for a summer camp.

Already considerable interest has been manifested in this unusual offer and many of the smaller bucks will pass unmolested by hunters in their desire to secure a double trophy—the deer and the hunting site.

A photograph of the winning buck will appear in the January issue of The Northern Sportsman.

Bridge Engineer Tours Peninsula

Lester Millard, Lansing, head of the bridge division of the state highway department, arrived in Escanaba yesterday to begin a tour of inspection of various bridge projects in the upper peninsula.

He will go to Iron Mountain today to inspect in company with Wisconsin highway officials the new interstate bridge over the Menominee river. Later, he will look over the bridges at Republic and elsewhere.

Charles Heffern, Lansing, assistant to the state maintenance engineer, will come here today to confer with Ben F. Sparks, district highway engineer, and other officials, in connection with the federal administration's recently announced work-relief road maintenance program.

Mogan Predicts Sales Tax Will Get 40 Million

The three per cent state sales tax will yield an annual revenue of from $36,000,000 to $40,000,000, under present business conditions, James E. Mogan, managing director of the state board of tax administration, announced here yesterday. During the first three months, the collections totaled almost nine millions, but there are still some taxes that remain to be paid which will add appreciably to the figure, he said.

Addressing a luncheon meeting held here yesterday in honor of Horatio J. Abbott, collector of internal revenue and Democratic national committeeman, Mr. Mogan explained various phases of the sales tax law.

"When the legislature wrote the sales tax bill it probably wrote the clearest and most concise piece of legislation on record," Mr. Mogan said. "It specified in no uncertain terms what the sales tax is, its purposes, how it is to be collected and the penalties that are provided for violations. It provided where the receipts should go; that 12 millions should be for welfare, 19 millions for general state purposes, and $700,000 for the University of Michigan and Michigan State college."

In his brief talk, Mr. Mogan did not refer to the school aid phase of the sales tax. At the last session, the legislature also passed a bill, providing that after the $31,700,000 total had been allocated for welfare, state government and universities, the remainder of the receipts would revert to a supplementary school aid fund.

Mr. Mogan lauded the sales tax as a means of obtaining governmental revenue. While the property tax has a delinquency average of 20 per cent in the upper peninsula and 40 per cent in lower Michigan, he said the sales tax is coming in without any delinquency. It provides an assured source of income, he said.

HE PAYS TAX, TOO

James E. Mogan, who as director of the state board of tax administration has supervision over the collection of the retail sales tax, stepped up to the cigar counter at the Delta hotel yesterday noon and asked for a package of cigarets.

He forked over 15 cents.

"Another penny, please," Ruby Monson, the cigar counter clerk, informed him.

"What for?" asked Jim, registering surprise.

"Sales tax," she replied.

HUNTERS COMING

Red caps and red mackinaws are familiar objects upon the streets at the present time. They belong to the hordes of hunters who are arriving daily to take advantage of the open season for deer. There is at least a foot of snow in the woods at the present time much having fallen within the past few days, ending with a regular blizzard yesterday. Old time woodsmen and hunters predict that there will not be so many deer killed this season as they are becoming scarce and have already taken to the swamps, nature's sanctuary.

COOKS

Cooks, Nov. 14 — George Coppess and son, John, of Sunfield, and Earl Harris of Vermontville arrived here Saturday. They will spend the greater part of the hunting season at their camp near Camp 5. They have been coming regularly to this district for eight or ten years.

All of the potatoes raised on local farms were harvested before the arrival of real bad weather. Only a very few were damaged by frost. There has been a normal acreage and the quality of the crop was about normal. A few are being moved to market but there is a general tendency to await better prices.

Mrs. Swagart of St. John, Mich., has arrived and is keeping house for her brother, Alfred Huber. Her daughter Donna is also making her home here and is attending the local schools.

Louis Miller has received a contract from the Bay de Noc company to cut about three thousand cords of woods products of various kinds, from their property known as Camps 5 and 6 on Big Fish Dam about eleven miles north of Cooks. About 30 men are already at work in the woods cutting. The stuff will be hauled later to the Nahma line from where it will be shipped by rail. This is believed to be one of the biggest jobs of its kind undertaken in recent years and will do much to relieve the unemployment situation.

Members of the local Sunday school are preparing a Christmas program which it is expected will be given in the Town Hall Christmas Eve or thereabouts. Details will be announced later.

Cooks, Nov. 14 — George Coppess and son, John, of Sunfield, and Earl Harris of Vermontville arrived here Saturday. They will spend the greater part of the hunting season at their camp near Camp 5. They have been coming regularly to this district for eight or ten years.

Members of the Willing Workers' society gave a card party and candy sale at the home of Mrs. John Haindl Friday night. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. William Winkel, Mrs. Lyla Reed, Mrs. Otto Winkel, Joseph Raindl, Jack Griffin and Charles Olsen.

Mrs. William Winkel entertained members of the "Dutch Dozen" at her home Saturday evening. Schaskopf was played and prizes awarded to Mrs. Bert Bolchof, Mrs. Albert Heubscher, Mrs. Otto Winkel, Bert Holchof, J. J. Griffin and William Winkel.

Mrs. Emma Lindsley and daughter Caroline, son Orville and Peter Olsen of Escanaba were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Winkel Sunday.

All of the potatoes raised on local farms were harvested before the arrival of real bad weather. Only a very few were damaged by frost. There has been a normal acreage and the quality of the crop was about normal. A few are being moved to market but there is a general tendency to await better prices.

Mrs. Swagart of St. John, Mich., has arrived and is keeping house for her brother, Alfred Huber. Her daughter Donna is also making her home here and is attending the local schools.

Louis Miller has received a contract from the Bay de Noc company to cut about three thousand cords of woods products of various kinds, from their property known as Camps 5 and 6 on Big Fish Dam about eleven miles north of Cooks. About 30 men are already at work in the woods cutting. The stuff will be hauled later to the Nahma line from where it will be shipped by rail. This is believed to be one of the biggest jobs of its kind undertaken in recent years and will do much to relieve the unemployment situation.

Members of the local Sunday school are preparing a Christmas program which it is expected will be given in the Town Hall Christmas Eve or thereabouts. Details will be announced later.

CAN DO SOME GOOD

POLICE, sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys met in Escanaba on Monday and organized the Upper Peninsula Law Enforcement Officers association. Similar groups are being formed in other sections of the state.

The purposes of the organization, as outlined in its constitution, is to secure closer relationship and cooperation between the law enforcement officials of the different communities in the upper peninsula so as to more effectively curb crime, and also to improve better working conditions for the officials themselves. In the latter category, such benefits as elimination of politics in selection of law enforcement officers, pensions and other personal betterments are listed.

If the association does not become inactive after a few meetings, but functions as a wide-awake permanent organization, much good can be accomplished in the way of law enforcement. There has not always been the best of cooperation shown between various law enforcement agencies in the past.

Professional jealousy has been the main reason. In some communities, there exists friction between the sheriff's and municipal police departments; and in others the periodic visits of state troopers have aroused the resentment of either the sheriffs or police.

It always was obvious that the federal prohibition agents were never warmly welcomed within the company of the other law enforcement officials. Incidentally, the dry law enforcement department was not represented at Monday's meeting in Escanaba. It may have some significance, or merely that the prohibition agents did not think it worthwhile to attend, in view of the likelihood that their jobs will not last much longer.

ICKES DOESN'T KNOW HIS POLITICS

OBVIOUSLY, Harold L. Ickes, the Progressive Republican who was drafted by President Roosevelt to become secretary of interior and later given the extra responsibilities of public works administrator, does not know how to play Democratic politics.

Virtually every week, a bombshell is thrown by Mr. Ickes at State Highway Commissioner D. Van Wagoner and Governor Comstock in an effort to speed up the letting of highway construction contracts for the relieving of unemployment. The state officials invariably respond that the delay is due to the bureaucratic "red tape" in Washington. Now, dear reader, you must make your choice. Who is right?

Regardless of where the blame lies, although the Press several times in the last few weeks has made no secret of its thoughts in the matter, it seems that Postmaster General James A. Farley isn't doing his work well as chairman of the Democratic national committee. The genial national committee chairman is entrusted with the task of keeping the party machine well oiled, handing out patronage here and there where it will do the most good, and also to iron out those difficulties within the party so that the Democrats can present an united front. For some reason or other he is unable to stamp out the friction that exists between the Democratic party leaders in Lansing and Mr. Ickes in Washington.

DANGERS ON STREETS

EARLY November snows have lured hundreds of children into the streets with their sleds. Excepting for the small hill at Ludington park, there is scarcely any place within the city limits where coasting can be enjoyed. As a result, the children are using the streets indiscriminately in many sections, sliding from side streets into principal thoroughfares, regardless of traffic.

Another serious hazard is the practice of hooking rides in the back of automobiles. Motorists are asked by police to be especially careful to avoid running down the coasters. Parents are requested to warn their children to keep off the heavily traveled streets. After all, it is the parents' business to know where their children are playing.

THE PEOPLE ORDER

THE value of a referendum system, by which voters can lay their hands directly on an issue which their elected representatives refuse to tackle, is shown by Ohio's experience this fall with an old age pension law.

For years people had tried to put such a law through the state legislature. Time after time the legislators contemptuously snowed it under. The battle went on for sixteen years and each time the law failed.

Finally, this year, fraternal, labor and church groups united to get signatures and have a referendum on the issue. The proposal came to a vote at the recent election—and carried by the overwhelming total of 1,386,107 votes to 526,955.

It is pretty clear that the legislature had been going directly against the strong majority sentiment of the state. But if it had not been for the referendum machinery, the voters would have been utterly helpless.

"HAND OUTS" FOR TEACHERS

CHICAGO'S school teachers haven't been paid in heaven knows when, but at least they aren't going to starve this winter. The Illinois Emergency Relief Commission has announced that it will provide them with food, fuel and clothing throughout the winter, accepting salary assignments in payment.

Right here there is an ironic commentary on the breakdown of our public school system. Suppose you were a teacher, and had worked hard to get the education necessary for your job, and had toiled for years in your chosen profession—and then, in the end, found that your reward was to get packages of groceries and bundles of coal precisely as if you were a down-and-outer subsisting on charity.

Wouldn't you, in that case, begin to feel that there was something tremendously wrong with the profession you had chosen?

The plight of our school system really is one of the most shocking features of the entire depression.

SUPERVISORS RIGHT

REVAMPING of state laws to bring them more in harmony with present day conditions was urged at the meeting of the Upper Peninsula Supervisors' association held in Escanaba. Walter Henze, chairman of the Dickinson county board pointed out that the statutes place heavy impositions upon county government. He said that when the Dickinson county board struggled with the budget to adjust it to the 15-mill tax limitation amendment it was found that the law provided for turnkey and sheriff's fees, the salary of the probate judge, a mine inspector and other mandatory appropriations.

In other words, the voters put a compulsory limit upon the tax levy the while that the laws make compulsory certain expenditures. Add to this the heavy tax delinquencies of the past few years and it is obvious that the problem is one not open to any solution except such procedure as suggested at Escanaba.

Several changes could be made that would be of material benefit. As an example in many counties there is no longer need for a mine inspector. The closing of the mines has attended to that. If any supervision is required with regard to safeguards thrown about the abandoned workings of at such low properties as are working, a district inspector could handle the job without being rushed for time.

When the Dickinson supervisors wanted to make readjustments in the probate judge's salary it was discovered that the county had been receiving less salary than the statute called for, although the pay was regarded as sufficient. The result was the filing of a claim for back pay.

The fee system likewise ...

The Unknown Blond

(By NEA Service) BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER meets a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.

Next morning Bannisteer reads that TRACY KING, orchestra leader in a movie theater, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King the night before. Bannister, remembering the girl in the taxi-cab, is puzzled.

He sees her again that morning. The girl tells him her name is JULIET FRANCE and that she knows nothing of the murder. She is terrified and begs Bannister to help her. Against his better judgment, he agrees. Bannisteer urges her to tell the police her story but she refuses. Then she says, "I've got to go back there!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

She saw at once that he had read something into her words that she had not intended.

"Please don't misunderstand!" she begged. "I—I tell you I don't know anything about what happened after I left. But I've got to get back into that room!"

"That's impossible." Bannister said brusquely.

"Oh, but there must be a way! There must be some way!" The gray eyes were almost black now. "Don't you see," she went on, imploringly, "it's my only chance? Otherwise they'll say I did it! They can arrest me—put me in jail! They might even prove that I—I killed him!"

"But you've assured me that you didn't," Bannister repeated. "Why can't you tell the police the same story you've told me? And I certainly don't understand why it's so important for you to get into that apartment."

"Because," Juliet France's voice dropped almost to a whisper, "I left something there."

"The police will return it to you."

"Oh, no!" The girl shrunk back, horror in her eyes. "I can't tell the police! I can't let them know. I thought you were going to help me. You said you'd do all you could——"

"And getting into Tracy King's apartment this morning rates as distinctly impossible. Don't you know there'll be police all over the place? They've been taking photographs, hunting for fingerprints, turning everything upside down. If you left anything there last night, rest assured it's been picked up by this time!"

"Oh, do you think so?" The girl's lips quivered and Bannister saw that she was near tears. There hadn't been a sign of such emotion before.

"Suppose," he said gently, "you tell me what it was you left there?"

"It was just—a paper."

"A paper?"

She nodded. "A paper that wouldn't mean anything to anybody else, only if the police got it—if they have it now—they'll know how to find me."

"It was a paper with your name on it?"

Again she nodded. "My name," she said, "and some other things. I think I wrote down Tracy King's telephone number. I didn't call it but I think I wrote it down——"

Her voice trailed away. A look of complete dejection had come over the girl. "If they've got it," she went on, as though to herself, "I guess there isn't any use. There wasn't any use of my coming——"

She seemed, to Bannister, infinitely pathetic then. She had shown spirit a few moments before, had seemed self-reliant. Suddenly he felt that he must do something to help this girl with the shining hair and wide, child-like eyes. Her story about hunting for a job, about carrying around a gun because she might want to sell it was preposterous, but, nevertheless, he wanted to help her.

"Listen," he said, leaning forward, "maybe it's not so bad as you think. Maybe there is something we can do!"

"But if the police know—don't you see? They'll find me here and they'll arrest me and take me to jail! And there isn't any reason for it! No reason at all! I can't tell them anything about who killed Tracy King because I don't know. Only they'll never believe me. They'll say I did it! Oh, I read the newspaper this morning and I've heard about the terrible things the police do. The third degree, it's called. They make people confess things they didn't do at all—"

Color had come back into her cheeks now, and some of the spirit she had shown before was in her voice.

"No," Bannister said firmly, "it won't be as bad as that. We'll get in touch with your friends—"

"I haven't any friends," she told him slowly. "There's no one—no one at all."

She saw the look of surprise in her eyes. Impetuously she added, "It's good of you to offer to help me. I know that all I've said must sound terribly queer! I suppose if somebody else told me such a story I wouldn't believe it. Only it's true—all that I've told you. There are some things I can't explain. I can't tell you why I happened to come to Tremont and why I had to find a job. I can't tell anybody. Even if the police ask I won't tell them!"

"I don't see why you're so terrified of the police."

"But—I've just told you! I haven't any friends and they'll know I went to see Tracy King last night. If you tell them about the revolver——"

"You don't have to worry about that!" Bannister said quickly. "They won't hear about it from me."

Her eyes raised gratefully. "I

VISION

Perhaps some day our eyes will open
Yes, even us who gave up hopin',
And we will see, see even heaven,
And see the loved who live there, even
See some good cause for ov'ry season,
For even grief behold a reason,
Though now the tears that come and blind us
Make all these things so hard to find us

I've seen so many people travel
The road and only feel the gravel,
While right beside 'em blossomed roses,
Or, anyway, some flow'r encloses,
I've seen so many people living,
Not ever thinkin', or thanks givin',
That I have come to this decision,
That what we lack ain't joy but vision

Because these things we haven't found us
Don't mean they don't lay all around us,
Because a cloud is on the clover
Don't mean that ov'rything is over,
Because our sight may seem to falter
Don't mean that love will ever alter
Perhaps some day our eyes will open,
Yes, even us who gave up hopin'.

The body of Ernest Patton, who lost his life when the steamer Charles S. Price went down in the storm of last week, has been washed ashore near Thedford, Ont., and has been fully identified by Milton Smith, assistant engineer of the Price who missed death because he was left in port at Cleveland last week. J. E. Patton, father of the young man went to Thedford when news was received of the finding of the body of his son and will arrive here tomorrow evening with the body.

Forest Wells an engineer employed by the E. & L. S., will never have a closer call to death than that which he experienced yesterday, when a bullet from a high powered rifle pierced the handkerchief he wore about his neck. Mr. Wells was standing at the side of his engine at Woodlawn when he heard the smack of a bullet as it struck the side of the locomotive in front of his face. It was not until several minutes later when he took the handkerchief from his neck and found a clean hole drilled through its folds that he appreciated how close to death he had been. It is believed that the bullet was fired by an unknown hunter some distance in the woods.

According to reports from the Copper Country the situation in that section is more ugly than at any time since the strike was started. In a pistol battle between strikers and mine deputies this morning, Harry Barker, a deputy was seriously wounded and two strikers were injured.

Miss Ruth Stack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Stack of this city, served as bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Isabelle Corby to Jarlath J. Graham, which took place at Corpus Christie church in Chicago.

CAN DO SOME GOOD

POLICE, sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys met in Escanaba on Monday and organized the Upper Peninsula Law Enforcement Officers association. Similar groups are being formed in other sections of the state.

The purposes of the organization, as outlined in its constitution, is to secure closer relationship and cooperation between the law enforcement officials of the different communities in the upper peninsula so as to more effectively curb crime, and also to improve better working conditions for the officials themselves. In the latter category, such benefits as elimination of politics in selection of law enforcement officers, pensions and other personal betterments are listed.

If the association does not become inactive after a few meetings, but functions as a wide-awake permanent organization, much good can be accomplished in the way of law enforcement. There has not always been the best of cooperation shown between various law enforcement agencies in the past.

Professional jealousy has been the main reason. In some communities, there exists friction between the sheriff's and municipal police departments; and in others the periodic visits of state troopers have aroused the resentment of either the sheriffs or police.

It always was obvious that the federal prohibition agents were never warmly welcomed within the company of the other law enforcement officials. Incidentally, the dry law enforcement department was not represented at Monday's meeting in Escanaba. It may have some significance, or merely that the prohibition agents did not think it worthwhile to attend, in view of the likelihood that their jobs will not last much longer.

ICKES DOESN'T KNOW HIS POLITICS

OBVIOUSLY, Harold I. Ickes, the Progressive Republican who was drafted by President Roosevelt to become secretary of interior and later given the extra responsibilities of public works administrator, does not know how to play Democratic politics.

Virtually every week, a bombshell is thrown by Mr. Ickes at State Highway Commissioner D. Van Wagoner and Governor Comstock in an effort to speed up the letting of highway construction contracts for the relieving of unemployment. The state officials invariably respond that the delay is due to the bureaucratic "red tape" in Washington. Now, dear reader, you must make your choice. Who is right?

Regardless of where the blame lies, although the Press several times in the last few weeks has made no secret of its thoughts in the matter, it seems that Postmaster General James A. Farley isn't doing his work well as chairman of the Democratic national committee. The genial national committee chairman is entrusted with the task of keeping the party machine well oiled, handing out patronage here and there where it will do the most good, and also to iron out those difficulties within the party so that the Democrats can present an united front. For some reason or other he is unable to stamp out the friction that exists between the Democratic party leaders in Lansing and Mr. Ickes in Washington.

DANGERS ON STREETS

EARLY November snows have lured hundreds of children into the streets with their sleds. Excepting for the small hill at Ludington park, there is scarcely any place within the city limits where coasting can be enjoyed. As a result, the children are using the streets indiscriminately in many sections, sliding from side streets into principal thoroughfares, regardless of traffic.

Another serious hazard is the practice of hooking rides in the back of automobiles. Motorists are asked by police to be especially careful to avoid running down the coasters. Parents are requested to warn their children to keep off the heavily traveled streets. After all, it is the parents' business to know where their children are playing.

THE PEOPLE ORDER

THE value of a referendum system, by which voters can lay their hands directly on an issue which their elected representatives refuse to tackle, is shown by Ohio's experience this fall with an old age pension law.

For years people had tried to put such a law through the state legislature. Time after time the legislators contemptuously snowed it under. The battle went on for sixteen years and each time the law failed.

Finally, this year, fraternal, labor and church groups united to get signatures and have a referendum on the issue. The proposal came to a vote at the recent election—and carried by the overwhelming total of 1,386,107 votes to 526,955.

It is pretty clear that the legislature had been going directly against the strong majority sentiment of the state. But if it had not been for the referendum machinery, the voters would have been utterly helpless.

"HAND OUTS" FOR TEACHERS

CHICAGO'S school teachers haven't been paid in heaven knows when, but at least they aren't going to starve this winter. The Illinois Emergency Relief Commission has announced that it will provide them with food, fuel and clothing throughout the winter, accepting salary assignments in payment.

Right here there is an ironic commentary on the breakdown of our public school system. Suppose you were a teacher, and had worked hard to get the education necessary for your job, and had toiled for years in your chosen profession—and then, in the end, found that your reward was to get packages of groceries and bundles of coal precisely as if you were a down-and-outer subsisting on charity.

Wouldn't you, in that case, begin to feel that there was something tremendously wrong with the profession you had chosen?

The plight of our school system really is one of the most shocking features of the entire depression.

SUPERVISORS RIGHT

REVAMPING of state laws to to bring them more in harmony with present day conditions was urged at the meeting of the Upper Peninsula Supervisors' association held in Escanaba. Walter Henze, chairman of the Dickinson county board, pointed out that the statutes place heavy impositions upon county government. He said that when the Dickinson county board struggled with the budget to adjust it to the 15-mill tax limitation amendment it was found that the law provided for turnkey and sheriff's fees, the salary of the probate judge, a mine inspector and other mandatory appropriations.

In other words, the voters put a compulsory limit upon the tax levy the while that the laws make compulsory certain expenditures. Add to this the heavy tax delinquencies of the past few years and it is obvious that the problem is one not open to any solution except such procedure as suggested at Escanaba.

Several changes could be made that would be of material benefit. As an example, in many counties there is no longer need for a mine inspector. The closing of the mines has attended to that. If any supervision is required with regard to safeguards thrown about the abandoned workings or at such few properties as are working, a district inspector could handle the job without being rushed for time.

When the Dickinson supervisors wanted to make readjustments in the probate judge's office it was discovered that the judge had been receiving less salary than the statute called for, although his pay was regarded as sufficient. The result was the filing of a claim for back pay.

The fee system likewise can stand overhauling. Its ramifications extend into many departments. But if a public officer is receiving a reasonable wage why should he be given extra compensation for performing services properly within his department?

It is no longer a question of what the public or the supervisors would like to do in the way of rewarding public officers for faithful attention to their duties. It is a question of what they can do. Under the law Dickinson county is told to pay mothers' pensions, but they cannot be paid because there is no money.

A appropriation has been made for the county infirmary, but if the tax delinquency average of the last few years continues, the general fund will no doubt have to be dipped into to meet the deficit in this account. The general fund will also have to finance the relief of the indigents now barred from federal-state aid, it will have to meet payrolls and other operating expenses.

The odds are that it can't be done, especially with the statutes adding unnecessary burdens.

The legislature can do no better than come to the rescue by eliminating outdated laws and revising others to bring them into conformity with conditions. The laws now ask for the impossible and the unreasonable. A new deal is in order.—Iron Mountain News.

The Unknown Blond

(By NEA Service) BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER meets a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.

Next morning Bannisteer reads that TRACY KING, orchestra leader in a movie theater, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King the night before. Bannister, remembering the girl in the taxicab, is puzzled.

He sees her again that morning. The girl tells him her name is JULIET FRANCE and that she knows nothing of the murder. She is terrified and begs Bannister to help her. Against his better judgment, he agrees. Bannisteer urges her to tell the police her story but she refuses. Then she says, "I've got to go back there!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

She saw at once that he had read something into her words that she had not intended.

"Please don't misunderstand!" she begged. "I—I tell you I don't know anything about what happened after I left. But I've got to get back into that room!"

"That's impossible," Bannister said brusquely.

"Oh, but there must be a way! There must be some way!" The gray eyes were almost black now. "Don't you see," she went on, imploringly, "it's my only chance? Otherwise they'll say I did it! They can arrest me—put me in jail! They might even prove that I—I killed him!"

"But you've assured me that you didn't," Bannister repeated. "Why can't you tell the police the same story you've told me? And I certainly don't understand why it's so important for you to get into that apartment."

"Because," Juliet France's voice dropped almost to a whisper, "I left something there."

"The police will return it to you."

"Oh, no!" The girl shrunk back, horror in her eyes. "I can't tell the police! I can't let them know. I thought you were going to help me. You said you'd do all you could—"

"And getting into Tracy King's apartment this morning rates as distinctly impossible. Don't you know there'll be police all over the place? They've been taking photographs, hunting for fingerprints, turning everything upside down. If you left anything there last night, rest assured it's been picked up by this time!"

"Oh, do you think so?" The girl's lips quivered and Bannister saw that she was near tears. There hadn't been a sign of such emotion before.

"Suppose," he said gently, "you tell me what it was you left there?"

"It was just—a paper."

"A paper?"

She nodded. "A paper that wouldn't mean anything to anybody else, only if the police got it—if they have it now—they'll know how to find me."

"It was a paper with your name on it?"

Again she nodded. "My name," she said, "and some other things. I think I wrote down Tracy King's telephone number. I didn't call it but I think I wrote it down—"

Her voice trailed away. A look of complete dejection had come over the girl. "If they've got it," she went on, as though to herself, "I guess there isn't any use. There wasn't any use of my coming—"

She seemed, to Bannister, infinitely pathetic then. She had shown spirit a few moments before, had seemed self-reliant. Suddenly he felt that he must do something to help this girl with the shining hair and wide, childlike eyes. Her story about hunting for a job, about carrying around a gun because she might want to sell it was preposterous, but, nevertheless, he wanted to help her.

"Listen," he said, leaning forward, "maybe it's not so bad as you think. Maybe there is something we can do!"

"But if the police know—don't you see? They'll find me here and they'll arrest me and take me to jail! And there isn't any reason for it! No reason at all! I can't tell them anything about who killed Tracy King because I don't know. Only they'll never believe me. They'll say I did it! Oh, I read the newspaper this morning and I've heard about the terrible things the police do. The third degree, it's called. They make people confess things they didn't do at all—"

Color had come back into her cheeks now, and some of the spirit she had shown before was in her voice.

"No," Bannister said firmly, "it won't be as bad as that. We'll get in touch with your friends—"

She saw the look of surprise in her eyes. Impetuously she added, "It's good of you to offer to help me. I know that all I've said must sound terribly queer! I suppose if somebody else told me such a story I wouldn't believe it. Only it's true—all that I've told you. There are some things I can't explain. I can't tell you why I happened to come to Tremont and why I had to find a job. I can't tell anybody. Even if the police ask I won't tell them!"

"I don't see why you're so terrified of the police."

"But—I've just told you! I haven't any friends and they'll know I went to see Tracy King last night. If you tell them about the revolver—"

"You don't have to worry about that!" Bannister said quickly. "They won't hear about it from me."

VISION

Perhaps some day our eyes will open.
Yes, even us who gave up hopin',
And we will see, see even heaven,
And see the loved who live there, even.
See some good cause for ev'ry season,
For even grief behold a reason,
Though now the tears that come and blind us
Make all these things so hard to find us.

I've seen so many people travel
The road and only feel the gravel,
While right beside 'em blossomed roses.
Or, anyway, some flow'r encloses,
I've seen so many people living,
Not ever thinkin', or thanks givin',
That I have come to this decision,
That what we lack ain't joy but vision.

Because these things we haven't found us
Don't mean they don't lay all around us,
Because a cloud is on the clover
Don't mean that ev'rything is over,
Because our sight may seem to falter
Don't mean that love will ever alter—
Perhaps some day our eyes will open,
Yes, even us who gave up hopin'.

The body of Ernest Patton, who lost his life when the steamer Charles S. Price went down in the storm of last week, has been washed ashore near Thedford, Ont., and has been fully identified by Milton Smith, assistant engineer of the Price who missed death because he was left in port at Cleveland last week. J. E. Patton, father of the young man went to Thedford when news was received of the finding of the body of his son and will arrive here tomorrow evening with the body.

Shot through the hip by a bullet from his own gun, which was discharged when the butt slipped from a stump, Richard Morency, a Soo Line brakeman of Gladstone is a patient at St. Francis hospital. He was hunting near Brampton when the accident occurred.

Forest Wells an engineer employed by the E. & L. S., will never have a closer call to death than that which he experienced yesterday, when a bullet from a high powered rifle pierced the handkerchief he wore about his neck. Mr. Wells was standing at the side of his engine at Woodlawn when he heard the smack of a bullet as it struck the side of the locomotive in front of his face. It was not until several minutes later when he took the handkerchief from his neck and found a clean hole drilled through its folds that he appreciated how close to death he had been. It is believed that the bullet was fired by an unknown hunter some distance in the woods.

According to reports from the Copper Country the situation in that section is more ugly than at any time since the strike was started. In a pistol battle between strikers and mine deputies this morning, Harry Barker, a deputy was seriously wounded and two strikers were injured.

Miss Ruth Stack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Stack of this city, served as bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Isabelle Corby to Jarlath J. Graham, which took place at Corpus Christie church in Chicago.

SCOOLS WON'T CLOSE-ABBOTT

Predicts Surplus from Sales Tax Will Relieve Distress

Prediction that adequate provision will be made by Governor Comstock's administration for the schools of Michigan was offered by Horatio J. Abbott, collector of internal revenue and Democratic national committeeman, at a luncheon meeting at the Delta hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. Abbott expressed his belief that the sales tax will produce enough of a surplus to "keep the schools going," explaining he was advised that the new tax will yield about forty millions of dollars while it was at first expected that it would produce only thirty millions.

"The schools are the pride of Michigan," Mr. Abbott said, in referring to the high standards of Michigan's educational system. "They will never close. The governor loves education and fully appreciates its importance."

Praises Sales Tax

The sales tax is the proper kind of tax because it brings in the cash steadily and relieves the burden on the property owner, Mr. Abbott said. In referring to the resentment there is against it at Menominee, Ironwood and other border cities, he predicted that this situation would not exist very long, because Wisconsin and other states would have to adopt a similar tax plan soon in order to maintain their governments.

"All states will have to revamp their tax systems, and they all rapidly coming to the sales tax," Mr. Abbott added.

Recovery On Way

Recovery is now well under way, Mr. Abbott asserted, citing as proof of his statement that prices for principal farm products have trebled in the past year; lake tonnage has increased from 17 million tons going through the Sault locks last year to 37 million for the 10-month period this season; and that internal revenue collections in Michigan have soared from 54 to 91 millions.

Mr. Abbott praised Congressman Prentiss M. Brown of the Eleventh district as the "prize of the Michigan delegation," and referred to John K. Stack Jr. as "just the kind of a man we need to watch the treasury in Lansing." He also paid high compliment to former Auditor General O. B. Fuller, formerly of Ford River.

Strom Is Toastmaster

Atty. Torval E. Strom served as toastmaster at the luncheon. Short talks were also given by Joseph N. Donnelly, Ontonagon; Assistant U. S. Attorney Thurman B. Doyle, Menominee; and James E. Mogan, director of the state board of tax administration. Congressman Brown, Auditor General Stack Jr. and Don Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department, were unable to attend the meeting.

Bids for the recreation hall and larger garage will be opened on Nov. 25. Plans and specifications may be seen at the camp of Co. 1620, Gwinn.

Fayette Summer Cottage Robbed

Joseph Ronkey, 45, of Fayette, is in the Delta county jail awaiting examination before Justice George W. Carr on a charge of robbing one of Fred Van Remortel's cottages at Fayette.

The missing goods listed in a complaint filed with the sheriff's department include: a mattress, pillow, three grass rugs, plate, sugar bowl and indoor toilet.

Says Comstock Is Not Building Large Mansion

GOV. W. A. COMSTOCK

"Governor William A. Comstock is not building a $75,000 mansion in Ann Arbor. He is still as broke as he was when he ran for governor last fall, and he and Mrs. Comstock are living in a modest home they are renting in Ann Arbor."

This was the declaration made by Joseph N. Donnelly, Ontonagon, member of the state attorney general's staff, at the Delta hotel luncheon meeting yesterday, in spiking rumors that have been circulating throughout the state in recent weeks. In his brief talk, Dr. Donnelly, who will be appointed U. S. district attorney next month, praised Governor Comstock and criticized the activities of his opponents to discredit his administration.

"If the people will withhold judgment until next summer, they will be satisfied that we have one of the most splendid administrations the state of Michigan has ever had," Donnelly declared. He added that when the Democratic administration took office on Jan. 1, the state had a deficit of 18 millions, and that to date this figure has been reduced by four millions.

He also refuted charges that the state payroll has been increased under the Democratic regime, citing that in spite of the new personnel required for administration of the sales tax and liquor control laws, the payroll has been reduced by more than one thousand persons.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Thurman B. Doyle also spoke, and asked the public's indulgence for a little more time for the administration to accomplish its purposes.

DEATH CLAIMS NIAGARA WOMAN

Mrs. E. W. Stridde, Niece of Mrs. J. K. Stack Dies Suddenly

Niagara, Wis.—Mrs. Margaret Stridde, 42, wife of E. W. Stridde, manager of the Niagara plant of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, died at her home at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning following a long illness. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Stridde, who had been in ill health for a number of years, was ordered to her bed four weeks ago by her physician, but her condition was not considered serious. She was reported to be improving and her death was unexpected.

She was born Nov. 23, 1890, in Quinnesec, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stack McKenna, deceased. The family was well known throughout the upper peninsula, Mr. McKenna being associated with the organization of the iron mining and real estate business.

University Graduate

Graduated from the Iron Mountain high school with the class of 1911, Mrs. Stridde spent one year at Michigan State college, East Lansing, and then enrolled at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where she received her Bachelor of Science degree in 1915. After graduation she spent one year as a bacteriologist for the Milwaukee city health department, resigning to accept a similar position at Camp Beauregarde, in Louisiana. Having completed her work at Camp Beauregarde, she spent a year in West Virginia and returned to this district in 1921. She was married in January of 1922 to Mr. Stridde and shortly afterward came to Niagara with her husband to make her home.

Leaves Two Daughters

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Jean, age nine, and Mary, age seven; three sisters, Mrs. E. R. Jones and Mrs. M. O. Rowe of Lansing and Mrs. T. F. Ryan of Green Bay; four brothers, E. M. McKenna and P. G. McKenna of Detroit, J. M. McKenna of Iron River and T. F. McKenna of Kalamazoo; and three aunts, Mrs. J. K. Stack of Escanaba, Mrs. W. S. King and Mrs. Hannah Atkinson of Green Bay.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning from the home and at 10 o'clock at St. Anthony's Catholic church. The Rev. Fr. Leo Trojanowski, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in the family lot in the Quinnesec cemetery.

Rotarians Boost Boys' Conference

As in the past, the Escanaba Rotary Club is lending their cooperation to the Older Boys' conference, which is to be held this week end at Ishpeming. An appropriation of $10 toward the expense money of local delegates was voted at the Rotary meeting this week, and members who will be able to furnish automobiles for transporting the boys to Ishpeming and bringing them back to Escanaba were asked to notify John A. Lemmer.

The plans include a wide distribution through the schools of forest fire prevention, detection and control motion pictures from the Department's film loan library; distribution of literature and frequent talks on forest fires by field men of the Department.

"Habit-Buying" Can Be the Wrong Kind

IT'S mighty easy for a driver to let sheer habit carry him back time after time to the same filling spot "without thinking", or just for convenience.

No harm done if its the right spot—but even so, the choice of gasoline—particularly winter gasoline—is altogether too important to rest on that alone.

SCOOLS WON'T CLOSE-ABBOTT

Predicts Surplus from Sales Tax Will Relieve Distress

Prediction that adequate provision will be made by Governor Comstock's administration for the schools of Michigan was offered by Horatio J. Abbott, collector of internal revenue and Democratic national committeeman, at a luncheon meeting at the Delta hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. Abbott expressed his belief that the sales tax will produce enough of a surplus to "keep the schools going," explaining he was advised that the new tax will yield about forty millions of dollars while it was at first expected that it would produce only thirty millions.

"The schools are the pride of Michigan," Mr. Abbott said, in referring to the high standards of Michigan's educational system. "They will never close. The governor loves education and fully appreciates its importance."

Praises Sales Tax

The sales tax is the proper kind of tax because it brings in the cash steadily and relieves the burden on the property owner, Mr. Abbott said. In referring to the resentment there is against it at Menominee, Ironwood and other border cities, he predicted that this situation would not exist very long, because Wisconsin and other states would have to adopt a similar tax plan soon in order to maintain their governments.

"All states will have to revamp their tax systems, and they all rapidly coming to the sales tax," Mr. Abbott added.

Recovery On Way

Recovery is now well under way, Mr. Abbott asserted, citing as proof of his statement that prices for principal farm products have trebled in the past year; lake tonnage has increased from 17 million tons going through the Sault locks last year to 37 million for the 10-month period this season; and that internal revenue collections in Michigan have soared from 54 to 91 millions.

Mr. Abbott praised Congressman Prentiss M. Brown of the Eleventh district as the "prize of the Michigan delegation," and referred to John K. Stack Jr. as "just the kind of a man we need to watch the treasury in Lansing." He also paid high compliment to former Auditor General O. B. Fuller, formerly of Ford River.

Strom Is Toastmaster

Atty. Torval E. Strom served as toastmaster at the luncheon. Short talks were also given by Joseph N. Donnelly, Ontonagon; Assistant U. S. Attorney Thurman B. Doyle, Menominee; and James E. Mogan, director of the state board of tax administration. Congressman Brown, Auditor General Stack Jr. and Don Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department, were unable to attend the meeting.

Says Comstock Is Not Building Large Mansion

GOV. W. A. COMSTOCK

"Governor William A. Comstock is not building a $75,000 mansion in Ann Arbor. He is still as broke as he was when he ran for governor last fall, and he and Mrs. Comstock are living in a modest home they are renting in Ann Arbor."

This was the declaration made by Joseph N. Donnelly, Ontonagon, member of the state attorney general's staff, at the Delta hotel luncheon meeting yesterday, in spiking rumors that have been circulating throughout the state in recent weeks. In his brief talk, Dr. Donnelly, who will be appointed U. S. district attorney next month, praised Governor Comstock and criticized the activities of his opponents to discredit his administration.

"If the people will withhold judgment until next summer, they will be satisfied that we have one of the most splendid administrations the state of Michigan has ever had," Donnelly declared. He added that when the Democratic administration took office on Jan. 1, the state had a deficit of 18 millions, and that to date this figure has been reduced by four millions.

He also refuted charges that the state payroll has been increased under the Democratic regime, citing that in spite of the new personnel required for administration of the sales tax and liquor control laws, the payroll has been reduced by more than one thousand persons.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Thurman B. Doyle also spoke, and asked the public's indulgence for a little more time for the administration to accomplish its purposes.

DEATH CLAIMS NIAGARA WOMAN

Mrs. E. W. Stridde, Niece of Mrs. J. K. Stack Dies Suddenly

Niagara, Wis.—Mrs. Margaret Stridde, 42, wife of E. W. Stridde, manager of the Niagara plant of the Kimberly-Clark corporation, died at her home at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning following a long illness. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Stridde, who had been in ill health for a number of years, was ordered to her bed four weeks ago by her physician, but her condition was not considered serious. She was reported to be improving and her death was unexpected.

She was born Nov. 23, 1890, in Quinnesec, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stack McKenna, deceased. The family was well known throughout the upper peninsula, Mr. McKenna being associated with the organization of the iron mining and real estate business.

University Graduate

Graduated from the Iron Mountain high school with the class of 1911, Mrs. Stridde spent one year at Michigan State college, East Lansing, and then enrolled at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where she received her Bachelor of Science degree in 1915. After graduation she spent one year as a bacteriologist for the Milwaukee city health department, resigning to accept a similar position at Camp Beauregarde, in Louisiana. Having completed her work at Camp Beauregarde, she spent a year in West Virginia and returned to this district in 1921. She was married in January of 1922 to Mr. Stridde and shortly afterward came to Niagara with her husband to make her home.

Leaves Two Daughters

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Jean, age nine, and Mary, age seven; three sisters, Mrs. E. R. Jones and Mrs. M. O. Rowe of Lansing and Mrs. T. F. Ryan of Green Bay; four brothers, E. M. McKenna and P. G. McKenna of Detroit, J. M. McKenna of Iron River and T. F. McKenna of Kalamazoo; and three aunts, Mrs. J. K. Stack of Escanaba, Mrs. W. S. King and Mrs. Hannah Atkinson of Green Bay.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning from the home and at 10 o'clock at St. Anthony's Catholic church. The Rev. Fr. Leo Trojanowski, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in the family lot in the Quinnesec cemetery.

Rotarians Boost Boys' Conference

As in the past, the Escanaba Rotary Club is lending their cooperation to the Older Boys' conference, which is to be held this week end at Ishpeming. An appropriation of $10 toward the expense money of local delegates was voted at the Rotary meeting this week, and members who will be able to furnish automobiles for transporting the boys to Ishpeming and bringing them back to Escanaba were asked to notify John A. Lemmer.

A Discovery that's Bringing Faster Relief to Millions

Here is quicker relief from pain—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known. This is due to a scientific discovery by which BAYER Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass here tells the story. A Bayer tablet starts to disintegrate or dissolve—go to work—almost instantly. This means quick relief from pain—fewer lost hours from headache, neuritis, rheumatism. And safe relief. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, see that you get the genuine Bayer Aspirin. The best way is never to ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always to say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.
What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

"Habit-Buying" Can Be the Wrong Kind

IT'S mighty easy for a driver to let sheer habit carry him back time after time to the same filling spot "without thinking", or just for convenience.

No harm done if its the right spot—but even so, the choice of gasoline—particularly winter gasoline—is altogether too important to rest on that alone.

Depend upon it, the countless thousands of Mobilgas users who repeat and repeat so consistently are backed in their good habit, by the sound*est* and most substantial scientific reasons for their decisive selection.

Mobilgas The Improved "370" —now in Winter formula

"Seasonally Re-Balanced" for Quick Starting is unquestioned first choice because it is particularized exactly for this region of tricky weather variations. Expert refinery "balancing" has accented and emphasized its quick starting and rapid warm-up for winter's special burden.

Smartest get-away and stout power-pull remain in full measure. Further, you can keep shutters well-closed for full engine efficiency without knocking danger, because Mobilgas holds its top "70-Octane" anti-knock factor —highest to be had in any regular priced fuel!

And conclusive reason of all is Mobilgas money-saving—not alone because it costs only 1½c above "low" but because you reap rich mileage with the thin mixture of continuing economy.

Problems of a Business Career

BY ELIZABETH GREGG MacGIBBON

Written for NEA Service

It is often required of an applicant for a position that she be "able to meet the public." This means she must possess the tact and the patience to deal with all sorts of persons at their worst, and not lose business for her employers. It is a tough assignment.

In some businesses a "receptionist" is kept busy all day in the outer office, routing callers to the right persons, arranging appointments and discouraging those whose reasons for "crashing the gate" seem insufficient. The other day for half an hour I watched one of these girls in action. She had her "line" down in great shape and used her head every minute. At least thirty-five men and women came to her desk while I was there, yet she told me it was nothing to the previous day's rush.

Regular callers on any of the officials of her firm she greeted at once pleasantly, by name. She kept track of a dozen men waiting in the reception room, knew for whom each had asked, and as fast as a caller came out from the inner regions, she sent in the one next in line for that particular executive. Almost invariably the men thanked her as they went past her desk, showing that they appreciated her intelligent assistance.

PUTTING QUESTIONS TO THE CALLER

When a new face appeared before her, this competent young receptionist put its owner through his paces. "Your name, please? Whom do you wish to see? What company do you represent? About what do you wish to see Mr. —?" When the answers to these questions failed to convince her that the man's business warranted his admittance, she had a clever way of getting rid of him. She would go through the motions of telephoning the person for whom the visitor asked, telling him who was outside and something of what he wanted. Then, after a moment's wait, she would turn to the caller and say, "Mr. Blank would like you to write him a letter telling him about your proposition." It was done so amiably no one could resent the turn-down.

Women who "meet the public" as office nurses for doctors and dentists, or as counter attendants in public utility companies, have slightly different problems, but they need the same qualities of disposition as the out-and-out receptionist. In doctors' offices the ability to call patients by name after the first visit and to appear to do little favors for them, such as getting them into the private office promptly when they are in a hurry, creates a feeling of good will.

DEALING WITH PUBLIC IN DEPARTMENT STORE

There's no meaner job on earth than being on the exchange desk of a department store, for there one sees the unreasonable, and often the dishonest, side of the shopping public. The saving grace, however, is that, since the stores have almost unanimously adopted the policy that "the customer is always right," the employe does not have to investigate Mrs. Jones' statement that she did not wear the somewhat soiled gown she is returning. One eastern store is said to have in charge of this desk a stone-deaf woman, who nods and smiles at each recital of dissatisfaction, and agrees to make everything right.

Saleswomen in department stores are so constantly "meeting the public" that some of them seem rather "fed up" with it, and to prefer concentrating on their own affairs and interests. In too many stores customers are kept waiting while a conversation about what "he said" and "I said to him" is carried on by two or more salesgirls. Eventually such a customer either asks for someone to wait on her, or walks out. In either case she thinks less of that store thereafter because of the girls' inattention, and it may be a long time before she returns.

Tact, Courtesy, Patience, Memory, Cheerfulness—these good fairies should be present at the christening of every girl whose destiny it will be to "meet the public."

Grandma Rees Will Be Ninety Years Old Friday

An event of interest in the community will be observed on Friday, Nov. 17, the ninetieth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Mary Rees, or "Grandma" Rees as she is known to her friends, both young and old.

"Grandma" Rees, who lives in the old family home on South Eighth street, is one of Escanaba's pioneers. She was born Nov. 17, 1843, in Cardiganshire county, Wales, and came to this country in 1878. Two years later she and David, her husband, who passed away twenty years ago, came to Escanaba, and Grandma Rees has been a resident here since that time.

She will spend her anniversary day at her home as is her custom, receiving the calls of neighbors and friends, which is one of her greatest pleasures. Mrs. Harry W. Long of Gary, Ind., a daughter of Mrs. Rees, is expected here for the day.

Problems of a Business Career

BY ELIZABETH GREGG MacGIBBON

Written for NEA Service

It is often required of an applicant for a position that she be "able to meet the public." This means she must possess the tact and the patience to deal with all sorts of persons at their worst, and not lose business for her employers. It is a tough assignment.

In some businesses a "receptionist" is kept busy all day in the outer office, routing callers to the right persons, arranging appointments and discouraging those whose reasons for "crashing the gate" seem insufficient. The other day for half an hour I watched one of these girls in action. She had her "line" down in great shape and used her head every minute. At least thirty-five men and women came to her desk while I was there, yet she told me it was nothing to the previous day's rush.

Regular callers on any of the officials of her firm she greeted at once pleasantly, by name. She kept track of a dozen men waiting in the reception room, knew for whom each had asked, and as fast as a caller came out from the inner regions, she sent in the one next in line for that particular executive. Almost invariably the men thanked her as they went past her desk, showing that they appreciated her intelligent assistance.

PUTTING QUESTIONS TO THE CALLER

When a new face appeared before her, this competent young receptionist put its owner through his paces. "Your name, please? Whom do you wish to see? What company do you represent? About what do you wish to see Mr. —?" When the answers to these questions failed to convince her that the man's business warranted his admittance, she had a clever way of getting rid of him. She would go through the motions of telephoning the person for whom the visitor asked, telling him who was outside and something of what he wanted. Then, after a moment's wait, she would turn to the caller and say, "Mr. Blank would like you to write him a letter telling him about your proposition." It was done so amiably no one could resent the turn-down.

Women who "meet the public" as office nurses for doctors and dentists, or as counter attendants in public utility companies, have slightly different problems, but they need the same qualities of disposition as the out-and-out receptionist. In doctors' offices the ability to call patients by name after the first visit and to appear to do little favors for them, such as getting them into the private office promptly when they are in a hurry, creates a feeling of good will.

DEALING WITH PUBLIC IN DEPARTMENT STORE

There's no meaner job on earth than being on the exchange desk of a department store, for there one sees the unreasonable, and often the dishonest, side of the shopping public. The saving grace, however, is that, since the stores have almost unanimously adopted the policy that "the customer is always right," the employe does not have to investigate Mrs. Jones' statement that she did not wear the somewhat soiled gown she is returning. One eastern store is said to have in charge of this desk a stone-deaf woman, who nods and smiles at each recital of dissatisfaction, and agrees to make everything right.

Saleswomen in department stores are so constantly "meeting the public" that some of them seem rather "fed up" with it, and to prefer concentrating on their own affairs and interests. In too many stores customers are kept waiting while a conversation about what "he said" and "I said to him" is carried on by two or more salesgirls. Eventually such a customer either asks for someone to wait on her, or walks out. In either case she thinks less of that store thereafter because of the girls' inattention, and it may be a long time before she returns.

Tact, Courtesy, Patience, Memory, Cheerfulness—these good fairies should be present at the christening of every girl whose destiny it will be to "meet the public."

Grandma Rees Will Be Ninety Years Old Friday

An event of interest in the community will be observed on Friday, Nov. 17, the ninetieth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Mary Rees, or "Grandma" Rees as she is known to her friends, both young and old.

"Grandma" Rees, who lives in the old family home on South Eighth street, is one of Escanaba's pioneers. She was born Nov. 17, 1843, in Cardiganshire county, Wales, and came to this country in 1878. Two years later she and David, her husband, who passed away twenty years ago, came to Escanaba, and Grandma Rees has been a resident here since that time.

PLAN ELECTRIC PLANT SURVEY

City Manager Authorized to Consult With Engineers

City Manager F. R. Buechner was authorized to consult with various reputable engineering firms regarding cost of making a survey here relative to construction of an electric generating plant.

Manistique had a similar survey made during the past summer for which $500 was paid the firm doing the work. However, at the Schoolcraft county seat, an appraisal of the distribution system was necessary as it is privately owned. This would be unnecessary here due to the fact that the distribution system is now owned by the city, and this, it is expected would materially cut down the cost of the survey.

The city manager reported on negotiations which had been carried on unsuccessfully with the power company, from which they now purchase current, relative to a decrease in rates and a record of the negitiations was upon resolution written into the commission's file as a matter of record.

Reports on a cursory investigation into the advisability of building a municipal plant were made during the session by members of a special committee named at a recent meeting of the commission. The committee made trips to Menominee and to Manistique, two cities that are contemplating construction of such plants, and obtained much information of value.

While immediate construction is not contemplated, the contract with the power company having three years to run, it is pointed out that it will take some time to have the survey made and to care for all legal details which such construction would necessitate and that by starting now things will not have to be rushed and all will be in readiness to go ahead with the proposed project when the time comes.

A letter from Phil Hupy offering to donate a strip of land along several plots of ground desired for right-of-way purposes in the northern portion of the city was read and accepted.

Gust Lierman also appeared and requested that the city agree to maintain a hockey rink at the boat harbor at the foot of Tenth street. This matter has already been cared for by action at a previous meeting, but through a misunderstanding sports fans believed that there was to be no hockey rink this year.

Presentation of balance sheet statements and income operating statements for the light and water utilities completed the business of the evening.

H. W. Snyder left yesterday for Round Lake where he will spend a week hunting.

Season Opens Today; License Sales Almost Double Last Fall

An army of Gladstone hunters far larger than last year will take to the woods today or some time during the season in quest of deer. This was indicated yesterday when a checkup revealed that 210 permits had been sold as compared with 110 on the day before the opening of season a year ago.

This is attributed to a big extent to reduction of the hunting fee from $3.75 to $2.25 and also to the fact that this fall a rifle may not be carried on a small game permit, whereas a year ago a defect in the game laws permitted this and the situation led many to take advantage of it.

That the sport is becoming more popular with members of the sex reputed to be weaker and more gentle is seen in the fact that the number of women taking out permits has increased.

Many local hunting parties left here yesterday and last night for camp so as to be out at daylight this morning and others are planning on going out this week-end.

Downstate autos bearing hunters and duffle continue to pass through the city. It was reported yesterday that one southern peninsula party was found to be on their way home already having come unprepared for severe weather.

The Whitefish River country is again proving a popular place for hunters and many parties are already encamped there or settled in tents along the way to Eighteen. Land owned by the Northwestern Cooperage and Lumber company from "18" north is again posted and is being patrolled. Hunters lacking permits from the company will be barred from hunting in this area.

WOOD LOT MAY BE PURCHASED

Commission Takes Up Matter; Welfare Distribution Discussed

Purchase of a 40 acre tract for use as a municipal woodlot was conditionally approved by the city commission in session Monday night. Acceptance of the tract is contingent on a satisfactory report as to approximate cordage and kind of wood the land will yield. The estimate is to be made within a week by a competent woods cruiser.

Offer of the property and stumpage at a figure of $75 was made by Eric Johnson and John Hult, owners, after City Manager F. R. Buechner had unsuccessfully attempted to locate a suitable tract. Cedar and pine of marketable size were reserved by the owners in making their offer, but it was agreed that if the city wished to cut these trees at the same time as the fuel was being obtained that the owners would pay the rates usual for cutting of posts and pulp wood.

It was estimated by Johnson, one of the owners, that between three and four hundred full cords of fuel wood could be obtained from the tract. The trees are maple, beech, ash and poplar.

The necessity of immediately obtaining a woodlot was stressed by the city manager. Fuel must be furnished to a number of widows and others. If purchased, men could be put to work cutting and the project would provide some work relief. Trucking the wood to Gladstone around the head of the bay could be done, it is estimated at about two dollars per cord and after the bay freezes, for half of that so that the cost per cord should not go over three dollars and possibly less.

Merchants Appear

A group of merchants including R. R. Micks, Matt Gunter and Jens Wheaton appeared before the commission relative to distribution of welfare orders. A table showing the average amount of orders issued per month for the last three months and average amount per month which each of sixteen different local merchants received was presented for perusal of the group. The figures revealed that two stores were receiving a far greater amount of the business than any of the others. However, it was explained by City Manager Buechner that this was through no fault of the welfare department.

In cases where the applicant for aid has sworn that he is indebted to no local grocer or butcher, it is the policy of the local welfare department to allow the person to have the order issued upon a store of their own choosing. In these instances, personal preference as to owner or the attraction of lower prices. It was believed, guided the individuals and were pointed to as possible reasons for a good share of the orders going to certain stores.

Where the case history card of the applicant reveals that he owes a merchant a grocery bill, it is insisted that the order be drawn on the store to which the person is indebted. One of the merchants present stated he believed that some persons were receiving orders on stores other than the one to which they were indebted. The possibility of the person being indebted to more than one was then pointed out and in cases where the person owes more than one, it was offered to rotate the orders among the various creditors so far as possible.

DEER HUNTERS READY FOR KILL

'33 Season Opens Today As Hundreds Apply for Licenses Here

This morning the annual trek of the red coat army will invade the lair of Michigan's deer in the beginning of a two week campaign which is estimated to bring a kill of approximately 20,000 male animals. Last year some 55,000 deer hunters took to the woods and with somewhat bettered business conditions this year, it is estimated that approximately 60,000 persons will take out deer permits. Although it is almost impossible to obtain an exact check on the number of deer killed, it is estimated that one buck is shot for every three hunters.

Large groups of local hunters who have spent considerable time the past several weeks putting their camps in ship-shape condition for their week or two of hibernation away from the haunts of civilization, left yesterday and earlier this week in order to be on the grounds ready for the opening day's festivities. Monday it was reported that approximately 200 deer licenses were sold at the two local agencies to resident hunters.

Purchase Supplies

Swarms of lower peninsula and out-of-state hunters have been flooding the city the early part of this week, many of them obtaining huge supplies of provisions, clothing, and hunting supplies at local stores at their last stop before venturing into the woods. Resident licenses this year have been reduced to $2.25, while non-resident licenses will cost purchasers $25.00.

Operating under the one-buck law, killing of does is illegal, and only animals having antlers three or more inches in length are legally subject to hunters' bullets. Dogs may not be used and it is unlawful to hunt or pursue deer while in the water. The use of artificial light is of course also strictly prohibited. The season closes on November 30.

Ideal weather conditions are indicated for today's opening, a few inches of snow enabling hunters to track deer for the first time in several seasons. Snow generally prevails toward the latter part of the season however. Weather is also sufficiently cold to keep meat from spoiling.

Yesterday it was reported that a continuous arrival of lower peninsula hunters caused a waiting line of cars on the Mackinac side of the Straits over two miles in length.

Special Election to be Held Prior to December 10 on Utility Projects

A special election for the purpose of ascertaining the opinion of Manistique voters in regard to the construction of two public utility projects, a sewage disposal plant and an electric distribution system, under the public works act of the NRA, will be held in the early part of December sometime prior to the tenth, according to action taken by the city council at the regular meeting held Monday evening at which considerable discussion was had on both projects.

The proposal for a preliminary survey for a sewage disposal plant at a cost of $300 from the firm of consulting engineers known as Shoecraft, Drury, and McNamee, of Ann Arbor, was accepted upon unanimous vote upon motion of Councilman Cayia, supported by Councilman Lied, with Mayor Harry Eriksen being authorized to make contract with the firm immediately. Notification of acceptance was sent out yesterday morning and a representative of the firm is expected to arrive in the city preparatory to making the survey, within the next several days. Other firms which submitted proposals are Suhr, Berryman, Peterson and Suhr, of Chicago, and Alvord, Burdick and Howson, another Chicago firm.

Vote on Separately

The special election, at which both projects will be voted upon separately, will be held immediately after figures are received of the cost of the sewage disposal system and will not await the completion of the entire survey. A survey of the cost of a generation and distribution plant for electrical energy, was made this summer.

The proposal received from Shoecraft, Drury, and McNamee, calls for the sum of $100 for drawings, detailed estimates of cost, and other necessary data needed in the application for the federal loan if after the project has been approved by the electorate. This sum, together with the $300 paid for the preliminary work, would be credited as a part payment on the larger work of preparing plans and supervision of construction, the proposal states.

In the event that the project is endorsed by the voters, it was stated that storm water sewers would be required to be constructed in various sections of the city, especially in the business districts of the east and west side where present sewers seem to be inadequate to handle water following a heavy rainfall.

The communication received from Schoemaker, Drury, and McNamee, concerning a survey and report on sewerage, sewage disposal, and charges made for the service, reads in part as follows:

In order to make a survey it will be necessary for some member of our firm to visit your city and spend a few days in the field. Following the visit, using information which the city has made available to us in the form of existing sewers, a general plan for sewage and sewage disposal can be prepared and estimated and reported upon. This report, when finished, would be of a nature such that it can be used as a basis for a popular vote by the electorate and as a basis for an application to the federal government for financing the work under the Federal Emergency Public Works Administration.

We will make a study and report immediately, and for this service will charge $300 payable upon completion and acceptance of the report. If the city decides to go ahead on the matter and obtains a favorable vote from the electorate, our firm will be in a position to make out that part of the application which relates to engineering matters.

We will cooperate with city officials, furnishing complete and detailed estimates of costs and the necessary drawings to go in the application. An additional charge of $100 will be made, payable upon the city's convenience after the application has been made.

If the city is successful in financing the work and decides to proceed with construction, upon proper authorization, the necessary plans, specifications, contract documents, and the like, will be prepared and we will also furnish the necessary engineering supervision of construction, all in accordance with the best engineering practice and in harmony with the wishes of the city in these matters.

The engineering fees which will be charged for the work will be in harmony with the minimum fees set up in the proposed code of fair competition for the Professional Engineers' Division of the Construction Industry submitted to the NRA. . . . .

It is understood that in the working out of the engineering fees, the amount of $400, which the city will have previously paid for the preliminary work, will be taken into account and will be credited as a part payment on the larger work of preparing plans and supervising construction.

It is impossible to estimate as to what the sewage disposal system will cost prior to a survey. With our general knowledge of your city, however, we can say that in our opinion the sewage treatment plant can be of a rather simple type and the entire problem can be handled at a reasonable cost and a considerably lower cost than prevails in many cities of this size. You have natural advantages of a large river for the final disposition of treated sewage and with this the advantage that you have a relatively small number of sewer outlets which will have to be taken care of. . . . .

TOWNSHIPS GET STATE FUNDS

Homestead Land Money Amounts to $9,067.38 for County

State funds as provided by the homestead land statute according to provisions of Act 116, Public Acts of 1917 as amended by Act 305, are swelling the coffers of township treasurers this week as the sum of $9,067.38, based upon an allotment of seven cents per acre, were mailed Monday afternoon by Laura Williams, county treasurer. According to the act, the sum of ten cents per acre is stipulated to be paid the several townships by the state for lands returned for delinquent taxes now in the hands of the state conservation department.

Inability of the state to pay the full amount named, resulted in the payment of eight and three-quarters cents last year and seven cents per acre this year. Largest checks were mailed to Seney, Manistique, and Doyle townships.

Respective amounts are as follows:

CLIFFS COMPANY SUBMITS OFFER

Tentative Figures Provide for Energy at 2c Per K.W.H.

A tentative offer to provide electrical energy to the city of Manistique at a rate of two cents per kilowatt hour was received here by the city council from the Cliffs Power and Light company it was announced Monday evening at the regular meeting of the city council. The offer was made in response to an inquiry by Mayor Harry Eriksen.

It was stated in the proposal, however, that figures submitted were not to be accepted as final or considered as the basis for a contract until further consideration was given to the matter by officials of the Cliffs company, other than O. D. McClure, general manager, author of the communication. It was further stated that the company would have to have some idea of the amount of consumption before considering the building of transmission lines.

It is understood that the following figures submitted by Mr. McClure are based upon the construction of transmission lines to the city by the power company and delivered to the city limits: two cents per KWH for 500,000 KWH annually, and if the quantity is raised to 1,000,000 KWH a price of one and three-quarters cents would be made, intermediate steps to be prorated in steps of 100,000 KWH.

Must Purchase Both

At Monday night's meeting it was revealed that the council on October 27 asked the Manistique Light and Power company whether their distribution plant was for sale, and if so, asked for an estimate as to the probable selling price. The following letter in regard to the inquiry was received from Edward Sheahan, superintendent of the Manistique Pulp and Paper company, and read at the meeting:

Honorable Mayor and City Council, Manistique, Michigan.
Gentlemen:

Your letter of October 27th has been given careful consideration by the officers of our company.

We wish you to understand at the outset that The Tribune is sincerely interested in your proposal, but there are a number of factors that bring up obstacles to agreement.

As you are aware, The Tribune for the last two years has operated its plant in Manistique at an enormous loss. In spite of the heavy drain we have kept the plant operating, to the benefit of your citizens in the way of payrolls and tax receipts. In the face of the most stringent times, when other plants closed down, we did everything we could to carry on.

We are still operating the plant notwithstanding these difficulties, and as a result have been forced by circumstances to deal with this matter in a specific light. We wish to emphasize that the investments of The Tribune in Manistique are in fact a single investment. We regret we are unable to treat the matter in any other light. You are aware that we once made an attempt to sell a part of the investment but it did not work out satisfactorily. From our experience on that occasion, we feel that an attempt to divorce the properties during these times is strictly inadvisable.

If we are to consider the sale of the utility property now, we would want to do so only in connection with the sale of the entire investment—the paper mill and light plant as well. If there is any possibility of your being able to negotiate a sale of the whole investment in Manistique, you will find us willing and ready to talk, and on a basis that will be eminentiy fair, and at a surprising discount, in view of the heavy investment in your city.

Under these considerations, if you have suggestions to offer, please let me know in time to make arrangements to have our Minneapolis officers present.

Respectfully,
Manistique Pulp and Paper Co.
Per: Edward Sheahan.

Members of the city council are of the opinion that construction of a distribution plant instead of both a generating and distribution plant would be more favorable at this time because electrical energy can be purchased about as cheaply as it can be generated and more immediate profit could be derived in proportion to the size of the investment.

Voters' opinion on the plausibility of the construction of a municipal distribution plant will be obtained in a special election to be held during the first week of December when another proposed public works project will be voted on—a municipal sewage disposal plant.

PLAN ELECTRIC PLANT SURVEY

City Manager Authorized to Consult With Engineers

City Manager F. R. Buechner was authorized to consult with various reputable engineering firms regarding cost of making a survey here relative to construction of an electric generating plant.

Manistique had a similar survey made during the past summer for which $500 was paid the firm doing the work. However, at the Schoolcraft county seat, an appraisal of the distribution system was necessary as it is privately owned. This would be unnecessary here due to the fact that the distribution system is now owned by the city, and this, it is expected would materially cut down the cost of the survey.

The city manager reported on negotiations which had been carried on unsuccessfully with the power company, from which they now purchase current, relative to a decrease in rates and a record of the negitiations was upon resolution written into the commission's file as a matter of record.

Reports on a cursory investigation into the advisability of building a municipal plant were made during the session by members of a special committee named at a recent meeting of the commission. The committee made trips to Menominee and to Manistique, two cities that are contemplating construction of such plants, and obtained much information of value.

While immediate construction is not contemplated, the contract with the power company having three years to run, it is pointed out that it will take some time to have the survey made and to care for all legal details which such construction would necessitate and that by starting now things will not have to be rushed and all will be in readiness to go ahead with the proposed project when the time comes.

A letter from Phil Nupy offering to donate a strip of land along several plots of ground desired for right-of-way purposes in the northern portion of the city was read and accepted.

Gust Lierman also appeared and requested that the city agree to maintain a hockey rink at the boat harbor at the foot of Tenth street. This matter has already been cared for by action at a previous meeting, but through a misunderstanding sports fans believed that there was to be no hockey rink this year.

Presentation of balance sheet statements and income operating statements for the light and water utilities completed the business of the evening.

H. W. Snyder left yesterday for Round Lake where he will spend a week hunting.

Season Opens Today; License Sales Almost Double Last Fall

An army of Gladstone hunters far larger than last year will take to the woods today or some time during the season in quest of deer. This was indicated yesterday when a checkup revealed that 210 permits had been sold as compared with 110 on the day before the opening of season a year ago.

This is attributed to a big extent to reduction of the hunting fee from $3.75 to $2.25 and also to the fact that this fall a rifle may not be carried on a small game permit, whereas a year ago a defect in the game laws permitted this and the situation led many to take advantage of it.

That the sport is becoming more popular with members of the sex reputed to be weaker and more gentle is seen in the fact that the number of women taking out permits has increased.

Many local hunting parties left here yesterday and last night for camp so as to be out at daylight this morning and others are planning on going out this week-end.

Downstate autos bearing hunters and duffle continue to pass through the city. It was reported yesterday that one southern peninsula party was found to be on their way home already having come unprepared for severe weather.

The Whitefish River country is again proving a popular place for hunters and many parties are already encamped there or settled in tents along the way to Eighteen. Land owned by the Northwestern Cooperage and Lumber company from "18" north is again posted and is being patrolled. Hunters lacking permits from the company will be barred from hunting in this area.

WOOD LOT MAY BE PURCHASED

Commission Takes Up Matter; Welfare Distribution Discussed

Purchase of a 40 acre tract for use as a municipal woodlot was conditionally approved by the city commission in session Monday night. Acceptance of the tract is contingent on a satisfactory report as to approximate cordage and kind of wood the land will yield. The estimate is to be made within a week by a competent woods cruiser.

Offer of the property and stumpage at a figure of $75 was made by Eric Johnson and John Hult, owners, after City Manager F. R. Buechner had unsuccessfully attempted to locate a suitable tract. Cedar and pine of marketable size were reserved by the owners in making their offer, but it was agreed that if the city wished to cut these trees at the same time as the fuel was being obtained that the owners would pay the rates usual for cutting of posts and pulp wood.

It was estimated by Johnson, one of the owners, that between three and four hundred full cords of fuel wood could be obtained from the tract. The trees are maple, beech, ash and poplar.

The necessity of immediately obtaining a woodlot was stressed by the city manager. Fuel must be furnished to a number of widows and others. If purchased, men could be put to work cutting and the project would provide some work relief. Trucking the wood to Gladstone around the head of the bay could be done, it is estimated at about two dollars per cord and after the bay freezes, for half of that so that the cost per cord should not go over three dollars and possibly less.

Merchants Appear

A group of merchants including B. R. Micks, Matt Gunter and Jens Wheaton appeared before the commission relative to distribution of welfare orders. A table showing the average amount of orders issued per month for the last three months and average amount per month which each of sixteen different local merchants received was presented for perusal of the group. The figures revealed that two stores were receiving a far greater amount of the business than any of the others. However, it was explained by City Manager Buechner that this was through no fault of the welfare department.

In cases where the applicant for aid has sworn that he is indebted to no local grocer or butcher, it is the policy of the local welfare department to allow the person to have the order issued upon a store of their own choosing. In these instances, personal preference as to owner or the attraction of lower prices, it was believed, guided the individuals and were pointed to as possible reasons for a good share of the orders going to certain stores.

Where the case history card of the applicant reveals that he owes a merchant a grocery bill, it is insisted that the order be drawn on the store to which the person is indebted. One of the merchants present stated he believed that some persons were receiving orders on stores other than the one to which they were indebted. The possibility of the person being indebted to more than one was then pointed out and in cases where the person owes more than one, it was offered to rotate the orders among the various creditors so far as possible.

DEER HUNTERS READY FOR KILL

'33 Season Opens Today As Hundreds Apply for Licenses Here

This morning the annual trek of the red coat army will invade the lair of Michigan's deer in the beginning of a two week campaign which is estimated to bring a kill of approximately 20,000 male animals. Last year some 55,000 deer hunters took to the woods and with somewhat bettered business conditions this year, it is estimated that approximately 60,000 persons will take out deer permits. Although it is almost impossible to obtain an exact check on the number of deer killed, it is estimated that one buck is shot for every three hunters.

Large groups of local hunters who have spent considerable time the past several weeks putting their camps in ship-shape condition for their week or two of hibernation away from the haunts of civilization, left yesterday and earlier this week in order to be on the grounds ready for the opening day's festivities. Monday it was reported that approximately 200 deer licenses were sold at the two local agencies to resident hunters.

Purchase Supplies

Swarms of lower peninsula and out-of-state hunters have been flooding the city the early part of this week, many of them obtaining huge supplies of provisions, clothing, and hunting supplies at local stores at their last stop before venturing into the woods. Resident licenses this year have been reduced to $2.25, while non-resident licenses will cost purchasers $25.00.

Operating under the one-buck law, killing of does is illegal, and only animals having antlers three or more inches in length are legally subject to hunters' bullets. Dogs may not be used and it is unlawful to hunt or pursue deer while in the water. The use of artificial light is of course also strictly prohibited. The season closes on November 30.

Ideal weather conditions are indicated for today's opening, a few inches of snow enabling hunters to track deer for the first time in several seasons. Snow generally prevails toward the latter part of the season however. Weather is also sufficiently cold to keep meat from spoiling.

Yesterday it was reported that a continuous arrival of lower peninsula hunters caused a waiting line of cars on the Mackinac side of the Straits over two miles in length.

Special Election to be Held Prior to December 10 on Utility Projects

A special election for the purpose of ascertaining the opinion of Manistique voters in regard to the construction of two public utility projects, a sewage disposal plant and an electric distribution system, under the public works act of the NRA, will be held in the early part of December sometime prior to the tenth, according to action taken by the city council at the regular meeting held Monday evening at which considerable discussion was had on both projects.

The proposal for a preliminary survey for a sewage disposal plant at a cost of $300 from the firm of consulting engineers known as Shoecraft, Drury, and McNamee, of Ann Arbor, was accepted upon unanimous vote upon motion of Councilman Cayia, supported by Councilman Lied, with Mayor Harry Eriksen being authorized to make contract with the firm immediately. Notification of acceptance was sent out yesterday morning and a representative of the firm is expected to arrive in the city preparatory to making the survey, within the next several days. Other firms which submitted proposals are Suhr, Berryman, Peterson and Suhr, of Chicago, and Alvord, Burdick and Howson, another Chicago firm.

Vote on Separately

The special election, at which both projects will be voted upon separately, will be held immediately after figures are received of the cost of the sewage disposal system and will not await the completion of the entire survey. A survey of the cost of a generation and distribution plant for electrical energy, was made this summer.

The proposal received from Shoecraft, Drury, and McNamee, calls for the sum of $100 for drawings, detailed estimates of cost, and other necessary data needed in the application for the federal loan if after the project has been approved by the electorate. This sum, together with the $300 paid for the preliminary work, would be credited as a part payment on the larger work of preparing plans and supervision of construction, the proposal states.

In the event that the project is endorsed by the voters, it was stated that storm water sewers would be required to be constructed in various sections of the city, especially in the business districts of the east and west side where present sewers seem to be inadequate to handle water following a heavy rainfall.

The communication received from Schoemaker, Drury, and McNamee, concerning a survey and report on sewerage, sewage disposal, and charges made for the service, reads in part as follows:

In order to make a survey it will be necessary for some member of our firm to visit your city and spend a few days in the field. Following the visit, using information which the city has made available to us in the form of existing sewers, a general plan for sewage and sewage disposal can be prepared and estimated and reported upon. This report, when finished, would be of a nature such that it can be used as a basis for a popular vote by the electorate and as a basis for an application to the federal government for financing the work under the Federal Emergency Public Works Administration.

We will make a study and report immediately, and for this service will charge $300 payable upon completion and acceptance of the report. If the city decides to go ahead on the matter and obtains a favorable vote from the electorate, our firm will be in a position to make out that part of the application which relates to engineering matters.

We will cooperate with city officials, furnishing complete and detailed estimates of costs and the necessary drawings to go in the application. An additional charge of $100 will be made, payable upon the city's convenience after the application has been made.

If the city is successful in financing the work and decides to proceed with construction, upon proper authorization, the necessary plans, specifications, contract documents, and the like, will be prepared and we will also furnish the necessary engineering supervision of construction, all in accordance with the best engineering practice and in harmony with the wishes of the city in these matters.

The engineering fees which will be charged for the work will be in harmony with the minimum fees set up in the proposed code of fair competition for the Professional Engineers' Division of the Construction Industry submitted to the NRA. . . . .

It is understood that in the working out of the engineering fees, the amount of $400, which the city will have previously paid for the preliminary work, will be taken into account and will be credited as a part payment on the larger work of preparing plans and supervising construction.

It is impossible to estimate as to what the sewage disposal system will cost prior to a survey. With our general knowledge of your city, however, we can say that in our opinion the sewage treatment plant can be of a rather simple type and the entire problem can be handled at a reasonable cost and a considerably lower cost than prevails in many cities of this size. You have natural advantages of a large river for the final disposition of treated sewage and with this the advantage that you have a relatively small number of sewer outlets which will have to be taken care of. . . . . .

TOWNSHIPS GET STATE FUNDS

Homestead Land Money Amounts to $9,067.38 for County

State funds as provided by the homestead land statute according to provisions of Act 116, Public Acts of 1917 as amended by Act 305, are swelling the coffers of township treasurers this week as the sum of $9,067.38, based upon an allotment of seven cents per acre, were mailed Monday afternoon by Laura Williams, county treasurer. According to the act, the sum of ten cents per acre is stipulated to be paid the several townships by the state for lands returned for delinquent taxes now in the hands of the state conservation department.

Inability of the state to pay the full amount named, resulted in the payment of eight and three-quarters cents last year and seven cents per acre this year. Largest checks were mailed to Seney, Manistique, and Doyle townships.

Respective amounts are as follows:

CLIFFS COMPANY SUBMITS OFFER

Tentative Figures Provide for Energy at 2c Per K.W.H.

A tentative offer to provide electrical energy to the city of Manistique at a rate of two cents per kilowatt hour was received here by the city council from the Cliffs Power and Light company it was announced Monday evening at the regular meeting of the city council. The offer was made in response to an inquiry by Mayor Harry Eriksen.

It was stated in the proposal, however, that figures submitted were not to be accepted as final or considered as the basis for a contract until further consideration was given to the matter by officials of the Cliffs company, other than O. D. McClure, general manager, author of the communication. It was further stated that the company would have to have some idea of the amount of consumption before considering the building of transmission lines.

It is understood that the following figures submitted by Mr. McClure are based upon the construction of transmission lines to the city by the power company and delivered to the city limits: two cents per KWH for 500,000 KWH annually, and if the quantity is raised to 1,000,000 KWH a price of one and three-quarters cents would be made, intermediate steps to be prorated in steps of 100,000 KWH.

Must Purchase Both

At Monday night's meeting it was revealed that the council on October 27 asked the Manistique Light and Power company whether their distribution plant was for sale, and if so, asked for an estimate as to the probable selling price. The following letter in regard to the inquiry was received from Edward Sheahan, superintendent of the Manistique Pulp and Paper company, and read at the meeting:

Honorable Mayor and City Council, Manistique, Michigan.

Gentlemen:

Your letter of October 27th has been given careful consideration by the officers of our company.

We wish you to understand at the outset that The Tribune is sincerely interested in your proposal, but there are a number of factors that bring up obstacles to agreement.

As you are aware, The Tribune for the last two years has operated its plant in Manistique at an enormous loss. In spite of the heavy drain we have kept the plant operating, to the benefit of your citizens in the way of payrolls and tax receipts. In the face of the most stringent times, when other plants closed down, we did everything we could to carry on.

We are still operating the plant notwithstanding these difficulties, and as a result have been forced by circumstances to deal with this matter in a specific light. We wish to emphasize that the investments of The Tribune in Manistique are in fact a single investment. We regret we are unable to treat the matter in any other light. You are aware that we once made an attempt to sell a part of the investment but it did not work out satisfactorily. From our experience on that occasion, we feel that an attempt to divorce the properties during these times is strictly inadvisable.

If we are to consider the sale of the utility property now, we would want to do so only in connection with the sale of the entire investment—the paper mill and light plant as well. If there is any possibility of your being able to negotiate a sale of the whole investment in Manistique, you will find us willing and ready to talk, and on a basis that will be eminently fair, and at a surprising discount, in view of the heavy investment in your city.

Under these considerations, if you have suggestions to offer, please let me know in time to make arrangements to have our Minneapolis officers present.

Respectfully,
Manistique Pulp and Paper Co.
Per: Edward Sheahan.

Members of the city council are of the opinion that construction of a distribution plant instead of both a generating and distribution plant would be more favorable at this time because electrical energy can be purchased about as cheaply as it can be generated and more immediate profit could be derived in proportion to the size of the investment.

Voters' opinion on the plausibility of the construction of a municipal distribution plant will be obtained in a special election to be held during the first week of December when another proposed public works project will be voted on—a municipal sewage disposal plant.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Foreign exchanges provided the excitement in financial markets today.

The decreased gold value, as measured both by the R. F. C.'s daily purchasing price and the level assigned by European currencies—the latter was the lower of the two—gave speculative marksmen something to shoot at, but the response of stocks and several commodities was not especially emphatic. U. S. government bonds, which had rallied for two days, resumed their slide and the investment market as a whole was depressed. Stocks closed lower after forenoon firmness.

Trading Turns Dull

Sterling raced up 18 cents to $5.34; it then slipped several cents from this new post-war peak. Demand for pounds was apparently lively most of the day.

From the action of other markets the deduction could be made that funds were going into foreign currencies, or their equivalents, rather than into equities or staples. Stocks' best effort was an early rise of around 1 to 2 points for the general list, a few specially favored issues bettering the upper limit of that range. However, trading turned dull before noon and when the pound began to go down stock exchange prices reacted, bringing a moderately lower close on a turnover of 2,169,310 shares.

Industrial stocks fared better than rails or utilities during the late reaction after leading the early rise, and their net changes were largely fractional. U. S. Steel and U. S. Smelting were off about a point. General Electric, American Smelting, Case, General Motors and Kennecott eased, while chemical stocks and a sprinkling of miscellaneous listings finished rather firmly. Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, North American, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Telephone and Baltimore & Ohio lost around half a point to 2½. Alcohols came under late pressure, National Distillers falling 5.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Nov. 14—Dollar-a-bushel wheat came nearly within arm's reach today, but active profit-taking intervened, and for at least the time being gains were cancelled.
Sensational jumps of sterling and francs, following a new hoist in the Washington price of gold, accompanied the rise of wheat and other cereals. Wheat reached the highest prices here since September 29 and corn the highest since October 2.
The maximum quotation on wheat in Chicago today, 96 7-8 cents a bushel for May contracts, aroused comment as being almost double that of just a year ago, when May wheat was 50 to 50 1-8 cents.
Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4 higher with corn and oats both averaging 1 to 1½ up, and provisions showing 5 to 12 cents advance.
All deliveries of corn crossed to above 50 cents, despite liquidation of December contracts, which put December corn at a wider discount under May. Oats followed corn in duplicating wheat action.
Provisions advanced, responsive to tenacity of higher asking prices on hogs.

Twin Mountain: Completed at a cost reported in excess of $1,000,000 the new Wisconsin-Michigan highway bridge at Twin Falls, linking the two states on highway U. S. 2 and U. S. 141 in Dickinson and Florence counties, is now open for temporary travel, pending the completion of approaches on both the Wisconsin and Michigan sides.
The structural work on the concrete and steel bridge was completed by the contracting firm of Nelson, Mullen and Nelson, of Rhinelander, Wis. Although their original bid was $39,940.70 for the structural work only, it is said that obstacles encountered in the work, and particularly during the period breakup of the Menominee river, sent the costs somewhat over that figure.

GARDEN NEWS

Garden, Mich., Nov. 14 (Special)—Local church services next Sunday will be as follows:
St. John the Baptist, Garden
Friday, November 17.
7:30 p. m., Stations of the Cross, followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.
Sunday, November 19, 8 a. m.—Low Mass.
Congregational Churches
10 a. m.—Garden.
11 a. m.—Sunday School.
2:30 p. m.—Fayette.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Deloria and family of Cooks visited relatives in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barney and family of Escanaba spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Belfy.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence James of Cooks spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Foye and family of Manistique spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McLeod.

Miss Merle Farley entertained members of the B. V. D. club at the home of her parents Thursday evening. All members were present. The evening was spent with the usual exercises after which lunch was served.

Della Farley entertained twenty of her friends at her party given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Farley of Kates Bay Wednesday evening. The period was spent in dancing and in playing various games after which a sumptuous turkey dinner was served.

Mrs. Jane Baker of Escanaba spent the week-end with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Herle of Manistique Monday.

Mitchell Fulsher of Saginaw arrived here Monday with a party of six friends and will remain during the greater part of the hunting season. Mr. Fulsher stated that traffic was congested around the straits and that it took his party nine hours to get over.

Icy roads are causing much embarrassment and delay to the large numbers of hunters coming into the district and to motorists generally. A Garden man recently returning from St. Ignace, having no particular occupation during the trip, counted twenty-six cars in the ditch between that point and Garden. Frozen radiators and brakes have also been responsible for a fair share of trouble. Oldtimers state that so far, this has been the worst November, almost within memory.

Len Shawl and son Cecil of Gould City spent Thursday in Fairbanks.

Mrs. Cecil Shawl of Gould City spent the past week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Tatrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deloria and James Deloria of Milwaukee spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deloria.

Miss Grace Dalgord of Manistique spent the week-end with her friend Miss Rita Boudreau.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abel of Escanaba spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mary Hennessey. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Fournier who was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Carlyle Hennessey until Tuesday when Mrs. Hennessey returned with her mother to spend several days at her home in Escanaba. Mr. Hennessey will be in the woods hunting while his wife remains in town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker and family of Niagara, Wis., spent the week end with the former's mother, Mrs. Josephine Baker.

William and John Shoputis of Lake Geneva, Wis., who have been visiting at the home of David Horning returned to their home Tuesday.

Mrs. Reuben Lockhart, Katherine McNally, John and William Shoputis made a trip to the Big Springs Friday.

Marcella Winter, twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter, entertained twelve of her friends at the home of her parents Saturday afternoon. Various games were played after which dinner was served. Miss Marcella received a number of gifts.

The card party given Tuesday night for the benefit of St. John's church was attended by an unusually large crowd. Five hundred and pedro were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Robert Lester, William Hynes, Mrs. Fred Gauthier, George Truckey, Mrs. Erwin Belfy, Mrs. George Truckey, Bobby Lester and Dr. Herbault. The prizes awarded Mr. and Mrs. Truckey were both consolation gifts, the former for the five hundred game and the latter for the pedro game.

The sudden frost of early Monday, following the rain and sleet of Sunday left many highways in dangerous condition for driving as also for pedestrians. A valuable service was rendered by road authorities who made an application of sand to the main road through the village. Otherwise, the church hill, which had been used by children sliding, was a particularly dangerous spot.

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Renewed liquidation of United States government securities unsettled the bond market today and most categories finished with a heavy tone despite some mild last-hour recoveries.

Loans of all classes apparently were depressed by another sharp decline in international dollar rates. The American unit, in terms of gold, was valued at one time at only a little above 60 cents, its lowest level in the past 60 years or more.

The activity in the federal list was the most pronounced since 1924, total transfers reaching $9,000,000 against some $5,800,000 yesterday when some support appeared for the sliding governments. While most of this section closed above the lows for the day, losses ranged from 2-32nds to 20-32nds of a point. The largest turnover was in the new 4¼-3¼s, some $4,500,000 of these changing hands at a decline of 8-32nds of a point.

In the corporation sector, utilities were under the most pressure. Columbia Gas issues were off more than 4 points, and those of North American, North American Edison, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Gas and a number of others were down fractionally to around 2 points. Several loans were either around or under their previous lows for the year. The industrials showed some resistance, but there were a few heavy losers in this class. Armour & Co. 4½s slumped 4, and issues of American I. G. Chemical, American Cyanamid, Liggett & Myers, Midvale Steel, McKesson, United Drug and Warner Bros. sagged 1 to 2 or more.

Sales totaled $19,783,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds declined six-tenths of a point to 72.1.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

—I threw the revolver away this morning," she said.

"Threw it away?"

The girl nodded. "I saw a hamper of soiled linen in the hallway and I dropped the revolver down under some sheets."

"But that was the worst thing you could do!" Bannister exclaimed, dismayed. "Someone is sure to find the gun. They'll trace it to you—"

The girl looked startled. "Oh!" she said. "Do you think so? I hadn't thought of that. I—I just wanted to get rid of it!"

There was a moment's pause. Then the girl said slowly, "I guess it doesn't matter much. I guess they'll be here pretty quick to get me anyhow." The gray eyes were helpless again. "If I could have managed to get—that paper it would have been all right. I could get some other clothes somehow. This morning I thought you were going to tell them about the gun, but if you didn't there wouldn't be any reason at all for them to arrest me. I could make myself look different. I could get some other clothes and—oh, dye my hair or something. Only if they've found that paper—"

Bannister spoke up then. He knew that he didn't believe the story Juliet France had told him. He didn't believe she had come to Tremont to hunt for a job or that she had gone to Tracy King's apartment to ask him to hear her sing. He couldn't believe her story about the revolver either. Why, he didn't even know whether or not her name was Juliet France! Nevertheless, he wanted to help her. Juliet France—was in a tough spot. He didn't like that facing Oliver McNeal and Steve Fisher and the relentless grilling they would give her.

"Listen," Bannister said, "you said that was just a piece of—well, scratch paper. A sort of memorandum?"

She nodded.

"Well, maybe I've been wrong about all this. There's a possibility—just a chance in a million, but still a chance—that the boys might have missed it. They could have picked it up, thought it didn't amount to anything and tossed it into a wastebasket. I don't say they would, but then again they might! If there was only some way to find out—!"

"There must be!" she exclaimed eagerly. "Oh, there must be a way! Couldn't we go tonight—after it's dark? Couldn't we manage it somehow?"

Bannister shook his head. "Maybe I can think of something," he said, and once more was surprised at himself. What crazy sort of stunt was he letting himself in for? Conniving with a girl wanted for murder, aiding and abetting a criminal. But he wasn't! This girl couldn't be guilty of the horrible crime she was sure to be accused of. Whoever she was, whatever she had done, David Bannister was convinced of one thing. She wasn't a murderess.

And she certainly was in grave danger. Bannister was amply acquainted with the ways of the law to know what a few hours of brutal questioning, accusation and threats would do to the flimsy story the girl had told.

There must be some way to help her, must be something he could do.

He looked at the girl again and said, "I don't know what we can do but I'll try to find a way to get into that place. You'd better go to your room and wait until you hear from me. Maybe I can scout around a little. Find out how the wind lies—"

He walked with her to the elevator, then took his leave. "You'll hear from me in an hour or so," he promised over his shoulder as he turned to go.

Twenty minutes later he entered Jim Paxton's office.

Curb Irregular As Result Of Selling

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—The curb market closed irregularly lower today under late selling which upset earlier firmness. Utilities were heavy while alcohols also attracted sellers. Metals and oils were mixed but a number of specialties ended the day higher.

Losses of around a point or more were shown by American Gas & Electric, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Glen Alden Coal, Hiram Walker, New Jersey Zinc and Pan American Airways. Gulf Oil and Electric Bond & Share conceded major fractions but a fairly steady tone prevailed in Newmont, Lake Shore Mines and Standard Oil of Indiana.

Aluminum Company of America dropped nearly 4 points but advances of 2 to 3 points were recorded by Singer Manufacturing, Parker Rust Proof and General Tire & Rubber.

Trading increased in the last hour and volume approximated 284,000 shares compared with 200,000 yesterday.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Foreign exchanges provided the excitement in financial markets today.

The decreased gold value, as measured both by the R. F. C.'s daily purchasing price and the level assigned by European currencies—the latter was the lower of the two—gave speculative marksmen something to shoot at, but the response of stocks and several commodities was not especially emphatic. U. S. government bonds, which had rallied for two days, resumed their slide and the investment market as a whole was depressed. Stocks closed lower after forenoon firmness.

Trading Turns Dull

Sterling raced up 18 cents to $5.34; it then slipped several cents from this new post-war peak. Demand for pounds was apparently lively most of the day.

From the action of other markets the deduction could be made that funds were going into foreign currencies, or their equivalents, rather than into equities or staples. Stocks' best effort was an early rise of around 1 to 2 points for the general list, a few specially favored issues bettering the upper limit of that range. However, trading turned dull before noon and when the pound began to go down stock exchange prices reacted, bringing a moderately lower close on a turnover of 2,169,310 shares.

Industrial stocks fared better than rails or utilities during the late reaction after leading the early rise, and their net changes were largely fractional. U. S. Steel and U. S. Smelting were off about a point, General Electric, American Smelting, Case, General Motors and Kennecott eased, while chemical stocks and a sprinkling of miscellaneous listings finished rather firmly. Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, North American, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Telephone and Baltimore & Ohio lost around half a point to 2½. Alcohols came under late pressure, National Distillers falling 5.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Nov. 14—Dollar-a-bushel wheat came nearly within arm's reach today, but active profit-taking intervened, and for at least the time being gains were cancelled.

Sensational jumps of sterling and francs, following a new hoist in the Washington price of gold, accompanied the rise of wheat and other cereals. Wheat reached the highest prices here since September 26 and corn the highest since October 2.

The maximum quotation on wheat in Chicago today, 96 7-8 cents a bushel for May contracts, aroused comment as being almost double that of just a year ago when May wheat was 50 to 50 1-8 cents.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 higher, with corn and oats both unchanged to ½ up, and provisions showing 5 to 12 cents advance.

All deliveries of corn crossed to above 50 cents, despite liquidation of December contracts, which put December corn at a wider discount under May. Oats followed corn in duplicating wheat action.

Provisions advanced, responsive to tenacity of higher asking prices on hogs.

Bridge Completed

Iron Mountain—Completed at a cost reported in excess of $40,000, the new Wisconsin-Michigan highway bridge at Twin Falls, linking the two states on highway US-2 and US-141 in Dickinson and Florence counties, is now open for temporary travel, pending the completion of approaches on both the Wisconsin and Michigan sides.

The structural work on the cement and steel bridge was completed by the contracting firm of Nelson, Mullen and Nelson, of Rhinelander, Wis. Although their original bid was $39,910.70 for the structural work only, it is said that obstacles encountered in the work, and particularly during the spring break-up on the Menominee river, sent the costs somewhat over that figure.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Foye and family of Manistique spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McLeod.

Miss Merle Farley entertained members of the B. V. D. club at the home of her parents Thursday evening. All members were present. The evening was spent with the usual exercises after which lunch was served.

Della Farley entertained twenty of her friends at her party given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Farley of Kates Bay Wednesday evening. The period was spent in dancing and in playing various games after which a sumptuous turkey dinner was served.

Mrs. Jane Baker of Escanaba spent the week-end with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heric of Manistique Monday.

Mitchell Fulsher of Saginaw arrived here Monday with a party of six friends and will remain during the greater part of the hunting season. Mr. Fulsher stated that traffic was congested around the straits and that it took his party nine hours to get over.

Icy roads are causing much embarrassment and delay to the large numbers of hunters coming into the district and to motorists generally. A Garden man recently returning from St. Ignace, having no particular occupation during the trip, counted twenty-six cars in the ditch between that point and Garden. Frozen radiators and brakes have also been responsible for a fair share of trouble. Oldtimers state that so far, this has been the worst November, almost within memory.

Len Shawl and son Cecil of Gould City spent Thursday in Fairbanks.

Mrs. Cecil Shawl of Gould City spent the past week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Tatrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deloria and James Deloria of Milwaukee spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deloria.

Miss Grace Dalgord of Manistique spent the week-end with her friend Miss Rita Boudreau.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abel of Escanaba spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mary Hennessey. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Fournier who was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Carlyle Hennessey until Tuesday when Mrs. Hennessey returned with her mother to spend several days at her home in Escanaba. Mr. Hennessey will be in the woods hunting while his wife remains in town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker and family of Niagara, Wis., spent the week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. Josephine Baker.

William and John Shoputis of Lake Geneva, Wis., who have been visiting at the home of David Horning returned to their home Tuesday.

Mrs. Reuben Lockhart, Katherine McNally, John and William Shoputis made a trip to the Big Springs Friday.

Marcella Winter, twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter, entertained twelve of her friends at the home of her parents Saturday afternoon. Varius games were played after which dinner was served. Miss Marcelal received a number of gifts.

The card party given Tuesday night for the benefit of St. John's church was attended by an unusually large crowd. Five hundred and pedro were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Robert Lester, William Hynes, Mrs. Fred Gauthier, George Truckey, Mrs. Erwin Belfy, Mrs. George Truckey, Bobby Lester and Dr. Herbault. The prizes awarded Mr. and Mrs. Truckey were both consolation gifts, the former for the five hundred game and the latter for the pedro game.

The sudden frost of early Monday, following the rain and sleet of Sunday left many highways in dangerous condition for driving as also for pedestrians. A valuable service was rendered by road authorities who made an application of sand to the main road through the village. Otherwise, the church hill, which had been used by children sliding, was a particularly dangerous spot.

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Renewed liquidation of United States government securities unsettled the bond market today and most categories finished with a heavy tone despite some mild last-hour recoveries.

Loans of all classes apparently were depressed by another sharp decline in international dollar rates. The American unit, in terms of gold, was valued at one time at only a little above 60 cents, its lowest level in the past 60 years or more.

The activity in the federal list was the most pronounced since 1924, total transfers reaching $9,000,000 against some $5,800,000 yesterday when some support appeared for the sliding governments. While most of this section closed above the lows for the day, losses ranged from 2-32nds to 20-32nds of a point. The largest turnover was in the new 4¼-3¼s, some $4,500,000 of these changing hands at a decline of 8-32nds of a point.

In the corporation sector, utilities were under the most pressure. Columbia Gas issues were off more than 4 points, and those of North American, North American Edison, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Gas and a number of others were down fractionally to around 2 points. Several loans were either around or under their previous lows for the year. The industrials showed some resistance, but there were a few heavy losers in this class. Armour & Co. 4½s slumped 4, and issues of American I. G. Chemical, American Cyanamid, Liggett & Myers, Midvale Steel, McKesson, United Drug and Warner Bros. sagged 1 to 2 or more.

Sales totaled $19,783,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds declined six-tenths of a point to 72.1.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

—I threw the revolver away this morning," she said.

"Threw it away?"

The girl nodded. "I saw a hamper of soiled linen in the hallway and I dropped the revolver down under some sheets."

"But that was the worst thing you could do!" Bannister exclaimed, dismayed. "Someone is sure to find the gun. They'll trace it to you—"

The girl looked startled. "Oh!" she said. "Do you think so? I hadn't thought of that. I—I just wanted to get rid of it!"

There was a moment's pause. Then the girl said slowly, "I guess it doesn't matter much. I guess they'll be here pretty quick to get me anyhow." The gray eyes were helpless again. "If I could have managed to get—that paper it would have been all right. I could get some other clothes somehow. This morning I thought you were going to tell them about the gun, but if you didn't there wouldn't be any reason at all for them to arrest me. I could make myself look different. I could get some other clothes and—oh, dye my hair or something. Only if they've found that paper—"

Bannister spoke up then. He knew that he didn't believe the story Juliet France had told him. He didn't believe she had come to Tremont to hunt for a job or that she had gone to Tracy King's apartment to ask him to hear her sing. He couldn't believe her story about the revolver either. Why, he didn't even know whether or not her name was Juliet France! Nevertheless, he wanted to help her. Juliet France—was in a tough spot. He didn't like that facing Oliver McNeal and Steve Fisher and the relentless grilling they would give her.

"Listen," Bannister said, "you said that was just a piece of—well, scratch paper. A sort of memorandum?"

She nodded.

"Well, maybe I've been wrong about all this. There's a possibility—just a chance in a million, but still a chance—that the boys might have missed it. They could have picked it up, thought it didn't amount to anything and tossed it into a wastebasket. I don't say they would, but then again they might! If there was only some way to find out—!"

"There must be!" she exclaimed eagerly. "Oh, there must be a way! Couldn't we go tonight—after it's dark? Couldn't we manage it somehow?"

Bannister shook his head. "Maybe I can think of something," he said, and once more was surprised at himself. What chazy sort of stunt was he letting himself in for? Conniving with a girl wanted for murder, aiding and abetting a criminal. But he wasn't! This girl couldn't be guilty of the horrible crime she was sure to be accused of. Whoever she was, whatever she had done, David Bannister was convinced of one thing. She wasn't a murderess.

And she certainly was in grave danger. Bannister was amply acquainted with the ways of the law to know what a few hours of brutal questioning, accusation and threats would do to the flimsy story the girl had told.

There must be some way to help her, must be something he could do.

He looked at the girl again and said, "I don't know what we can do but I'll try to find a way to get into that place. You'd better go to your room and wait until you hear from me. Maybe I can scout around a little. Find out how the wind lies—"

He walked with her to the elevator, then took his leave. "You'll hear from me in an hour or so," he promised over his shoulder as he turned to go.

Twenty minutes later he entered Jim Paxton's office.

Curb Irregular As Result Of Selling

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—The curb market closed irregularly lower today under late selling which upset earlier firmness. Utilities were heavy while alcohols also attracted sellers. Metals and oils were mixed but a number of specialties ended the day higher.

Losses of around a point or more were shown by American Gas & Electric, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Glen Alden Coal, Hiram Walker, New Jersey Zinc and Pan American Airways. Gulf Oil and Electric Bond & Share conceded major fractions but a fairly steady tone prevailed in Newmont, Lake Shore Mines and Standard Oil of Indiana.

Aluminum Company of America dropped nearly 4 points but advances of 2 to 3 points were recorded by Singer Manufacturing, Parker Rust Proof and General Tire & Rubber.

Trading increased in the last hour and volume approximated 284,000 shares compared with 200,000 yesterday.

BEATS MOSCONI IN THE PLAYOFF

Philadelphian Captures American Crown at Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14. (AP)—Playing a consistently steady game George Kelly of Philadelphia, tonight won the national pocket billiard tournament championship, defeating his fellow townsman, 18 year old William Mosconi, 125 to 98 in 29 innings in the third game of the title playoff.

The three game play off between the two Philadelphians and Charles Seabeck of Astoria, N. Y., was necessitated when the trio last night finished the 45 regularly scheduled tourney games in a tie for first honors with seven wins and two losses.

Today Mosconi won from Seabeck, 125 to 72 in 21 innings while Kelly downed the New Yorker in the second playoff game 125 to 80 in 16 innings.

By defeating Mosconi in the third and last playoff match, Kelly, who last night set a new national tourney record high run of 125, won $550 in prize money and a diamond medal, emplematic of the national championship.

All three of the playoff contestants likewise won the right to compete in the world's championship tourney in Chicago opening Dec. 4.

Canadiens Defeat Chicago Hawks, 3-1

Montreal, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Canadiens sped through Chicago's weakened defenses in a third period rush tonight and earned their second victory of the national hockey league season, 3 to 1. The triumph gave them a tie with Ottawa and Toronto for the top of the International division.

Leading 1-0 going into the final frame, the Habitants got their chance when Lionel Conacher drew a minor penalty and whipped in two goals in less than half a minute. Wildor Larochelle scored the first on Marty Burke's pass, then both Burke and Larochelle aided Pit Lepine in tallying again. Johnny Gagnon netted the first Canadien counter unassisted soon after the start of the game.

The Hawks made strenuous efforts to come back in the closing minutes of the game but they couldn't score until 18:09 when Mushy March counted on Dennie McFayden's pass.

Montreal Maroons Bow To Ottawans

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (AP)—The surprising Ottawa Senators chalked up their second victory of the National hockey league tonight, whipping the Montreal Maroons 4 to 2 to climb into a three-way tie with Toronto and the Montreal Canadiens for the International division lead.

The game was a personal triumph for Earl Roche, tall winger who once was the property of the Maroons. He scored three of Ottawa's goals, all on unassisted plays, after Syd Howe had started things off with a first period tally. Howe's counter and Roche's first, coming 15 seconds apart early in the first period, gave the Senators a lead that never was threatened.

The Maroons didn't score until they were three goals down. Then Wally Kilrea sank Lorne Duguid's pass at the finish of the second period. Just ten seconds before the game ended Glen Boyrdson tallied on an assist by Stanley Smith.

Pudge Doesn't Budge at 66

Lack of Scoring in Grid Games Caused by Well Planned Skeds

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—The public's demand for its money's worth, with games between evenly matched teams, is chiefly responsible for the lack of scoring in football this season.

That appears to be the general opinion of coaches in the Western conference, which has been producing sensational gridiron battles. The coaches, with three exceptions, are not in favor of altering the rules.

Defense Has Edge

The exceptions were Dick Hanley of Northwestern, who has campaigned for changes calculated to improve offensive football; Sam Willaman of Ohio State and Dr. Clarence Spears, head coach at Wisconsin. The others favored leaving the rules as they are. All agreed the practice of meeting "set-up" teams is disappearing because high class games must be presented to keep the turnstiles busy.

"The defense has all the better of it in the rules," said Hanley tonight.

"I have campaigned to change the rules to permit forward passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. This would not only improve the overhead game, but would improve the running game which the spectators come to see. I also favor going back to the old rule which permits running with a recovered fumble or blocked kick, and moving the goal posts back up to the goal line."

"The rules are man-made and therefore not perfect," Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, said. "I hope the committee will not tinker with the rules. All low scoring means is more equal teams. Low score games are interesting. Michigan beat Illinois by only 7 to 6, but nobody went home."

"The elimination of the dead ball rule might add some thrills," Harry Kipke, coach of Michigan's Big Ten leader said, "but it has made coaches willing to open up with lateral and double lateral passes. I am afraid return to the old fumble rule would cause these spectacular plays to be discarded and a more conservative game would result."

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota thinks the rules are alright with one exception: "I'd like to see the rules charged to let a ball carrier get up and run after going to one knee," he said.

Willaman strung along with Hanley on the suggestion of permitting passing from anywhere behind the scrimmage line. Clark Shaughnessy, of Chicago, however, said the rules seemed fair enough to him, even if his Maroons have scored only one touchdown against major opponents.

"Good teams will score regardless of rules," he said. "Low scores are due, I think, to more evenly matched teams."

Dr. Spears hoped for rules changes to help the offense, saying: "Elimination of the dead ball rule on fumbles and blocked kicks would help."

"I am not convinced that the rules account for low scoring," Ossie Solem of Iowa, said. "Schedules are getting tougher and that keeps the scoring down."

Noble Kizer, coach of Purdue's sensational Boilermakers, said the present rules provide for a neat balance between offense and defense and from the spectators point of view have been providing plenty of action.

"If the general average of scoring has fallen off," Kizer said, "it can be attributed to the fact that most teams are now playing full schedules against teams in their own class instead of filling in with 'breathers' to run up a lot of points."

ANOTHER PRO LOOP FORMING

Organization Patterned After National Grid League

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 14. (AP)—Professional football took a full stride forward today with announcement here of almost full-grown plans for the organization of an American league patterned after the National professional football circuit.

The announcement by S. A. Godman, owner of the Memphis Tigers and a pioneer in Dixie professional pigskin activities, came as the culmination of a movement initially launched last January among representatives of interested cities looking to the formation of such a loop.

The new league, as its model, would be divided into eastern and western circuits, with Charlotte and Memphis as headquarters.

Strong Lineups

As outlined, the project, which Godman said had the active support of Joe Carr of Columbus, O., president of the national organization, includes in its far-flung scope such elevens besides Charlotte and Memphis, as the St. Louis Gunners, Oklahoma City Chiefs, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Washington, Baltimore, Winston Salem, New Orleans, Birmingham, Montgomery, Nashville, Chattanooga, and Tulsa as well as other teams in the south and midwest.

"We don't want a southern league," Godman explained, "nor do we want a secondary league to the Nationals.

"We Memphis—play as good football as they do in the National league and the thing to do is to name our league the American league corresponding to the American and National leagues in baseball.

"The Gunners and the Chiefs can win in the National circuit any time."

In College Grid Camps

Madison, Wis., Nov. 14 (AP)—Wisconsin concentrated on perfecting new pass and running plays today in a long offensive drill for the Ohio State encounter. The Badgers offense looked pretty spotty against their second string men in scrimmage due mainly to imperfect blocking.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 14 (AP)—Defensive work against Purdue plays demonstrated by freshmen was the order of practice for the Iowa football team today. Cold weather kept the Hawkeyes in the field house as Coach Ossie Solem gave the first contact work of the week.

Dick Crayne and Russ Fisher, both badly bruised in last Saturday's game, participated in the session. It is expected that Crayne will be able to start at fullback.

The Iowa squad is schedule to leave Thursday night for LaFayette, Ind., and the last Big Ten game of the season.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 14 (AP)—It was so cold on Northwestern's practice field today that Coach Dick Hanley decided to hold drill in Patten gymnasium for the rest of the season. The varsity ran through a brisk signal practice as Hanley still searched for a man to handle punts.

Minneapolis, Nov. 14 (AP)—It was plain today to see which football game of this season Minnesota is trying to make the most of. Secret practice continued in the fieldhouse after the regulars spent a half hour in the cold outside. Officials said today that 3,000 Gopher fans will follow the team to Michigan for Saturday's game.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 14 (AP)—Cornhuskers stock was on the upgrade today as a result of improvement in the condition of Meier, regular center, and O'Brien, veteran tackle, and the prospect that they will be in the lineup for Nebraska against Pittsburgh next Saturday.

The Huskers spent most of today's practice session in defense against Pitt Plays, particularly passes, as reproduced by the freshmen eleven.

The Husker party will leave early Thursday for Pittsburgh and hope to workout at the Pitt stadium Friday afternoon.

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—Chicago's varsity, which has gained 750 yards from scrimmage in four Big Ten games this season with the net result of only one touchdown, was busy learning some new touchdown plays today as Coach Clark Shaughnessy speeded drill for the Illinois battle. Ed Cullen was back at quarterback and the team ran through several new passing and running formations.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 14 (AP)—Illinois' regulars smothered Chicago plays as executed by the freshmen in a short scrimmage today and then took the ball to launch an impressive offensive of their own. Coach Bob Zuppke used the same lineup which has started the past two games against Michigan and Northwestern.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—Indiana's football varsity got down to hard work today, scrimmaging against a freshman eleven which used Xavier university formations. Bob Jones at guard, showed best on defense, while Robert Keck, sophomore fullback, put some drive in the backfield on offense. All players with even slight injuries were excused from the scrimmage.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—The all-star Purdue backfield worked together in practice today for the first time in two weeks, as the Boilermakers started to build a defense against Iowa's attack. Pardonner was at quarterback and Purvis at right half, while Hecker and Carter shifted between left half and fullback positions.

Columbus, O., Nov. 14 (AP)—Ohio State's Big Ten gridders, preparing for Saturday's clash with Wisconsin at Madison, worked out on a snow-covered field in freezing weather today. It was their first practice since last week's victory over Pennsylvania. The varsity was limited to a forward passing drill, but the second stringers scrimmaged with the freshmen.

RUNYAN WINNER AT PINEHURST

Teams With MacFarlane in Best Ball Event, Shoot Sub Par

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 14 (AP)—Paul Runyan, smallest man in topflight golf, and the tall, scholarly-looking Willie MacFarlane teamed today to whip par decisively over the long number two course of Pinehurst country club and win top money in the pro best-ball event opening the mid-south open golf tournament.

The little White Plains (N. Y.) pro and the big Scot from Tuchahoe, N. Y., scored a sensational 64 this afternoon after a good 68 in the morning for a 36-hole total of 132, three strokes better than that of the next best pair, Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y.

Creavy and Barron were among five teams tied for second place at the halfway mark for the day's play with 68's. In the afternoon they came through with a 67.

Win Worth $500

Joe Kirkwood, trick shot star, and Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., led the morning round with a 66, but skidded to 71 in the afternoon for a total of 137. They were nosed out of third place by Julius Ackerbloem, Little Rock, Arak., and Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., who scored 71 and 65 for a total of 136.

Tied with Kirkwood and Wood were two other teams, one made up of Henry Picard, long-driving Charleston (S. C.) pro, and Clarence Owens, Greenville, S. C., and the other of Al Houghton, Washington, and Tony Manero, Greensboro, N. C.

The Picard-Owens and Manero-Houghton combinations both shot 68-69—137. Manero missed a two-foot putt on the home green which if sunk would have given his team a 68 for the afternoon round.

First place was worth $500 to Runyan and MacFarlane, while Creavy and Barron drew $350 and Ackerbloom and Forrester, $250.

Three teams tieing at 137, got $118.

Runyan and MacFarlane in shooting 132 fell one stroke short of the record, 131 compiled last year by Tommy Armour, Chicago, and Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich.

FOOTBALL E'S ARE AWARDED

21 Athletes Given Letters by Coach Carl Nordberg

Football "E"s were presented to 21 Escanaba high school football players by Coach Carl Nordberg at a general assembly program at the senior high school yesterday. In addition a letter was awarded to the student manager and Coach Henry Wylie awarded minor letters to six cross-country runners who won the regional cross-country run at Iron Mountain recently.

After the awarding of the letters, Captain Harold Finman introduced Captain-elect Stanley Jensen to the student body.

Football men awarded letters included the following: Finman, captain, Jensen, captain-elect, Roeder, Kraus, Les Peterson, Toushak, Chase, Thill, Carlton, Alperovitz, Malcomsen, Kositzke, H. Olson, Mike Kelly, Art Peterson, Milkovitch, Harvey, Heidenrich, Christensen, Heminger and Olmsted.

The student manager letter was awarded to Kenneth McMartin and cross-country letters to Captain Kenneth Parent, Robert Moll, George Dupere, Arthur Collins, John Pepin and James McLeod.

Washington University of St. Louis will choose its 1933 football captain at the end of the season from among nine single-game leaders named by Coach Chile Walsh.

Nig Bush Tries Eye On Northland Buck

As he squinted along a cue at the 14 ball in Murray Boyle's recreation parlor Tuesday afternoon, Guy Terrell "Nig" Bush, one of the first three ranking pitchers of the Chicago Cubs, allowed that these Escanaba winters bring weather considerably colder than they have down in his home state of Mississippi. The Mississippi mudcat was playing the saw-off game of pool with Gene Autry, cowboy singer of radio fame, who is Black Guy's pal on a deer hunting trip which will concentrate around Northland and Mashek today.

Guy Bush

"They tell me if I stay here long enough I'll be an Eskimo," Guy remarked.

Bush and Autry arrived Monday afternoon at Art L'Heureux's "Pine Shadows" on M-35 at Ford River.

GOPHER PLAYS FULLY STUDIED

Wolverines Don't Want to Miss a Trick Saturday

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—A near blizzard howled across Ferry field today, but the Wolverines took to their lair in Yost field house, where they went through a rehearsal of new plays to be used against Minnesota Saturday.

The same Michigan backfield combination that clicked against Iowa Saturday worked behind the line today, with Bill Renner at the quarterback post, Everhardus and Captain Fay at the halves, and Johnny Regeczi at full. Jack Heston and Russ Oliver saw some action at the half and fullback positions.

Whitey Wistert and John Kowalik, not yet fully recovered from injuries suffered in the Iowa game, took no active part in today's practice. Both are expected to be back in the lineup by Saturday.

Impersonate Lund

For the next two days a freshman lineup supplied by Coach Bennie Oosterbaan with Gopher formations, will be pitted against the first string lineup. Coach Oosterbaan, who has scouted the Gopher games this season, has carefully coached two yearlings to impersonate Pug Lund and Julius Alphonse, backfield stars on the Minnesota team, and they will play a prominent part in the workouts hereafter.

Estil Tessmer, whose collarbone was fractured earlier in the season, appeared for practice in a uniform today, in the hope that he will be given a chance to see action again before his college career ends. He is a senior. Carl Savage, veteran guard, who fractured a foot bone, has discarded the cast from his foot and he too hopes to play again before the season's end closes his Michigan playing days.

The Michigan strategists are proceeding on the belief that the Gophers will start a forward passing attack early in the game, since no opponent thus far has gained consistently through the Wolverine line. Consequently a defense against passing will receive a fair share of attention this week.

BOXING

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Freddy Miller of Cincinnati, recognized by the National Boxing association as world's featherweight champion, outpointed Lew Feldman of Brooklyn, in a non-title bout at the Ridgewood Grove arena tonight. Miller weighed 127¾ pounds; Feldman 130½.

H. F. Wickman, Jr., Cape Girardeau, Mo., sportsman, brought down a wild goose 300 yards away with a 30-30 rifle.

bringing a cargo of baseballs, shotguns, guitar and mouthorgan, the two latter items being Autry's stock in trade, while Bush is using the baseballs for daily workouts.

Wearing the Red

With Ted Bohnenkamp as their guide, the singer and the twirler will leave early this morning for Northland to try their luck at bringing down bucks.

"Sure having a wonderful time," says Bush, "and if I get a buck I'll be as tickled as when I beat the A's back in 1929."

"Son-of-a-gun, he brought baseballs along. He's going to throw them at the deer," Autry broke in.

"Yeah, and Gene's going to yodel and coax the deer around," Guy retaliated.

Wearing borrowed clothes, Gene and Guy came to Escanaba Tuesday to get their hunting outfits, which will run largely to red for safety's sake. Gene in a green plaid shirt, red hunter's cap, precariously tight pants, and the inevitable fancy cowboy singer boots; Bush's slender form in khaki and high shoes.

There was considerable visiting around yesterday, as they shook hands with old-time Escanaba ballplayers and Cub fans who survived a year of disappointment. Gene and Guy will have to pull out of camp Friday, as Autry has a three-day engagement booked at Madison, Wis., but they'll be back again after a day or two in Chicago.

First Experience

It's the first time they have been up this far north, and their first experience at deer hunting. Bush doubts the prediction of old-time hunters that he will get buck fever when he lamps his first deer with those sharp dark eyes of his.

"Can't say much about baseball yet," says Guy, "because it ain't well to talk about baseball till you get a contract, and I ain't got mine yet.

"We are going to have a new president as you know, and anybody's guess is as good as mine, but my guess is that Wrigley will be the big chief and have the final say over the team.

"You can bank on the Cubs being plenty tough next year, especially if they get Klein and swing the other deals they have on now. Yessir, we will be plenty tough for the other teams to tackle.. Well, goodbye boys, and be sure and pull for me to get some home runs."

Nig and his pal Gene are rather contrasting types, Bush dark-haired, swarthy-skinned and skinny, and Autry light-haired, shorter and rounded out. Both have grins which they use frequently, but Guy's white teeth stand out with the best effect on that face that won him the title of Black Guy and Nig.

Bush differs from other Cub pitchers in that he is thin and frail. His 165 pounds are spread out over a frame that goes up six feet in the air. He is a right-hander when he pitches, but bats left.

With the exception of a short time in 1924, when he was sent to Wichita Falls, Bush has been with the Cubs ever since that year. His best year was in 1929, when he won 18 and lost 7.

He had the distinction, in the world series of that year, of being the first pitcher in three years to stop the rampant American Leaguers from running away with the series in successive games.

Detroit Olympics Stage Nice Rally

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Scoring two goals in an overtime period, Detroit Olympics went into the leadership of the International hockey league here tonight by beating the Cleveland Indians four to two. The defeat sent the Cleveland team to the cellar position.

Ronnie Moffat was the big gun in the Olympics offense, scoring three goals and getting one assist. Cleveland, with Abbie Cox, Detroit goalie, in the net because of injury to Roberts, presented a stubborn defense in the regular periods but suddenly cracked in the overtime when Detroit scored twice in quick succession. The game was marked by rough body checking by members of both teams. Ten penalties were handed out by Referee Clarence Bush.

Regulars Rest, Kircher To Get Detailed Instructions

East Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—Michigan State's reserves returned to the practice field for the first time this week under raw weather conditions.

The first stringers who participated in the Carnegie Tech game postponed their return to activity until tomorrow. At that time regular practice routine will continue through Friday in the first week's preparation for the Detroit game Nov. 25.

Reserves worked out under wraps throughout the practice with the ground blanketed in snow and chilling winds sweeping across the field. The practice was in charge of Assistant Coaches Miles W. Casteel and Tom King. Charley Bachman opened the annual "battle of banquets' by leaving here for Mt Pleasant for a banquet there to night.

After looking over Detroit plays for the last two days and consulting with Casteel, who scouted the Titans, Bachman expects to put his practice machinery into full gear tomorrow. Casteel has emphasized the Spartans will need two weeks of preparation and a rest Saturday to prepare for Detroit's great overhead game.

Bachman plans a double campaign of emphasis this week. It must work out a defense to bottle up the passing combination of Doug Nott and Dick Lutz or else concede defeat to the fast moving Titans.

Just as important to Bachman however, is the necessity of improving his own offensive. In the last two games, Michigan State has been unable to advance much after reaching the 19 yard line. State needs touchdown maneuvers.

Quarterback Al Kircher probably will be given some detailed instructions during the week over the selection of proper plays. There has been some question as to the wisdom of his plays within scoring territory the last two games.

The only scheduled competitive activity in the Spartan camp this week was called off today. Michigan State freshmen and reserves planned a night game tomorrow but it was postponed indefinitely because of weather conditions.

Kelly Wins National Pocket Billiards Title

BEATS MOSCONI IN THE PLAYOFF

Philadelphian Captures American Crown at Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14. (AP)—Playing a consistently steady game George Kelly of Philadelphia, tonight won the national pocket billiard tournament championship, defeating his fellow townsman, 18 year old William Mosconi, 125 to 98 in 29 innings in the third game of the title playoff.

The three game play off between the two Philadelphians and Charles Seabeck of Astoria, N. Y., was necessitated when the trio last night finished the 45 regularly scheduled tourney games in a tie for first honors with seven wins and two losses.

Today Mosconi won from Seabeck, 125 to 72 in 21 innings while Kelly downed the New Yorker in the second playoff game 125 to 80 in 16 innings.

By defeating Mosconi in the third and last playoff match, Kelly, who last night set a new national tourney record high run of 125, won $550 in prize money and a diamond medal, emblematic of the national championship.

All three of the playoff contestants likewise won the right to compete in the world's championship tourney in Chicago opening Dec. 4.

Canadiens Defeat Chicago Hawks, 3-1

Montreal, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Canadiens sped through Chicago's weakened defenses in a third period rush tonight and earned their second victory of the national hockey league season, 3 to 1. The triumph gave them a tie with Ottawa and Toronto for the top of the International division.

Leading 1-0 going into the final frame, the Habitants got their chance when Lionel Conacher drew a minor penalty and whipped in two goals in less than half a minute. Wildor Larochelle scored the first on Marty Burke's pass, then both Burke and Larochelle aided Pit Lepine in tallying again. Johnny Gagnon netted the first Canadien counter unassisted soon after the start of the game.

The Hawks made strenuous efforts to come back in the closing minutes of the game but they couldn't score until 18:09 when Mushy March counted on Dennie McFayden's pass.

Montreal Maroons Bow To Ottawans

Ottawa, Nov. 14 (AP)—The surprising Ottawa Senators chalked up their second victory of the National hockey league tonight, whipping the Montreal Maroons 4 to 2 to climb into a three-way tie with Toronto and the Montreal Canadiens for the International division lead.

The game was a personal triumph for Earl Roche, tall winger who once was the property of the Maroons. He scored three of Ottawa's goals, all on unassisted plays, after Syd Howe had started things off with a first period tally. Howe's counter and Roche's first, coming 15 seconds apart early in the first period, gave the Senators a lead that never was threatened.

The Maroons didn't score until they were three goals down. When Wally Kilrea sank Lorne Duguid's pass at the finish of the second period. Just ten seconds before the game ended Glen Hyrdson tallied on an assist by Bailey Smith.

Cage Team Pilots Invited To Meeting

All managers and prospective managers of amateur basketball teams of the city interested in the formation of a city amateur league are requested to meet at the Escanaba Daily Press office Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock.

Pudge Doesn't Budge at 66

Lack of Scoring in Grid Games Caused by Well Planned Skeds

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—The public's demand for its money's worth, with games between evenly matched teams, is chiefly responsible for the lack of scoring in football this season.

That appears to be the general opinion of coaches in the Western conference, which has been producing sensational gridiron battles. The coaches, with three exceptions, are not in favor of altering the rules.

Defense Has Edge

The exceptions were Dick Hanley of Northwestern, who has campaigned for changes calculated to improve offensive football; Sam Willaman of Ohio State and Dr. Clarence Spears, head coach at Wisconsin. The others favored leaving the rules as they are. All agreed the practice of meeting "set-up" teams is disappearing because high class games must be presented to keep the turnstiles busy.

"The defense has all the better of it in the rules," said Hanley tonight.

"I have campaigned to change the rules to permit forward passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. This would not only improve the overhead game, but would improve the running game—which the spectators come to see. I also favor going back to the old rule which permits running with a recovered fumble or blocked kick, and moving the goal posts back up to the goal line."

"The rules are man-made and therefore not perfect," Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, said. "I hope the committee will not tinker with the rules. All low scoring means is more equal teams. Low score games are interesting. Michigan beat Illinois by only 7 to 6, but nobody went home."

"The elimniation of the dead ball rule might add some thrills," Harry Kipke, coach of Michigan's Big Ten leaer said, "but it has made coaches willing to open up with lateral and double lateral passes. I am afraid return to the old fumble rule would cause these spectacular plays to be discarded and a more conservative game would result."

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota thinks the rules are alright with one exception: "I'd like to see the rules charged to let a ball carrier get up and run after going to one knee," he said.

Willaman strung along with Hanley on the suggestion of permitting passing from anywhere behind the scrimmage line. Clark Shaughnessy, of Chicago, however, said the rules seemed fair enough to him, even if his Maroons have scored only one touchdown against major opponents.

"Good teams will score regardless of rules," he said. "Low scores are due, I think, to more evenly matched teams."

Dr. Spears hoped for rules changes to help the offense, saying: "Elimination of the dead ball rule on fumbles and blocked kicks would help."

"I am not convinced that the rules account for low scoring," Ossie Solem of Iowa, said. "Schedules are getting tougher and that keeps the scoring down."

Noble Kizer, coach of Purdue's sensational Boilermakers, said the present rules provide for a neat balance between offense and defense and from the spectators point of view have been providing plenty of action.

"If the general average of scoring has fallen off," Kizer said, "it can be attributed to the fact that most teams are now playing full schedules against teams in their own class instead of filling in with 'breathers' to run up a lot of points."

ANOTHER PRO LOOP FORMING

Organization Patterned After National Grid League

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 14. (AP)—Professional football took a full stride forward today with announcement here of almost full-grown plans for the organization of an American league patterned after the National professional football circuit.

The announcement by S. A. Godman, owner of the Memphis Tigers and a pioneer in Dixie professional pigskin activities, came as the culmination of a movement initially launched last January among representatives of interested cities looking to the formation of such a loop.

The new league, as its model, would be divided into eastern and western circuits, with Charlotte and Memphis as headquarters.

Strong Lineups

As outlined, the project, which Godman said had the active support of Joe Carr of Columbus, O., president of the national organization, includes in its far-flung scope such elevens besides Charlotte and Memphis, as the St. Louis Gunners, Oklahoma City Chiefs, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Washington, Baltimore, Winston Salem, New Orleans, Birmingham, Montgomery, Nashville, Chattanooga, and Tulsa as well as other teams in the south and midwest.

"We don't want a southern league," Godman explained, "nor do we want a secondary league to the Nationals.

"We—Memphis—play as good football as they do in the National league and the thing to do is to name our league the American league corresponding to the American and National leagues in baseball.

"The Gunners and the Chiefs can win in the National circuit any time."

In College Grid Camps

Madison, Wis., Nov. 14 (AP)—Wisconsin concentrated on perfecting new pass and running plays today in a long offensive drill for the Ohio State encounter. The Badgers offense looked pretty spotty against their second string men in scrimmage due mainly to imperfect blocking.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 14 (AP)—Defensive work against Purdue plays demonstrated by freshmen was the order of practice for the Iowa football team today. Cold weather kept the Hawkeyes in the field house as Coach Ossie Solem gave the first contact work of the week.

Dick Crayne and Russ Fisher, both badly bruised in last Saturday's game, participated in the session. It is expected that Crayne will be able to start at fullback.

The Iowa squad is schedule to leave Thursday night for LaFayette, Ind., and the last Big Ten game of the season.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 14 (AP)—It was so cold on Northwestern's practice field today that Coach Dick Hanley decided to hold drill in Patten gymnasium for the rest of the season. The varsity ran through a brisk signal practice as Hanley still searched for a man to handle punts.

Minneapolis, Nov. 14 (AP)—It was plain today to see which football game of this season Minnesota is trying to make the most of. Secret practice continued in the fieldhouse after the regulars spent a half hour in the cold outside. Officials said today that 3,000 Gopher fans will follow the team to Michigan for Saturday's game.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 14 (AP)—Cornhuskers stock was on the upgrade today as a result of improvement in the condition of Meier, regular center, and O'Brien, veteran tackle, and the prospect that they will be in the lineup for Nebraska against Pittsburgh next Saturday.

The Huskers spent most of today's practice session in defense against Pitt Plays, particularly passes, as reproduced by the freshmen eleven.

The Husker party will leave early Thursday for Pittsburgh and hope to workout at the Pitt stadium Friday afternoon.

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—Chicago's varsity, which has gained 759 yards from scrimmage in four Big Ten games this season with the net result of only one touchdown, was busy learning some new touchdown plays today as Coach Clark Shaughnessy speeded drill for the Illinois battle. Ed Cullen was back at quarterback and the team ran through several new passing and running formations.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 14 (AP)—Illinois' regulars smothered Chicago plays as executed by the freshmen in a short scrimmage today and then took the ball to launch an impressive offensive of their own. Coach Bob Zuppke used the same lineup which has started the past two games against Michigan and Northwestern.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—Indiana's football varsity got down to hard work today, scrimmaging against a freshman eleven which used Xavier university formations. Bob Jones at guard, showed best on defense, while Robert Keck, sophomore fullback, put some drive in the backfield on offense. All players with even slight injuries were excused from the scrimmage.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—The all-star Purdue backfield worked together in practice today for the first time in two weeks, as the Boilermakers started to build a defense against Iowa's attack. Pardonner was at quarterback and Purvis at right half, while Hecker and Carter shifted between left half and fullback positions.

Columbus, O., Nov. 14 (AP)—Ohio State's Big Ten gridders, preparing for Saturday's clash with Wisconsin at Madison, worked out on a snow-covered field in freezing weather today. It was their first practice since last week's victory over Pennsylvania. The varsity was limited to a forward passing drill, but the second stringers scrimmaged with the freshmen.

RUNYAN WINNER AT PINEHURST

Teams With MacFarlane in Best Ball Event, Shoot Sub Par

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 14 (AP)—Paul Runyan, smallest man in toptlight golf, and the tall, scholarly-looking Willie MacFarlane teamed today to whip par decisively over the long number two course of Pinehurst country club and win top money in the pro best-ball event opening the mid-south open golf tournament.

The little White Plains (N. Y.) pro and the big Scot from Tuchahoe, N. Y., scored a sensational 64 this afternoon after a good 68 in the morning for a 36-hole total of 132, three strokes better than that of the next best pair, Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y.

Creavy and Barron were among five teams tied for second place at the halfway mark for the day's play with 68's. In the afternoon they came through with a 67.

Win Worth $500

Joe Kirkwood, trick shot star, and Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., led the morning round with a 66, but skidded to 71 in the afternoon for a total of 137. They were nosed out of third place by Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock, Arak., and Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., who scored 71 and 65 for a total of 136.

Tied with Kirkwood and Wood were two other teams, one made up of Henry Picard, long-driving Charleston (S. C.) pro, and Clarence Owens, Greenville, S. C., and the other of Al Houghton, Washington, and Tony Manero, Greensboro, N. C.

The Picard-Owens and Manero-Houghton combinations both shot 68-69—137. Manero missed a two-foot putt on the home green which if sunk would have given his team a 68 for the afternoon round.

First place was worth $500 to Runyan and MacFarlane, while Creavy and Barron drew $350 and Ackerbloom and Forrester, $250.

Three teams tieing at 137, got $118.

Runyan and MacFarlane in shooting 132 fell one stroke short of the record, 131 compiled last year by Tommy Armour, Chicago, and Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich.

FOOTBALL E'S ARE AWARDED

21 Athletes Given Letters by Coach Carl Nordberg

Football "E's" were presented to 21 Escanaba high school football players by Coach Carl Nordberg at a general assembly program at the senior high school yesterday. In addition a letter was awarded to the student manager and Coach Henry Wylie awarded minor letters to six cross-country runners who won the regional cross-country run at Iron Mountain recently.

After the awarding of the letters, Captain Harold Finman introduced Captain-elect Stanley Jensen to the student body.

Football men awarded letters included the following: Finman, captain, Jensen, captain-elect, Roeder, Kraus, Les Peterson, Toushak, Chase, Thill, Carlton, Alperovitz, Malcomsen, Kositzke, H. Olson, Mike Kelly, Art Peterson, Milkovitch, Harvey, Heidenrich, Christensen, Heminger and Olmsted.

The student manager letter was awarded to Kenneth McMartin and cross-country letters to Captain Kenneth Parent, Robert Moll, George Dupere, Arthur Collins, John Pepin and James McLeod.

Washington University of St. Louis will choose its 1933 football captain at the end of the season from among nine single-game leaders named by Coach Chile Walsh.

Nig Bush Tries Eye On Northland Buck

As he squinted along a cue at the 14 ball in Murray Boyle's recreation parlor Tuesday afternoon, Guy Terrell "Nig" Bush, one of the first three ranking pitchers of the Chicago Cubs, allowed that these Escanaba winters bring weather considerably colder than they have down in his home state of Mississippi. The Mississippi mudcat was playing the saw-off game of pool with Gene Autry, cowboy singer of radio fame, who is Black Guy's pal on a deer hunting trip which will concentrate around Northland and Mashek today.

Guy Bush

"They tell me if I stay here long enough I'll be an Eskimo," Guy remarked.

Bush and Autry arrived Monday afternoon at Art L'Heureux's "Pine Shadows" on M-35 at Ford River, bringing a cargo of baseballs, shotguns, guitar and mouthorgan, the two latter items being Autry's stock in trade, while Bush is using the baseballs for daily workouts.

Wearing the Red

With Ted Bohnenkamp as their guide, the singer and the twirler will leave early this morning for Northland to try their luck at bringing down bucks.

"Sure having a wonderful time," says Bush, "and if I get a buck I'll be as tickled as when I beat the A's back in 1929."

"Son-of-a-gun, he brought baseballs along. He's going to throw them at the deer," Autry broke in.

"Yeah, and Gene's going to yodel and coax the deer around," Guy retaliated.

Wearing borrowed clothes, Gene and Guy came to Escanaba Tuesday to get their hunting outfits, which will run largely to red for safety's sake. Gene in a green plaid shirt, red hunter's cap, precariously tight pants, and the inevitable fancy cowboy singer boots; Bush's slender form in khaki and high shoes.

There was considerable visiting around yesterday, as they shook hands with old-time Escanaba ball-players and Cub fans who survived a year of disappointment. Gene and Guy will have to pull out of camp Friday, as Autry has a three-day engagement booked at Madison, Wis., but they'll be back again after a day or two in Chicago.

First Experience

It's the first time they have been up this far north, and their first experience at deer hunting. Bush doubts the prediction of old-time hunters that he will get buck fever when he lamps his first deer with those sharp dark eyes of his.

"Can't say much about baseball yet," says Guy, "because it ain't well to talk about baseball till you get a contract, and I ain't got mine yet.

"We are going to have a new president as you know, and anybody's guess is as good as mine, but my guess is that Wrigley will be the big chief and have the final say over the team.

"You can bank on the Cubs being plenty tough next year, especially if they get Klein and swing the other deals they have on now. Yessir, we will be plenty tough for the other teams to tackle.. Well, goodbye boys, and be sure and pull for me to get some home runs."

Nig and his pal Gene are rather contrasting types, Bush dark-haired, swarthy-skinned and skinny, and Autry light-haired, shorter and rounded out. Both have grins which they use frequently, but Guy's white teeth stand out with the best effect on that face that won him the title of Black Guy and Nig.

Bush differs from other Cub pitchers in that he is thin and frail. His 165 pounds are spread out over a frame that goes up six feet in the air. He is a right-hander when he pitches, but bats left.

With the exception of a short time in 1924, when he was sent to Wichita Falls, Bush has been with the Cubs ever since that year. His best year was in 1929, when he won 18 and lost 7.

He had the distinction, in the world series of that year, of being the first pitcher in three years to stop the rampant American Leaguers from running away with the series in successive games.

GOPHER PLAYS FULLY STUDIED

Wolverines Don't Want to Miss a Trick Saturday

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—A near blizzard howled across Ferry field today, but the Wolverines took to their lair in Yost field house, where they went through a rehearsal of new plays to be used against Minnesota Saturday.

The same Michigan backfield combination that clicked against Iowa Saturday worked behind the line today, with Bill Renner at the quarterback post, Everhardus and Captain Fay at the halves, and Johnny Regeczi at full. Jack Heston and Russ Oliver saw some action at the half and fullback positions.

Whitey Wistert and John Kowalik, not yet fully recovered from injuries suffered in the Iowa game, took no active part in today's practice. Both are expected to be back in the lineup by Saturday.

Impersonate Lund

For the next two days a freshman lineup supplied by Coach Bennie Oosterbaan with Gopher formations, will be pitted against the first string lineup. Coach Oosterbaan, who has scouted the Gopher games this season, has carefully coached two yearlings to impersonate Pug Lund and Julius Alphonse, backfield stars on the Minnesota team, and they will play a prominent part in the workouts hereafter.

Estil Tessmer, whose collarbone was fractured earlier in the season, appeared for practice in a uniform today, in the hope that he will be given a chance to see action again before his college career ends. He is a senior. Carl Savage, veteran guard, who fractured a foot bone, has discarded the cast from his foot and he too hopes to play again before the season's end closes his Michigan playing days.

The Michigan strategists are proceeding on the belief that the Gophers will start a forward passing attack early in the game, since no opponent thus far has gained consistently through the Wolverine line. Consequently a defense against passing will receive a fair share of attention this week.

BOXING

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Freddy Miller of Cincinnati, recognized by the National Boxing association as world's featherweight champion, outpointed Lew Feldman of Brooklyn, in a non-title bout at the Ridgewood Grove arena tonight. Miller weighed 127¾ pounds; Feldman 130½.

H. F. Wickman, Jr., Cape Girardeau, Mo., sportsman, brought down a wild goose 300 yards away with a 30-30 rifle.

STATE RESERVE SQUAD AT WORK

Regulars Rest, Kircher To Get Detailed Instructions

East Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—Michigan State's reserves returned to the practice field for the first time this week under raw weather conditions.

The first stringers who participated in the Carnegie Tech game postponed their return to activity until tomorrow. At that time regular practice routine will continue through Friday in the first week's preparation for the Detroit game Nov. 25.

Reserves worked out under wraps throughout the practice with the ground blanketed in snow and chilling winds sweeping across the field. The practice was in charge of Assistant Coaches Miles W. Casteel and Tom King. Charley Bachman opened the annual "battle of banquets' by leaving here for Mt Pleasant for a banquet there tonight.

After looking over Detroit plays for the last two days and consulting with Casteel, who scouted the Titans, Bachman expects to put his practice machinery into full gear tomorrow. Casteel has emphasized the Spartans will need two weeks of preparation and a rest Saturday to prepare for Detroit's great overhead game.

Bachman plans a double campaign of emphasis this week. He must work out a defense to bottle up the passing combination of Doug Nott and Dick Lutz or else concede defeat to the fast moving Titans.

Just as important to Bachman however, is the necessity of improving his own offensive. In the last two games, Michigan State has been unable to advance much after reaching the 10 yard line. State needs touchdown maneuvers.

Quarterback Al Kircher probably will be given some detailed instructions during the week over the selection of proper plays. There has been some question as to the wisdom of his plays within scoring territory the last two games.

The only scheduled competitive activity in the Spartan camp this week was called off today. Michigan State freshmen and reserves planned a night game tomorrow but it was postponed indefinitely because of weather conditions.

ANOTHER FIGHT CARD PLANNED

Boxing Show at Coliseum Set for Monday, December 4

The Escanaba Rifle club announces that its next boxing show is expected to be held at the Coliseum on Monday, Dec. 4, if present plans go through without a hitch. If the promoters are rewarded with the good attendance of the past two shows it may be possible that an amateur championship tournament will be held in the early winter with the finals early in January.

The lineups thus far follow:

Omar Crocker, 118 pounds, Iron Mountain A. C., vs. Laurie Strauser, C. C. C. camp 685.

Jimmy Platteter, 126 pounds, Iron Mountain A. C., vs. Bobby McVey, Cuban camp 685.

Irving Noel, 126 pounds, Marinette flash, vs. Francis Vetort, Stephenson A. C.

Eddie Lick, 160 pounds, Iron Mountain A. C., vs. Roy Anderson, Gladstone.

Tom Beaudry, 160 pounds, Iron Mountain A. C., vs. Good Boy from Marinette A. C.

Harold McMahon, 147 pounds, Iron Mountain A. C., vs. Sammy Davenport, colored, C. C. C. camp 685.

Elmer J. Cousineau, 153 pounds, Highland Park G. G. team, and an opponent to be selected.

Joe Anderson, 160 pounds, Gladstone, vs. Gibson, colored, if available, Cedar River C. C. C. camp.

Iron Mountain Athletic club boys are coached by Mike Quick, father of Henry Quick, professional featherweight. C. C. C. boys from Camp 685 are coached by Paul Jay Miller, 1927 state bantam champion, 1928 state A. A. U. featherweight champion.

This card bears the sanction of A. A. U. for Dec. 4.

Detroit Olympics Stage Nice Rally

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Scoring two goals in an overtime period, Detroit Olympics went into the leadership of the International hockey league here tonight by beating the Cleveland Indians four to two. The defeat sent the Cleveland team to the cellar position.

Ronnie Moffat was the big gun in the Olympics offense, scoring three goals and getting one assist. Cleveland, with Abbie Cox, Detroit goalie, in the net because of injury to Roberts, presented a stubborn defense in the regular periods but suddenly cracked in the overtime when Detroit scored twice in quick succession. The game was marked by rough body checking by members of both teams. Ten penalties were handed out by Referee Clarence Bush.

ROAD PARLEY HERE TODAY

Lansing Official Coming to Explain New Work-Relief Plan

An official of the state highway department will come from Lansing today to confer with members of county road commissions and other highway authorities concerning the recently announced program for the expenditure of $90,000,000 for maintenance as a means of relieving unemployment, Ben F. Sparks, district highway engineer, announces.

R. P. Mason, county road engineer, stated yesterday that he has lined up a number of projects, along the line the nation-wide program contemplates. His budget will be presented to the highway department for approval today.

Kennedy Explains Program

Don Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department, was unable to attend the meeting held at the Delta hotel yesterday noon, but forwarded from Lansing a statement of the proposed plans. His statement which was read at the meeting, was as follows:

"In line with the president's avowed determination to place 2,000,000 men now on work relief on "regular work at regular wages" by November 16, with another 2,000,000 unemployed to be absorbed as soon as possible, administration officials announced several new moves.

"The bureau of public roads invited state highway commissions to list immediately at least six projects for each of the 3,000 counties in the country on which maintenance expenditures of not more than $5,000 might be made immediately. The projects would be financed in the proportion of 65 per cent relief funds and 35 per cent federal aid funds to the states. It was said that $90,000,000 would be spent for such work.

Typical Work Projects

"He said federal funds would be available for purchase of small tools and materials, supplies and rental of non-publicly owned equipment. Work which may be undertaken, MacDonald added, includes:

"Grading and drainage roads and streets largely by hand labor; widening shoulders; widening inside curves and flattening bank slopes; laying tile underdrain; cobble gutters; fencing rights of way; dry masonry guard walls; surfacing and resurfacing with local materials or materials supplied other than by relief funds; roadside clean-up and selective cutting of brushes and trees; footpaths of local materials on outlying streets and suburban roads; cleaning up streets and trimming trees; producing road and maintenance materials.

"In cases where state laws prohibit expenditure of state funds for state personnel engaged on supervision of any of the work, payment for supervision may be made out of relief funds."

11 Surveys Being Made

In addition, Mr. Kennedy reported that 15 upper peninsula highway projects are now under contract, providing for an expenditure of $713,612.79 and a total mileage of 20-foot concrete and 21-foot gravel roads of 57.569 miles. These projects were listed as follows: City of Ironwood; relocation south of Republic; villages Stephenson and Daggett; Wakefield-Tula; Sage River bridge; south county line, north Paint Lake; village of Powers; south of Wakefield; relocation northwest of Iron River; Elmwood north; Ingalls relocation; Channing to Silver Lake; Gladstone to Rapid River, Luce-Mackinac county line north; and city of Marquette.

Eleven survey parties are also in the field on new projects, which will be put under construction as soon as the surveys are completed next spring.

Speaking at the Delta hotel luncheon meeting, Atty. Torval E. Strom, said that efforts were being made to place South Twenty-third street, between Ludington street and M-35, on the program for concrete paving next year.

Opening today at the Delft Theatre is Fox Film's latest release, "The Mad Game." It is scheduled for an engagement of two days. The fact that the story embraces what might be called the country's most menacing crime—kidnaping — stamps the film as one of importance.

Spencer Tracy who has the leading role, portrays the part of an exgangster, who is double-crossed by his associates and railroaded to prison for a five-year term. During his stay in the penitentiary his former aide terrorizes the country with his newfound racket—the snatch racket. Tracy is released from prison to aid the government in wiping out the new dread. His knowledge of the underworld soon gains Tracy an entrance into the dominating ring of kidnapers. He secures all the inside information necessary to aid the authorities and at the same time rescues the two latest victims of the ring.

"The Mad Game" is said to give Spencer Tracy a remarkable opportunity to display the acting ability he so ably manifested in his role as Killer Mears in "The Last Mile." After a wide search for the girl to play opposite Tracy, Claire Trevor, who was last seen in "The Last Trail" with George O'Brien, was selected for the part. Others in the cast, notable for its careful selection, are Ralph Morgan, Howard Lally, J. Carrol Naish, John Miljan, Matt McHugh, Kathleen Burke, Mary Mason, Willard Robertson, John Davidson, Paul Fix and Jerry Devine.

NIRA FORESTRY CAMP STARTED

Former Escanaba Man In Charge; Separate From CCC

A new NIRA project, designed to provide employment and improve conditions in federal forest units, is now under way in the Hiawatha National Forest of the Upper Peninsula, with Lyle T. Sullivan, formerly an engineer with the highway department at Escanaba, as the general foreman in charge. At present, there are 175 men employed, and there is a possibility that this number will be greatly increased under the broadened winter unemployment relief program now proposed.

This program and organization is entirely separate from the CCC units. Men living in the counties which have lands included in the Hiawatha forest are hired for the crews. Temporarily, they are commuting from their homes and drive to work each day, working 30 hours a week. Four camps for housing the men are being constructed under the direction of the general foreman and the buildings will be ready for occupancy later this month.

The projects laid out for the NIRA forestry program are: construction and maintenance of roads, construction of firebreaks, fire hazard reduction, and cultural work in stands of timber.

The entire organization in the Hiawatha forest, including the CCC and NIRA projects, is headed by the Forest ranger, George D. Ferrari.

More Hunters In Newberry This Year

Newberry, Nov. 14 — Hunters in larger numbers than have been known for the past two years are making Newberry their headquarters during the deer season. All merchants report a larger business than last year and considerably more than was expected. The heavy fall of snow, near-zero weather and bad driving conditions appear to have kept few of the nimrods at home.

During Monday night a number of cars went into the ditch or got into trouble in other manner and the local garage business was stimulated. Cabin trailers with complete hunting equipment are making an unusual appearance this season, along with the home-made affairs which are again on hand in plentiful numbers. The general rank and file of the hunter seen on the streets are well dressed, mostly in new garments. Conservation officers report much fewer trappers than last season when many of this gentry camo up weeks before the deer season in hopes of "living off the land" until the deer season arrived and they could get a meat supply before going home.

Roads into the woods are not any too good with heavy drifts of snow and a soft bottom in many places. Especially is this true of the road west from the Seney-Grand Marais road where several cars were reported stuck late on Tuesday.

One group of downstate hunters arrived in town late on Monday with no idea of where they would hunt. They asked about locations and left for the north woods at 9:30 p. m. to make camp in strange territory in the dark and with a bad storm blowing. Another group got a conservation officer out at 4:00 a. m. to sell them a bunch of licenses. They reported they wanted to be in the woods at daybreak.

Tax Collections Heavy in October For Delta County

October tax collections in Delta county showed a big increase over the preceding month, as property owners came in with their payments to avoid penalties now in effect. Records at the office of Ralph Olsen, county treasurer, show a total of $38,904.38 for all taxes collected in October, where in September the total paid was only $6,650.37.

November 1 was the deadline for payment of 1932 tax bills without interest or collection fee or any other penalty for delinquency. The penalties were removed by action of the state legislature this year to encourage payment of delinquent taxes. After November 1 the collection fee and interest on 1932 tax bills paid at the county treasurer's office was 10.75 per cent and the amount will increase three quarters of one per cent a month.

To become eligible for benefits of the 10-year installment payment plan for delinquent taxes of the year 1931 and previous years, taxpayers must pay their 1932 tax bills. No interest charge or collection fee is to be charged on payment of delinquent taxes for the year 1931 and previous years made at the county treasurer's office before September 1, 1935. An interest charge is to be made after that date on the 10-year payment plan authorized by the state legislature.

ROAD PARLEY HERE TODAY

Lansing Official Coming to Explain New Work-Relief Plan

An official of the state highway department will come from Lansing today to confer with members of county road commissions and other highway authorities concerning the recently announced program for the expenditure of $90,000,000 for maintenance as a means of relieving unemployment, Ben F. Sparks, district highway engineer, announces.

R. P. Mason, county road engineer, stated yesterday that he has lined up a number of projects, along the line the nation-wide program contemplates. His budget will be presented to the highway department for approval today.

FOREIGN POLICY OF NATION SHOULD BE DECIDED

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 14 (AP)—Secretary Wallace tonight asked that America take a position either for reducing tariffs or curbing production or a compromise between the two and to be prepared to stick to its decision for from ten to fifteen years.

In an address which had White House approval, Wallace told farmers and businessmen at a banquet opening the corn-hog production control program in Indiana, that the nation should make an early but deliberate decision as to its foreign policy.

Adjustments and a planned program will be essential whether the policy adopted its internationalism, nationalism or a combination of the two, he said, visualizing a standard of living "two or three times that which he had in 1929," as within the nation's reach should it pursue a definite plan.

Must Follow Policy

"The important thing," the secretary of agriculture said in the third and last speech of his swing through the midwest in behalf of the administration's program, "once we have fully debated and understood the issues from a long time point of view, is that we follow out the policy steadfastly and firmly in all its implications even though certain people are hurt.

"If we follow the international program, we absolutely must receive great quantities of goods from abroad and must not be disturbed by the clamor of people who are hurt thereby. If we follow the national program, we must resolutely plan to keep 50,000,000 acres of land out of use, no matter how loud may be the outcry of certain carrying, handling, processing and exporting interests.

"If we decide to lower our tariff only part way and reduce our acreage only part way, we must have the courage to do sufficient of both so that the job is done. No matter which of the three paths we follow, it is absolutely essential that our farmers and our laboring men learn to keep step with one another."

He asserted that "it is exceedingly important that business men never again take as large a percentage of the national income for profits as they did in 1929," adding:

"When the total capital of the country receives more than rather modest return, it interferes with the circuit flow of prosperity.

"To get this principle firmly fixed in our minds is more important than to pillory such individuals as have testified before the senate finance committee as to the heartless way in which they betrayed the public and their own better selves in order to make a few million dollars.

New Business Man

"Many of them have posed as public oracles, giving interviews, making speeches, and writing for the public press. I trust the influence of that kind of man in public life is gone forever. We do not want their leadership in either national or international planning.

"We need a new type of business man who is willing to help in working out the national or international plans, whichever they may prove to be and who is then willing to devote all his talents

MUSSOLINI HITS AT CAPITALISM

Forecasts Eventual Abolishment of Italian Deputies' Chamber

BY ANDRUE BERDING
(Ass'd Press Foreign Staff)

Rome, Nov. 14 (AP)—In what was called the funeral oration of capitalism and liberal institutions, Premier Mussolini today forecast the eventual abolishment of the Italian chamber of deputies.

Speaking before the powerful national council of corporations he also advanced a program by which other nations could acquire cooperative states. The chamber, he said, would be elected as usual next spring for another term of five years.

Afterwards, he went on, that legislative body must decide its own fate. It is perfectly conceivable that the national council of corporations should completely supplant the chamber, Il Duce said amidst enthusiastic applause.

"The chamber of deputies has never pleased me," he explained. "In fact, this chamber of deputies is now anachronistic in its very title.

"It is an institution which we have found to be extraneous to our mentality and to our fashion as Fascists."

Denounces Capitalism

Saying that "today we bury economic liberalism" and that "all socialist parties in Europe are fragments," Mussolini suggested three conditions for other nations if they wished a achieve a cooperative state:

First, a single party with perfect political discipline;

Second, a totalitarian state and a transformed "potentializing" of interests and hopes of the people;

Third, a period of very high tension.

The premier denounced capitalism and named Ivar Krueger, the late match king, and Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, as representatives of this system. The ideal of supercapitalism, he said, would be the standardization of the human mind to the level of the greatest.

The council of corporations, as

Contract Unsigned By Wayne, Detroit, Project Held Up

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, asked why the state had not released the money for the widening of Woodward avenue, said today that the city of Detroit and the county had not signed the contract with the state.

With acting Mayor John Smith and a delegation of city officials prepared to leave for Washington to seek federal money for a 50,000 job program for Detroit, it was revealed that the contract, adopted by the council October 31, had not been acted upon. The resolution passed by the council October 31 authorized the mayor, city clerk and controller to sign the contract on behalf of the city.

MEN MISSING ON SUPERIOR SINCE SUNDAY

COLD NORTH WIND WHIPS GREAT LAKES

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Coast guards stationed at the Portage Canal, Houghton, tonight had found no trace of two men believed lost in Lake Superior between Ontonagon, Mich., and Bayfield, Wis., according to word received here.

The men are Arthur "Pop" Lewis, of the coast guard crew at Duluth and Theodore Salinen, of the coast guard crew at Munising. The two have been unaccounted for since 11 a. m. Sunday when they left Ontonagon for Bayfield on their way to Duluth with a picket boat, C. G. 8030.

It is thought the men were caught in the blizzard off Keewenaw point Sunday night. The United States coast guard cutter Crawford has been sent from Duluth to aid in the search.

The searching party comprising Captain Fred Sollman, Walter Berkovich, August Kumpala and Joseph Rundquist left the Portage Canal Monday and went as far as Bayfield, but reported that the lost men could not be sighted.

40-Mile Wind

The pair stopped for several days in Marquette and left here Sunday, November 5, for Ontonagon. The picket boat had been taken from Duluth, Minn., last spring to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., for use during the summer. Lewis was sent from Duluth with another coast guard man to bring the boat back to Duluth. At Munising Lewis' companion was taken ill and Salinen was ordered to relieve him.

The lookout at the Portage entry station tonight reported that a 40-mile wind was blowing, churning the lake into a high sea. The temperature was below freezing, leading to the belief that Lewis and Salinen could not survive.

The picket boat is a 35-foot craft with cabin, and accomodations for only two men. It is capable of making about 20 miles an hour. It formerly was used as a rum runner at Detroit.

Captain Thomas E. Deegan of the Marquette coast guard station, tonight expressed the hope that Lewis and Salinen had been

No Nobel Peace Prize This Year

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Nobel committee of the storting (parliament) decided today not to award the Nobel peace prize this year.

Prizes for outstanding achievement in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and for the promotion of international peace were established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel, the peace prize to be awarded annually by a committee of five elected from the Norwegian storting.

If a prize is reserved for one year, the amount reverts to the principal of the fund, increasing subsequent awards.

Former Dry Agent Held In Custody

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 14. (AP)—The Daily News says that S. M. Gurley, former deputy prohibition administrator for the western district of Arkansas, was taken into custody here today as a climax to a week's secret investigation of reports that a protection toll was being levied on bootleggers. United States Marshall Cooper Hudspeth denied Gurley had been formally arrested but was quoted as saying "This thing may have big developments."

Smith Says Visit at White House Social, Politics Disregarded

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith sat down in the White House tonight and over teacups had their first personal chat since the 1932 election.

Before and after his visit, the 1928 presidential candidate insisted to newspapermen:

"No politics, just a personal call."

"We had a nice pleasant visit," said Smith as he walked through a crowd of newspapermen on the front portico of the White House after his visit.

No Politics Discussed

"Well what did you talk about?" he was asked.

"We talked about the size of our respective families and the contest for grandchildren.

"We also talked about the president's forthcoming vacation at Warm Springs. It was entirely a social visit."

"Did you talk any politics?"

"Nobody said a word about politics except one of the children. He asked for another piece of cake."

With that Smith, accompanied by John J. Rasckob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Dr. Raymond Sullivan another friend, entered a waiting car and drove to a hotel.

Earlier in the day the president had paved the way for reorganization of the New York Democratic organization with the appointment of James J. Hoey, a close friend of Smith, as collector of internal revenue in New York City.

Smith was informed of the appointment as he stepped off the special car which brought him to Washington.

"I hadn't heard it," he said, then when asked for comment, he added, "I can say that Mr. Hoey is a very able, capable, upstanding citizen of New York."

"Well, what do you think this might mean?" newspapermen asked.

"Now," said Smith, grinning, "you're getting into politics."

Ambrose O'Connell, an aide to Postmaster General Farley, met the Smith train and escorted Smith to the White House in Farley's automobile.

With O'Connell to greet the Smith party was Reverend M. S. Sheey, assistant director of Catholic university. Smith was to be installed as a member of the board of trustees of the university at ceremonies tonight. Later, he was to address a reception for the Bishop James H. Ryan.

Smith said he came to the capital primarily to attend the Catholic university exercises.

The last personal chat between Smith and the president was at the invitation of Mr. Roosevelt. Smith came to the executive mansion at Albany, then the residence of Mr. Roosevelt, on last October 28. This was the first meeting between the two since, amid the cheers of the Democratic New York state convention, the two had shaken hands on the platform on October 4.

The 1932 election came. Mr. Roosevelt was elected. Smith remained politically inactive and when friends would have urged him into the limelight, he insisted on remaining out of the political picture.

They have met on other occasions since Albany but always under the eye of the public.

The first time Smith saw the president after he took office was on one of these occasions. Smith, marching in the inaugural parade, past the White House reviewing stand, waved his hand to the new president and Mr. Roosevelt waved back. In the seven months since then, Smith has been in the capital at least three times, twice on missions involving RFC loans

EDWARD HURLEY DIES SUDDENLY

Was Wartime Chairman of United States Shipping Board

Chicago, Nov. 14 (AP)—Edward N. Hurley, 69, the man commissioned by President Woodrow Wilson "to go the limit" as war-time chairman of the United States shipping board to get American troops and supplies to France, died suddenly from pneumonia tonight.

First word of the illness of the prominent manufacturer and financier came this afternoon when he was transferred on a stretcher from his Lake Shore Drive home to a hospital.

Hurley returned from Miami Beach, Fla., a few days ago after contracting a cold and had kept to his bed. His illness was not regarded as serious until word of his removal to the hospital.

Successful in nearly all the endeavors he attempted, Hurley came to the national notice first as a member of the federal trade commission in 1913, later becoming its chairman. Because of private business demands he resigned from government service in February, 1917, only to be called back again a few months later by President Wilson to head the shipping board.

U. S. FREEDOM OF WORSHIP IN RUSSIA ASKED

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Religious freedom for American citizens in Russia today was disclosed as one of the subjects on which an understanding is being sought by President Roosevelt before an announcement of Russian recognition.

The chief executive is insistent that nationals of this country in the Soviet state must have virtually the same liberty of worship they have in the United States.

The response of Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, was not made known but the White House still felt an accord between the nations was probable before the president leaves for Warm Springs, Ga., on Friday.

Not Serious Problem

Circles close to the Soviet delegation said meanwhile that citizens of other countries were accorded freedom of religious worship in Russia and the question should not be one to stand in the way of restoring diplomatic relations.

In view, however, of the anxiety of religious groups in the United States because of the Soviet attitude toward religion, it was felt Mr. Roosevelt wanted the issue fully settled so it might not be a source of future irritation.

A two-day recess in the parleys between the president, his assistants, and Litvinoff led also to the belief in authoritative quarters that the Soviet commissar might be awaiting word from his government on the religious question and other matters.

In this connection, it was recalled that President Roosevelt in his message to the president of the Soviet mentioned difficulties to be cleared away before recognition. The chief executive made it plain, however, that he did not regard these as insoluble.

State department officials, among them Undersecretary Phillips and William C. Bullitt, special assistant to Secretary Hull, said experts for both sides had been busy during the last two days putting the results of the parleys on paper.

They said quite a bit remained to be done but in official circles outside the scope of the conversations it was felt that work might already have begun on drafting the formula for recognition.

There was no official comment on a Moscow dispatch by the Soviet News Agency which said the Russian government would balk at guarantees on debts and other controversial subjects before recognition had been decided upon.

Campaign Warms Up

In circles close to the Russian delegation here this was regarded merely as a reply to American newspaper articles and news dispatches which intimated the Roosevelt administration might seek such guarantees before a decision on recognition.

It was pointed out that President Roosevelt was well aware of the Soviet position on these matters before he invited Litvinoff to visit the capital and that officials had emphasized since that there

400 Millions Will Be Paid Off Soon In Christmas Clubs

This estimate, the newspaper said, is more than 15 per cent below the Christmas clubs distribution in 1932, and marks the third successive decline. In 1931 the figure was nearly $600,000,000 and in 1930, the record year, the distribu[illegible]

LINDY WILL FLY ATLANTIC AGAIN

But Jaunt Will Be Made by Stages as An Aerial Survey

Caldelas De Tuy, Spain, Nov. 14. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today he is considering flying across the middle Atlantic by stages as a continuation of his aerial survey of the North Atlantic.

He will not fly non-stop, he said, and it was indicated that he may follow the route originally mapped by the late Captain Alan Winslow and followed in reverse last summer by the Italian seaplane squadron under the command of Italo Balbo.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, who were forced down near here by fog yesterday on a flight from Santona, Spain, to Lisbon, planned to continue the journey tomorrow if weather permits.

Examines Motors

Lindbergh today supervised the dredging of the Minho River in order to make possible the takeoff of his seaplane. The river is shallow and rocky.

A crew of Spanish sailors and Portuguese fishermen helped him. The plane was moored to a tree on the river bank opposite the summer home of former Premier Pimenta De Castro of Portugal in the Portuguese town of Valenca Do Minho.

The colonel rose early today and examined the motors and refueled. Later he boarded the gunboat Pradera in order to examine the river for a possible takeoff place.

The Americans stayed aboard their seaplane last night and were taken ashore today by the launch of the gunboat. They were entertained by village authorities.

Aviation officials believed Colonel Lindbergh might halt at Bermuda and the Azores on the return flight. In this way he will have checked flying conditions in both directions across the northern and southern routes over the North Atlantic.

GLASS SALES FOR MICHIGAN TO BE SOUGHT

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—A system of liquor control which will permit the sale of whisky at low enough prices to drive out bootleg competition sales by the glass in the larger centers of population and possibly package sales through designated vendors as well as state stores, probably will be recommended to the legislature by the legislative council.

Members of the council conferred at length this afternoon with Governor Comstock. They hope to have their bill finished this week. Some members said many of the provisions still are in debate; others said agreement virtually has been reached. It was evident, however, that a majority of the council hopes to be able to put a low enough levy on whisky so average varieties can be sold for $1.50 to $2.00 a quart, with fifths possibly down to $1 or $1.25.

Want Cheap Liquor

In its tentative form it was believed the council bill provides for state stores, and also for sales by the quart through specially designated merchants. This might permit sales in hotels, drug stores and so on in certain cases. In sales through state stores the state would add from 10 to 40 percent to cost to provide it with revenue needed for schools. The size of the state "take" may depend upon developments in Washington. Rep. Carl F. De Lano, Republican, Kalamazoo, was designated to go there with representatives of other states to urge a reduction in federal levies, so states may have cheap liquor.

The bill is expected to provide for sales by the glass in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint. These communities could banish sales of this nature by local referendum, but would start with legalized glass sales. All other communities would start with sales by the glass barred, but with the privilege, under a local option clause, of voting for such sales.

Rigid licensing and regulating provisions would be prescribed for hotels, restaurants and clubs in communities where sales by the glass are permitted.

Governor Comstock declined to make public his views on the handling of hard liquor. He is expected to make recommendations when he submits his message to the special session of the legislature November 22.

Regardless of the final recommendations of the council, it was apparent the fight to determine the type of liquor control has only begun. Sales by the glass, sales by state stores, sales by designated merchants, the size of the levy and many other points admittedly will arouse controversy. One hundred and thirty-two members of the legislature will have a right to express their views and offer amendments, and many of them are expected to take advantage of the opportunity.

There were indications that a proposal to allow sales by the glass in Grand Rapids may be opposed by almost the solid Kent county legislative delegation, and substantial opposition may appear to a similar proposal for Flint. Outstate dry members presumably will support moves to wipe out such provisions. Wayne county leaders are hopeful, however, that even if all outstate counties are

New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—Pierre S. Dupont announced today the formation of "the conference on railroad recovery," which held an initial meeting, attended by 80 industrial and business leaders from various parts of the country, and presided over by Mr. Dupont as chairman.

Mr. Dupont said at the conclusion of the meeting that no specific plan for the railroads had been discussed or formulated, but that "railroad prosperity in the main depends on national prosperity" and that "the large interest of this group is naturally in national recovery and all measures that can help to insure it."

"There is an unexampled opportunity," he said, "for all who have an interest in the future of railroads to get together, reconcile their differences of opinion and agree on a program for the future. Broad, long time solutions arrived at in this spirit would have a reassuring and stabilizing effect on business generally which would help greatly to promote the general recovery for which everyone is striving."

WIFE OF KELLY TAKEN TO MILAN

New Women's Section of Federal Prison Will Be Her Home

Milan, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—As carefully as they might have handled her husband, George "Machine Gun" Kelly, federal officials today whisked Mrs. Kathryn Kelly away from the women's workhouse at Cincinnati, and veiling their destination in secrecy, brought here to the new women's section of the Milan federal prison where she will continue her life sentence in connection with the Urschel kidnaping.

The trip was made by train and automobile, with Mrs. Kelly in the custody of Warden John J. Ryan. Immediately upon her arrival Mrs. Kelly was placed in a quarantine cell, where she will remain for at least a week.

Her Duties Undecided

Warden Ryan said that Mrs. Shannon, mother of Mrs. Kelly, also serving a life sentence growing out of the Urschel abduction, was not in the Milan institution, and said he knew of no plans to bring her here.

When sentence was passed on Mrs. Kelly her only comment was a wish that she and her mother be imprisoned at the same institution.

Warden Ryan said tonight that no decision had been reached concerning Mrs. Kelly's duties. "Everybody here is assigned to a task, and she will do something," he said. There are no factory units at the prison, and most of the duties are incident to the farming of the land about the building, working in the shops, kitchen and laundry in connection with the prison.

The Milan prison was completed last May at a cost of $360,000 Built in the form of a hollow square, it was designed to accommodate about 600 inmates. It was built originally as a detention farm for federal prisoners from the eastern Michigan district and northern Ohio district.

The institution is not surrounded by a wall, its own four sides forming the only enclosure. It stands at the center of a 200 acre farm.

The feathers of birds are, perhaps, more efficient as an armor than is commonly realized: shot are often deflected by the feathered coats of gamebirds.

to New York City and once as a witness before senate committee. On none of these journeys did the two meet.

The White House visit today came in the backwash of discussion concerning the collapse of Tammany control in New York City and the rumored desire of the Roosevelt administration to rebuild the Democratic city organization along lines of its own choosing.

Smith has been mentioned as a solidifying factor, potentially the medium for welding together the disrupted city organization.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith was installed tonight as a member of the board of trustees of Catholic university.

The former governor of New York was given the oath by William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston. He was named to the board last spring, but installation was postponed until the regular fall meeting of the board.

Smith, in an address delivered at a reception for Bishop James H. Ryan, rector of the university, said the Catholic University of America "has been a great asset to our nation."

"I believe," he said, "that a person cannot be a good Catholic and a bad citizen."

Smith took occasion to comment on himself, and after noting he never had attended college, said: "Of recent years I have become quite a campus figure.

"A number of years ago I was awarded the degree of doctor of letters at Fordham university. Last June, after spending a day on the Harvard campus, I received a degree which less brilliant students must spend years to obtain.

"Now it seems that I am some sort of college official."

Must Keep Up to Japan and United States, She Asserts

London, Nov. 14 (AP)—The British government announced today it intended to build larger warships, within the limits of the 1930 naval treaty, to meet the construction programs of the United States and Japan.

This announcement was made in the house of commons today by Sir Bolton Meredith Eyres Monsell, the first lord of the admiralty. He made the point that Japan and the United States were building bigger cruisers.

He said the admiralty revised its 1933 program to include two new type 9,000-ton cruisers with increased armament and one cruiser of the 5,200-ton Arethusa class and that revision had been made "following the most anxious consideration and with much regret."

With the world disarmament negotiations apparently deadlocked, the admiralty's announcement was received enthusiastically by big navy advocates who recently have been warning that Great Britain was becoming the weak sister of the seas instead of its mistress as she has been described for centuries.

The secretariat of the navy league commented on the announcement that it was "an indication to the public that the admiralty is watching every development in the naval situation and not sitting back in their chairs."

"One hopes," said the navy league statement, "that this decision will not be used by the scaremongers to indicate a likelihood of war."

Almost constantly, since President Roosevelt launched a United States naval program under the terms of the naval treaty, British leaders have shown alarm.

Stanley Baldwin mentioned the situation in his speech of Oct. 6 in Birmingham, and Admirals Beatty and Chatfield have raised their voices in support of a program for building up the British navy, pointing with concern at the United States.

EDWARD HURLEY DIES SUDDENLY

forces. Wilson summoned his new shipping chief and said: "Hurley, we must go the limit." And go the limit Hurley did.

Hurley also received the Distinguished Service Medal, the honor being conferred upon him for "exceptional meritorous service in connection with the shipment of troops and supplies. Allied nations also gave him high honors.

When the insull crash came, Hurley was appointed co-receiver for the giant middlewest utilities company to aid in salvage of assets for the thousands of investors over the nation.

Chairman of the Hurley Machine company, Hurley long had been a figure in manufacturing, transportation of utility ventures. He was a director for several automobile concerns, utilities, railroads, traction companies, steamship lines, and banks.

His four children were present in the hospital when he died. They are Edward N. Hurley, Jr., Raymond J. Hurley, Mrs. Helen Hurley Ryan, and John N. Hurley. The dead manufacturer's second wife, the former Florence Agnes Amberg, was killed in an automobile accident several months ago. His first wife died more than 30 years ago.

Born in Galesburg, Ill., Hurley started out work after a common school education as a fireman on the Burlington railroad. When the big rail strike of 1888 came, he went east to work for a Philadelphia firm selling railroad supplies. It was there that he became interested in inventions and that interest later started him as a manufacturer.

He asserted that "if we finally go all the way toward nationalism, it may be necessary to have compulsory control of marketing, licensing of plowed fields and base and surplus quotas for every farmer for every product for each month in the year.

"In other words," he said, "it may be necessary to make a public utility out of agriculture and apply to it a combination of an Esch-Cummings act and an Adamson act. The five governors of the northwestern states claim they are ready for this kind of thing. Frankly, I don't think we should go this far until we have had a chance to debate all the issues with the utmost thoroughness."

TOOL AND DIE STRIKES BREW

Discrimination Charged in Hiring Men, Says Labor Leader

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Threats of a general strike that would "tie up every shop in town" were heard tonight in the wake of the recently-settled strike of tool and diemakers in three Michigan cities.

Jay J. Griffen, chairman of the joint strike committee of the Mechanics Educational Society of America, which called the strike, said that unless employers stop discrimination against former employes who walked out, and put these men on the payroll as they agreed in the strike settlement, a general strike will be called in 36 to 48 hours.

"If a general strike is called, it will be a real one," said Griffen. "It will tie up every shop in town."

Griffen's statement came shortly after Harry Harrison, general secretary of the M. E. S. A., had protested to A. J. Barnaud, district code director for Michigan, that the society was not in favor of the present code for tool and diemakers, reported in dispatches from Washington as about to be passed by the recovery administration. Barnaud, in turn, advised N. R. A. officials in Washington of the society's protest against the code, which Harrison said was contrary to the spirit of the N. R. A.

Griffen said that employers, specifically jobbers and a few large manufacturers, are refusing to take their former employes back, and declared that these men have been given the "run-around" when they applied for work at employment offices. In all the agreements between the employers and the M. E. S. A., he said, it was agreed by tool and die jobbers and manufacturers that there would be no discrimination against strikers in rehiring men.

He charged that the employers are trying to make the men work seven days a week and "all kinds of hours."

had been no rift with the Soviet diplomat.

Phillips said today the conversations were going forward as rapidly as they could in the normal course of events and some state department officials felt all points which might stand in the way of recognition would be cleared away before Friday.

Litvinoff stayed in his room at the home of Boris Skvirsky, head of the Soviet Union information bureau, most of the day. He was said to have a slight cold and sore throat but was improving rapidly and was ready to resume conferences with the president at any time.

The first organized campaign to block recognition developed during the day with the announcement by the American Alliance that it would seek to bring senate defeat of any ambassador that President Roosevelt might choose to send to Moscow.

The Alliance is headed by Mark L. Hersey, a retired major general. It planned to have Representative Fish (R-N. Y.), an opponent of Communism, assail restoration of diplomatic relations with Russia in a radio address Saturday night.

RELIEF WORK PROGRAM LAID

Details Will Be Given to Nearly 500 Officials Today

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Nearly 500 officials and relief workers tomorrow will hear from President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, the civil works administrator, details of the plan by which the administration hopes to put 4,000,000 men to work 30 hours a week.

Summoned to Washington to hear at first hand the administration's plan, which goes into effect Thursday, twenty governors, 150 mayors, 250 engineers and other state officials, and 80 relief workers today had signified that they would come.

Special projects that will come under the plan will include swamp drainage in cities, along with highway and street improvement.

Relief for Women

A civil works administration will be set up in each city and county and these will be expected to pass upon and approve the projects. Few of them will come to Washington.

Under the firts move in the arrangement the administration hopes to remove 2,000,000 heads of families from work relief and place them on 30 hours a week at the full pay for such work in their immediate communities. President Roosevelt said this would be done Thursday and that another 2,000,000 unemployed not now on relief rolls would be hired by December 16.

Plans for spreading relief work for women, for additional efforts to relieve farmers and to supply food for the 1,000,000 families that will remain on relief rolls were disclosed today.

Under the plans, every state would have a director of women's work. Thirteen of these have already been appointed.

Plans for including women in the civil works administration are to be taken up at a special conference Thursday.

Hopkins disclosed today that the $250,000,000 fund which congress provided for use on the basis of one federal dollar for each three dollars of public money spent by the states was virtually exhausted. He approved six grants today all of them from another $250,000,000 fund which he may use in any way he sees fit for relief work.

GLASS SALES FOR MICHIGAN TO BE SOUGHT

required to vote before getting sales by the glass, Detroit will be permitted to sell by the glass at the start and as long as local sentiment favors such sales.

Other measures to be presented to the first special session of the legislature were progressing in the council and its sub-committee. One was a bill to permit state banks to come under the federal bank deposit insurance act. Another would allow the administrative board to issue $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 of bonds to pledge with the federal government in return for funds to finance a state institutional building program.

Escaped Prisoners Returned To Ionia

Ionia, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Two youths who escaped from Ionia reformatory Monday night tried to hitch-hike a ride today with a reformatory guard and as a result are back in the institution.

They are Joe Lark, 15, and Terrence Sypher, 21, the former sentenced from Detroit on September 9, 1932, for robbery armed, and the latter sentenced from Washtenaw county for stealing an automobile. They escaped from the reformatory by crawling down the windows of an old cell block which they reached by placing a plank from the laundry building.

After spending the night in a barn they attempted to catch a ride with Ralph Lee, guard, who returned them to the reformatory. This was Sypher's second attempt to escape.

Subway Project Not Full Grant Type

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, said today he would consider the $87,000,000 application of the city of Detroit for subway construction on the usual loan and grant basis, but would not consider the proposal as an all-federal project.

He pointed out that such applications are never considered on a full federal grant basis. He made it clear there is no foundation for reports he had rejected the application.

Railway Yardmaster Held For Accident

Detroit, Nov. 14. (AP)—John Overy, Grand Trunk railway yardmaster, will appear in traffic court Nov. 27 on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He was released Tuesday on personal bond after his arrest Monday night when Arthur White, 10, was injured on his sled by a car which did not stop. Tracing of the car by police resulted in Overy's arrest.

able to make the Apostle Islands, off Ashland, Wis., and were in shelter of one of them. The Apostle Islands are about 30 miles from Bayfield.

(By The Associated Press)

A cold north wind carrying snow flurries and the promise of a moderate cold wave whipped over the state today as widely scattered points reported temperatures were dropping toward a new "low" record for the season.

Zero weather was predicted at Sault Ste. Marie to give upper peninsula residents no respite from a snow storm which covered the area with eight inches of snow in the past two days.

In Detroit, weather bureau officials said the temperature would drop to 10 degrees above zero while chilly "snow skies" indicated continued snowfalls would add to the 6.6 fall of the past three days. A wind velocity of 40 miles an hour was reported by officials at the Wayne county airport.

Steamers Aground

The winds which lashed the waters of the Great Lakes heralded an early close to the shipping season. At Charlevoix the fishing tugs Dawn and Velox, out of Port Washington, Wis., made port safely Tuesday after a long battle with high waves and a 40 mile gale on Lake Michigan. The crews of both boats were near exhaustion from their efforts to keep the craft afloat.

The freighter J. F. Schoellkopf went aground at Menominee, but was freed Tuesday night. Off Long Point, Ont., the steamer D. E. Callender, of Cleveland, was caught on a reef. Neither ship was seriously damaged.

At Marquette, in the upper peninsula, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company ore carrier Marquette took shelter in the harbor from a storm on Lake Superior. Highways in the upper peninsula were kept open in spite of a heavy snowfall, and Marquette reported a temperature of 15 above Tuesday night, with prospects for a drop later.

At Leland a number of large boats sought shelter in the lee of Manitou Island. A construction company, after a battle to save its equipment used in laying a crib at Manitou shoals, abandoned the project for the winter, and moved derricks and barges to Frankfort harbor.

On Lake Michigan, the worst storm of the season drove steamships to cover and prevented commercial fishermen from taking advantage of the opening of the fishing season.

Reports from many central and northern state points said conditions were 'blizzardy." At Ludington a strong west wind brought additional snow to the three inch blanket which covered that vicinity. Temperatures were at freezing with the predictions that the mercury would drop Wednesday.

Lots of Snow

Conditions which caused most residents of the state to button their coats tighter and put anxious looks on the faces of ship captains, however, brought only keen anticipation to the deer hunters, who Wednesday will start into the hardwoods of the state. Tracking conditions were perfect, with the right amount of snow. Officials at the Straits of Mackinac said they have recorded a 30 per cent increase in hunters ferrying to the upper peninsula over the numbers who made the trek in 1932.

Reports of wintry weather came from other portions of the nation. Snow reached a depth of six inches in several midwest and eastern states. At Amherst, Nova Scotia, it rose to a depth of 14¼ inches.

Several inches of snow covered Pennsylvania, and the total at Kane, Pa., reached 27 inches for six days. The West Virginia panhandle likewise was under snow. Snowfall in western New York approached six inches with high winds causing a near blizzard. New York City had snow flurries with temperatures at freezing.

Other reports from the "winter zone": Ohio—Snow to a depth of six inches, 40 mile wind off Lake Erie; air traffic restricted and snow plows working in one district; Wisconsin—snow general with temperatures falling toward zero; Minnesota and the Dakotas—light snow with temperatures ranging from four below to 15 above; Illinois — temperature dropping toward zero and a new November record, light snow.

Wisconsin Farmers Opposed To Strike

Milwaukee, Nov. 14 (AP)—First official tabulation of votes in the post card poll of Wisconsin farmers showed 534 opposing continuation of the farm strike and 510 favoring it, headquarters of the Farm Holiday association and the Wisconsin Co-operative Milk Pool at Madison announced tonight.

Walter M. Singler, milk pool president, said that relatively few ballots, however, had reached headquarters and that he believed additional returns would show a decided trend toward continuing the strike.

In the official count leaders said, there was a steadily mounting majority in favor of instituting recall proceedings against officials who have opposed the strike. Tonight the count stood 515 to 140 in favor of recalling numerous sheriffs and district attorneys.

The yearly food bill for the animals in the London Zoo amounts to over $75,000.

True Bills Returned in Chicago; Penalty Is Death

Chicago, Nov. 14. (AP)—Indictment of a trio of prisoners for the two kidnapings of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, is expected tomorrow.

True bills were reported to have been voted against the three today after Hackett, who had hired a private detective to track down the band that twice abducted him, had gone before the county grand jury to name his captors.

Those held are Frank Souder, of Benton, Ill., Gale Swolley of Peoria and Julius Augustus Jones of St. Charles. Souder is under $200,000 bond; the other pair have not been arraigned.

If the indictment is returned tomorrow all three will be held without bond, kidnaping for ransom being punishable by death in the electric chair in Illinois.

Of the two true bills, the first was reported —to name Souder and Jones for the first abduction in 1931, when Hackett was held prisoner in a house on Front street in Aurora. $75,000 was paid.

The second true bill is understood to allege that Souder, Jones and Swolley seized Hackett last May 27 and imprisoned him in an Aurora garage until he paid $1,500 and promised $10,000 more. Hackett was then freed in Sycamore.

Sought as the head of the gang is Jack Klutas, former university student. Authorities said stories had come to them that Klutas had undergone operations in attempts to change his facial characteristics and the whorls on his fingers to make identification by fingerprints impossible.

CLUES SOUGHT

Los Angeles, Nov. 14. (AP)—Possible clues to the whereabouts of Brooke L. Hart, supposedly kidnaped San Jose youth, were sought here today by sheriff's deputies and district attorney's investigators who checked two reports concerning the disappearance.

Buron Fitts, district attorney, said he was inclined to discount reports a Los Angeles cafe proprietor, whose name was withheld, had identified, from newspaper photographs of Hart, a hatless young man who came to his cafe early Saturday morning in company with "two burly men."

Investigators Jack Chriss and L. James continued to check the report, but they said the young man seen in the cafe apparently failed, in some respects, to fill the description of the missing son of the San Jose department store owner.

High School Girl Swallows Poison

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—Police who investigated the illness of 16-year-old Marie Habel in a high school classroom today reported the girl had swallowed a quantity of poison after she said she had been scolded by her parents because her typing was not done correctly. Physicians said her condition is not serious.

Speedy Red Wings Crush Bruins, 4-2 In Hockey Match

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14 (AP)—The speedy Detroit Red Wings swarmed over the sluggish Bruins for a 4-2 victory tonight in the Boston opening of the National Hockey League.

Even the presence of Eddie Shore did not improve matters for the burly Bruins, who were roundly outplayed as they digested their third straight upset of the brand new season.

Sharp-shooting Johnny Sorrell, who got off to a flying start Sunday night when he scored four goals against the New York Americans, put the Red Wings in front by countering twice in the opening session. The Wings were checked in the second but they drove two more shots through Coalie "Tiny" Thompson in the final period, the successful shots coming from the sticks of Frank Carson, on an assist from Happy Emms, and Ebbie Goodfellow, who ended an easy solo rush with an accurate drive from just inside the Boston blue line.

Harry Oliver opened the Boston scoring without assistance in the second session and during the third last minute of play, Nels Stewart fought his way inside the sturdy Doug Young and Stew Evans and scored with the aid of his wings, Joe Lamb and Vic Ripley.

the chief body of the corporative system, Il Duce said, must become a substitute for the chamber. The proposed reform will not be made immediately because there is insufficient time before the March elections which, therefore, will be conducted as usual.

The rise of the corporative state he described as "coincident with the decadence of socialism," and maintained that the new system could be adopted in foreign countries.

Turning to European affairs, Mussolini said the growth of the United States and Japan meant the eclipse of Europe.

Europe, he added, however, "could still progress if it would display even the least possible quantity of cooperation among its component nations."

U. P. TRUCKERS TO MEET HERE

Tariff Recommendations To Be Made at Thursday's Session

Upper peninsula operators of common and contract carrier trucks, holding permits under the Michigan public utilities commission, will meet at the L. & L. Trucking Service offices, 511 Ludington street, Thursday morning, Nov. 16, beginning at 10 o'clock. A luncheon will be held at the Delta hotel at noon.

The meeting is sponsored by the Upper Michigan Permitted Freight Carriers' association, which was recently organized at Iron Mountain. An important decision regarding the tariffs, classification and contract carriers' rates will be decided upon and this information will be submitted to the public utilities commission as suggested rates for this territory.

Claude W. Tobin, Escanaba, inspector of the state utilities commission, stated yesterday that after Dec. 1 the department will invoke its authority to impound all motor vehicles, operating for hire without the necessary state permits. Carriers are taxed on a ton-mile basis as follows: Less than 11,000 pounds, one mill per mile; 11,000 to 15,000 pounds, one and a half mills per mile; and over 15,000 pounds, two mills per mile.

Mr. Tobin said yesterday that privately owned trucks engaged in hauling milk and cream to dairies, creameries, cheese factories and condenseries may be exempted from the tax upon application to the state utilities commission, providing specified requirements are complied with.

Slayer Of Largest Buck To Get Camp Site from I. S. Co.

The I. Stephenson company, of Wells, is offering to give a 40-acre hunting site free to the person killing the biggest buck in upper Michigan during the hunting season. All that is required is a photograph of the buck with an affidavit as to the date and place killed and the dressed weight of the deer.

Colonel W. A. Bergin, state conservation chief in the upper peninsula, and Peter Trudell, Jr., president of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's association, are to be judges in the contest. All entries are to be forwarded to The Stephenson Editor, The Northern Sportsman, Marquette. All entries must be postmarked by midnight, Dec. 15.

The "forty" which is being given away is one ideally suited for a hunting camp. It is situated in Dickinson county, a short distance from the station of Alfred on the E. & L. S. railway and is easily accessible by car. Ford river runs through the center of the land and the natural beauty of the spot is such that it should prove a desirable location for a summer camp.

Already considerable interest has been manifested in this unusual offer and many of the smaller bucks will pass unmolested by hunters in their desire to secure a double trophy—the deer and the hunting site.

A photograph of the winning buck will appear in the January issue of The Northern Sportsman.

Bridge Engineer Tours Peninsula

Lester Millard, Lansing, head of the bridge division of the state highway department, arrived in Escanaba yesterday to begin a tour of inspection of various bridge projects in the upper peninsula.

He will go to Iron Mountain today to inspect in company with Wisconsin highway officials the new interstate bridge over the Menominee river. Later, he will look over the bridges at Republic and elsewhere.

Charles Heffern, Lansing, assistant to the state maintenance engineer, will come here today to confer with Ben F. Sparks, district highway engineer, and other officials, in connection with the federal administration's recently announced work-relief road maintenance program.

Mogan Predicts Sales Tax Will Get 40 Million

The three per cent state sales tax will yield an annual revenue of from $36,000,000 to $40,000,000, under present business conditions, James E. Mogan, managing director of the state board of tax administration, announced here yesterday. During the first three months, the collections totaled almost nine millions, but there are still some taxes that remain to be paid which will add appreciably to the figure, he said.

Addressing a luncheon meeting held here yesterday in honor of Horatio J. Abbott, collector of internal revenue and Democratic national committeeman, Mr. Mogan explained various phases of the sales tax law.

"When the legislature wrote the sales tax bill it probably wrote the clearest and most concise piece of legislation on record," Mr. Mogan said. "It specified in no uncertain terms what the sales tax is, its purposes, how it is to be collected and the penalties that are provided for violations. It provided where the receipts should go; that 12 millions should be for welfare, 19 millions for general state purposes, and $700,000 for the University of Michigan and Michigan State college."

In his brief talk, Mr. Mogan did not refer to the school aid phase of the sales tax. At the last session, the legislature also passed a bill, providing that after the $31,700,000 total had been allocated for welfare, state government and universities, the remainder of the receipts would revert to a supplementary school aid fund.

Mr. Mogan lauded the sales tax as a means of obtaining governmental revenue. While the property tax has a delinquency average of 20 per cent in the upper peninsula and 40 per cent in lower Michigan, he said the sales tax is coming in without any delinquency. It provides an assured source of income, he said.

HE PAYS TAX, TOO

James E. Mogan, who as director of the state board of tax administration has supervision over the collection of the retail sales tax, stepped up to the cigar counter at the Delta hotel yesterday noon and asked for a package of cigarets.

He forked over 15 cents.

"Another penny, please," Ruby Monson, the cigar counter clerk, informed him.

"What for?" asked Jim, registering surprise.

"Sales tax," she replied.

HUNTERS COMING

Red caps and red mackinaws are familiar objects upon the streets at the present time. They belong to the hordes of hunters who are arriving daily to take advantage of the open season for deer. There is at least a foot of snow in the woods at the present time much having fallen within the past few days, ending with a regular blizzard yesterday. Old time woodsmen and hunters predict that there will not be so many deer killed this season as they are becoming scarce and have already taken to the swamps, nature's sanctuary.

PLAN ELECTRIC PLANT SURVEY

City Manager F. R. Buechner was authorized to consult with various reputable engineering firms regarding cost of making a survey here relative to construction of an electric generating plant.

Manistique had a similar survey made during the past summer for which $500 was paid the firm doing the work. However, at the Schoolcraft county seat, an appraisal of the disitribution system was necessary as it is privately owned. This would be unnecessary here due to the fact that the distribution system is now owned by the city, and this, it is expected would materially cut down the cost of the survey.

The city manager reported on negotiations which had been carried on unsuccessfully with the power company, from which they now purchase current, relative to a decrease in rates and a record of the negitiations was upon resolution written into the commission's file as a matter of record.

Reports on a cursory investigation into the advisability of building a municipal plant were made during the session by members of a special committee named at a recent meeting of the commission. The committee made trips to Menominee and to Manistique, two cities that are contemplating construction of such plants, and obtained much information of value.

While immediate construction is not contemplated, the contract with the power company having three years to run, it is pointed out that it will take some time to have the survey made and to care for all legal details which such construction would necessitate and that by starting now things will not have to be rushed and all will be in readiness to go ahead with the proposed project when the time comes.

A letter from Phil Hupy offering to donate a strip of land along several plots of ground desired for right-of-way purposes in the northern portion of the city was read and accepted.

Gust Lierman also appeared and requested that the city agree to maintain a hockey rink at the boat harbor at the foot of Tenth street. This matter has already been cared for by action at a previous meeting, but through a misunderstanding sports fans believed that there was to be no hockey rink this year.

Presentation of balance sheet statements and income operating statements for the light and water utilities completed the business of the evening.

H. W. Snyder left yesterday for Round Lake where he will spend a week hunting.

Season Opens Today; License Sales Almost Double Last Fall

An army of Gladstone hunters far larger than last year will take to the woods today or some time during the season in quest of deer. This was indicated yesterday when a checkup revealed that 210 permits had been sold as compared with 110 on the day before the opening of season a year ago.

This is attributed to a big extent to reduction of the hunting fee from $3.75 to $2.25 and also to the fact that this fall a rifle may not be carried on a small game permit, whereas a year ago a defect in the game laws permitted this and the situation led many to take advantage of it.

That the sport is becoming more popular with members of the sex reputed to be weaker and more gentle is seen in the fact that the number of women taking out permits has increased.

Many local hunting parties left here yesterday and last night for camp so as to be out at daylight this morning and others are planning on going out this week-end.

Downstate autos bearing hunters and duffle continue to pass through the city. It was reported yesterday that one southern peninsula party was found to be on their way home already having come unprepared for severe weather.

The Whitefish River country is again proving a popular place for hunters and many parties are already encamped there or settled in tents along the way to Eighteen. Land owned by the Northwestern Cooperage and Lumber company from "18" north is again posted and is being patrolled. Hunters lacking permits from the company will be barred from hunting in this area.

WOOD LOT MAY BE PURCHASED

Commission Takes Up Matter; Welfare Distribution Discussed

Purchase of a 40 acre tract for use as a municipal woodlot was conditionally approved by the city commission in session Monday night. Acceptance of the tract is contingent on a satisfactory report as to approximate cordage and kind of wood the land will yield. The estimate is to be made within a week by a competent woods cruiser.

Offer of the property and stumpage at a figure of $75 was made by Eric Johnson and John Huit, owners, after City Manager F. R. Buechner had unsuccessfully attempted to locate a suitable tract. Cedar and pine of marketable size were reserved by the owners in making their offer, but it was agreed that if the city wished to cut these trees at the same time as the fuel was being obtained that the owners would pay the rates usual for cutting of posts and pulp wood.

It was estimated by Johnson, one of the owners, that between three and four hundred full cords of fuel wood could be obtained from the tract. The trees are maple, beech, ash and poplar.

The necessity of immediately obtaining a woodlot was stressed by the city manager. Fuel must be furnished to a number of widows and others. If purchased, men could be put to work cutting and the project would provide some work relief. Trucking the wood to Gladstone around the head of the bay could be done, it is estimated at about two dollars per cord and after the bay freezes, for half of that so that the cost per cord should not go over three dollars and possibly less.

Merchants Appear

A group of merchants including B. R. Micks, Matt Gunter and Jens Wheaton appeared before the commission relative to distribution of welfare orders. A table showing the average amount of orders issued per month for the last three months and average amount per month which each of sixteen different local merchants received was presented for perusal of the group. The figures revealed that two stores were receiving a far greater amount of the business than any of the others. However, it was explained by City Manager Buechner that this was through no fault of the welfare department.

In cases where the applicant for aid has sworn that he is indebted to no local grocer or butcher, it is the policy of the local welfare department to allow the person to have the order issued upon a store of their own choosing. In these instances, personal preference as to owner or the attraction of lower prices, it was believed, guided the individuals and were pointed to as possible reasons for a good share of the orders going to certain stores.

Where the case history card of the applicant reveals that he owes a merchant a grocery bill, it is insisted that the order be drawn on the store to which the person is indebted. One of the merchants present stated he believed that some persons were receiving orders on stores other than the one to which they were indebted. The possibility of the person being indebted to more than one was then pointed out and in cases where the person owes more than one, it was offered to rotate the orders among the various creditors so far as possible.

DEER HUNTERS READY FOR KILL

'33 Season Opens Today As Hundreds Apply for Licenses Here

This morning the annual trek of the red coat army will invade the lair of Michigan's deer in the beginning of a two week campaign which is estimated to bring a kill of approximately 20,000 male animals. Last year some 55,000 deer hunters took to the woods and with somewhat bettered business conditions this year, it is estimated that approximately 60,000 persons will take out deer permits. Although it is almost impossible to obtain an exact check on the number of deer killed, it is estimated that one buck is shot for every three hunters.

Large groups of local hunters who have spent considerable time the past several weeks putting their camps in ship-shape condition for their week or two of hibernation away from the haunts of civilization, left yesterday and earlier this week in order to be on the grounds ready for the opening day's festivities. Monday it was reported that approximately 200 deer licenses were sold at the two local agencies to resident hunters.

Purchase Supplies

Swarms of lower peninsula and out-of-state hunters have been flooding the city the early part of this week, many of them obtaining huge supplies of provisions, clothing, and hunting supplies at local stores at their last stop before venturing into the woods. Resident licenses this year have been reduced to $2.25, while non-resident licenses will cost purchasers $25.00.

Operating under the one-buck law, killing of does is illegal, and only animals having antlers three or more inches in length are legally subject to hunters' bullets. Dogs may not be used and it is unlawful to hunt or pursue deer while in the water. The use of artificial light is of course also strictly prohibited. The season closes on November 30.

Ideal weather conditions are indicated for today's opening, a few inches of snow enabling hunters to track deer for the first time in several seasons. Snow generally prevails toward the latter part of the season however. Weather is also sufficiently cold to keep meat from spoiling.

Yesterday it was reported that a continuous arrival of lower peninsula hunters caused a waiting line of cars on the Mackinac side of the Straits over two miles in length.

Special Election to be Held Prior to December 10 on Utility Projects

A special election for the purpose of ascertaining the opinion of Manistique voters in regard to the construction of two public utility projects, a sewage disposal plant and an electric distribution system, under the public works act of the NRA, will be held in the early part of December sometime prior to the tenth, according to action taken by the city council at the regular meeting held Monday evening at which considerable discussion was had on both projects.

The proposal for a preliminary survey for a sewage disposal plant at a cost of $300 from the firm of consulting engineers known as Shoecraft, Drury, and McNamee, of Ann Arbor, was accepted upon unanimous vote upon motion of Councilman Cayia, supported by Councilman Lied, with Mayor Harry Eriksen being authorized to make contract with the firm immediately. Notification of acceptance was sent out yesterday morning and a representative of the firm is expected to arrive in the city preparatory to making the survey, within the next several days. Other firms which submitted proposals are Suhr, Berryman, Peterson and Suhr, of Chicago, and Alvord, Burdick and Howson, another Chicago firm.

Vote on Separately

The special election, at which both projects will be voted upon separately, will be held immediately after figures are received of the cost of the sewage disposal system and will not await the completion of the entire survey. A survey of the cost of a generation and distribution plant for electrical energy, was made this summer.

The proposal received from Shoecraft, Drury, and McNamee, calls for the sum of $100 for drawings, detailed estimates of cost, and other necessary data needed in the application for the federal loan if after the project has been approved by the electorate. This sum, together with the $300 paid for the preliminary work, would be credited as a part payment on the larger work of preparing plans and supervision of construction, the proposal states.

In the event that the project is endorsed by the voters, it was stated that storm water sewers would be required to be constructed in various sections of the city, especially in the business districts of the east and west side where present sewers seem to be inadequate to handle water following a heavy rainfall.

The communication received from Schoemaker, Drury, and McNamee, concerning a survey and report on sewerage, sewage disposal, and charges made for the service, reads in part as follows:

In order to make a survey it will be necessary for some member of our firm to visit your city and spend a few days in the field. Following the visit, using information which the city has made available to us in the form of existing sewers, a general plan for sewage and sewage disposal can be prepared and estimated and reported upon. This report, when finished, would be of a nature such that it can be used as a basis for a popular vote by the electorate and as a basis for an application to the federal government for financing the work under the Federal Emergency Public Works Administration.

We will make a study and report immediately, and for this service will charge $300 payable upon completion and acceptance of the report. If the city decides to go ahead on the matter and obtains a favorable vote from the electorate, our firm will be in a position to make out that part of the application which relates to engineering matters.

We will cooperate with city officials, furnishing complete and detailed estimates of costs and the necessary drawings to go in the application. An additional charge of $100 will be made, payable upon the city's convenience after the application has been made.

If the city is successful in financing the work and decides to proceed with construction, upon proper authorization, the necessary plans, specifications, contract documents, and the like, will be prepared and we will also furnish the necessary engineering supervision of construction, all in accordance with the best engineering practice and in harmony with the wishes of the city in these matters.

The engineering fees which will be charged for the work will be in harmony with the minimum fees set up in the proposed code of fair competition for the Professional Engineers' Division of the Construction Industry submitted to the NRA. . . . .

It is understood that in the working out of the engineering fees, the amount of $400, which the city will have previously paid for the preliminary work, will be taken into account and will be credited as a part payment on the larger work of preparing plans and supervising construction.

It is impossible to estimate as to what the sewage disposal system will cost prior to a survey. With our general knowledge of your city, however, we can say that in our opinion the sewage treatment plant can be of a rather simple type and the entire problem can be handled at a reasonable cost and a considerably lower cost than prevails in many cities of this size. You have natural advantages of a large river for the final disposition of treated sewage and with this the advantage that you have a relatively small number of sewer outlets which will have to be taken care of. . . . . .

TOWNSHIPS GET STATE FUNDS

Homestead Land Money Amounts to $9,067.38 for County

State funds as provided by the homestead land statute according to provisions of Act 116, Public Acts of 1917 as amended by Act 305, are swelling the coffers of township treasurers this week as the sum of $9,067.38, based upon an allotment of seven cents per acre, were mailed Monday afternoon by Laura Williams, county treasurer. According to the act, the sum of ten cents per acre is stipulated to be paid the several townships by the state for lands returned for delinquent taxes, now in the hands of the state conservation department.

Inability of the state to pay the full amount named, resulted in the payment of eight and three-quarters cents last year and seven cents per acre this year. Largest checks were mailed to Seney, Manistique, and Doyle townships.

Respective amounts are as follows:

CLIFFS COMPANY SUBMITS OFFER

Tentative Figures Provide for Energy at 2c Per K.W.H.

A tentative offer to provide electrical energy to the city of Manistique at a rate of two cents per kilowatt hour was received here by the city council from the Cliffs Power and Light company it was announced Monday evening at the regular meeting of the city council. The offer was made in response to an inquiry by Mayor Harry Eriksen.

It was stated in the proposal, however, that figures submitted were not to be accepted as final or considered as the basis for a contract until further consideration was given to the matter by officials of the Cliffs company, other than O. D. McClure, general manager, author of the communication. It was further stated that the company would have to have some idea of the amount of consumption before considering the building of transmission lines.

It is understood that the following figures submitted by Mr. McClure are based upon the construction of transmission lines to the city by the power company and delivered to the city limits: two cents per KWH for 500,000 KWH annually, and if the quantity is raised to 1,000,000 KWH a price of one and three-quarters cents would be made, intermediate steps to be prorated in steps of 100,000 KWH.

Must Purchase Both

At Monday night's meeting it was revealed that the council on October 27 asked the Manistique Light and Power company whether their distribution plant was for sale, and if so, asked for an estimate as to the probable selling price. The following letter in regard to the inquiry was received from Edward Sheahan, superintendent of the Manistique Pulp and Paper company, and read at the meeting:

Honorable Mayor and City Council, Manistique, Michigan.

Gentlemen:

Your letter of October 27th has been given careful consideration by the officers of our company.

We wish you to understand at the outset that The Tribune is sincerely interested in your proposal, but there are a number of factors that bring up obstacles to agreement.

As you are aware, The Tribune for the last two years has operated its plant in Manistique at an enormous loss. In spite of the heavy drain we have kept the plant operating, to the benefit of your citizens in the way of payrolls and tax receipts. In the face of the most stringent times, when other plants closed down, we did everything we could to carry on.

We are still operating the plant notwithstanding these difficulties, and as a result have been forced by circumstances to deal with this matter in a specific light. We wish to emphasize that the investments of The Tribune in Manistique are in fact a single investment. We regret we are unable to treat the matter in any other light. You are aware that we once made an attempt to sell a part of the investment but it did not work out satisfactorily. From our experience on that occasion, we feel that an attempt to divorce the properties during these times is strictly inadvisable.

If we are to consider the sale of the utility property now, we would want to do so only in connection with the sale of the entire investment—the paper mill and light plant as well. If there is any possibility of your being able to negotiate a sale of the whole investment in Manistique, you will find us willing and ready to talk, and on a basis that will be eminently fair, and at a surprising discount, in view of the heavy investment in your city.

Under these considerations, if you have suggestions to offer, please let me know in time to make arrangements to have our Minneapolis officers present.

Respectfully,
Manistique Pulp and Paper Co.
Per: Edward Sheahan.

Members of the city council are of the opinion that construction of a distribution plant instead of both a generating and distribution plant would be more favorable at this time because electrical energy can be purchased about as cheaply as it can be generated and more immediate profit could be derived in proportion to the size of the investment.

Voters' opinion on the plausibility of the construction of a municipal distribution plant will be obtained in a special election to be held during the first week of December when another proposed public works project will be voted on—a municipal sewage disposal plant.
